Same Old Market.
A $3,000,000,000 Plan.
Those Stock Dividends.
Yellow Fever Cure.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

SAME old market, James Speyer's statement, "Prosperity is our natural condition," seems to be true, with high blood pressure added.

A Stock Exchange seat sold for $525,000. The tired ticker fell more than an hour behind almost from the start, with more than 6,000,000 shares bought.

WHERE the top of this market is located, nobody knows. But some are destined to find out where the BOTTOM is some day, and hit it pretty hard.

Meanwhile, gentlemen on a margin are saying with Louis of France, "After us, the flood."

THOSE that don't gamble hear interesting stories about wonderful "winnings" of those that do gamble.

Gamblers that win tell you all about it. But they don't tell you the end of the story. Keep that in mind, if you imagine that you have missed an opportunity.

GOV. BREWSTER, of Maine, tells a conference of governors at New Orleans about Herbert Hoover's plan for "preventing panics and lack of employment."

It is a big plan and includes holding in reserve three billion dollars' worth of public works, contracts for emergencies to take up slack in employment.

THE knowledge that three billion dollars' worth of work on public and quasi-public contracts could be awarded at any time to meet an emergency would strengthen confidence and take care of the emergency if it came.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, in his last annual message to Congress, will recommend a plan for farm aid, including, it is said, "unified co-operative marketing" with federal support. "Keep the government out of business" is all right for a slogan, but some things the government must do if they are to be done at all.

A BOSTON insurance company got $1,000,000 under the alien property bill and will distribute the money to stockholders in the form of a "stock dividend," paying no income tax. Not a bad idea.

The overworked doctor, lawyer, merchant, paying income tax on his personal earnings, not allowed any deduction for "depletion," although he is wearing out mind and body, would like to declare a stock dividend on himself. But he can't.

NOGUCHI, Japanese scientist, died of yellow fever, while seeking a remedy for that disease on the Gold Coast, representing the Rockefeller Foundation.

Prof. Kuczynski, German scientist, also fighting yellow fever, contracted the disease. He put some of his blood into the veins of a Rhesus monkey, which also got yellow fever.

Let anti-vivisectionists groan, it was a good idea.

AS A result, Prof. Kuczynski announces discovery of a remedy for the yellow fever, which he calls "bacillus hepatotrophicus."

Hitherto the only protection was in destroying mosquitoes that planted the germs in men's blood.

BEFORE he started to the North Pole and his death, attempting to rescue the Italian fliers, Roald Amundsen said to a friend: "Make me a free man. See that my debts are paid."

The old explorer could not feel free if he died in debt.

All of his debts, amounting to less than $4,000, are paid.

Friends paid 15,000 kroner for Amundsen's 51 medals, 33 of which were gold.

THE biggest fortunes are not always left by the greatest men.

Schubert, greater than a million ordinary millionaires, left $10 worth of property. Many unpublished songs sold for $2.

Spinoza, great Jewish philosopher, who has taught millions how to think, left as the most valuable asset in his "estate" a pocket knife with a silver handle.

But he left a name worth more than the total capitalization of General Motors.

KING GUSTAV, of Sweden, is 70, and his people, deciding to give him a present, have started a fund of $1,000,000 to fight cancer. A useful gift. Six grams of radium have been bought for $335,000.

That mysterious substance, bombarding space with its particles, will be fighting cancer, saving life, long years after King Gustav passes on to tell his ancestor, Bernadotte, the French lawyer, whose son was made king by Napoleon, how it feels to sit on a throne.

GEN. DAWES says he'll be glad to quit the vice presidency and return to banking in Chicago. He will find it a busy, profitable business if the present price of call money keeps up. It is a favor now for a bank to lend to its established customers at 6 per cent, with call money at 7 or more. But that won't last forever.

MRS. HINCHLIFFE, widow of the British airman lost at sea with the Honorable Elsie Mackay, has heard from her husband. News came through a Ouiji board, then through a medium: Miss Mackay went down with the machine; he got free and was drowned off the Azores. The widow says she can prove it.

UNLESS the dead aviators ghost is floating in our atmosphere within 500 miles of the earth, he must be billions of miles away, in which case this earth is invisible to any telescope he could find. How a drowned spirit, rising from the water, starting for the next stopping place, could tell just where it went down, is not clear.

MRS. SPRINGER — LOUIS SPRINGER

While more than a score of policemen with grenades, tear bombs, automatics, rifles, shotguns and a machine gun sought to drive her husband from their houseboat on Ohio River, below Sewickley, Mrs. Louis Springer laid between two mattresses, grazed by many bullets.

HOUSE RIDDLED

The house literally was riddled by bullets, some of which pierced both walls and went ricocheting out into the river. Here is the wall and the window which was the police target and contains, according to a police count, more than 140 bullet holes.

WITNESS CLAIMS HE BRIBED LIEUT.

The Woods Run Police Station was a storehouse from which he purchased moonshine for delivery to scores of customers on the North Side, Abraham J. Berkowitz, of 3045 Preble avenue, the government's star witness in the trial of 46 politicians, police officials and others for conspiracy, declared in a sensational tale charging police corruption in United States Court today.

Berkowitz, familiarly [illegible] among racketeers and described during the trial as "Abie," described several instances of giving money to police officials and his attempts to enlist the aid of State Assemblyman Samuel J. Grenet, Republican leader of the Twenty-seventh Ward, for relief from police oppression.

OPPOSE TESTIMONY

His attempted description of an alleged visit to Grenet at the Fort Pitt brewery was the occasion for strenuous objection by defense counsel, resulting in a 45-minute delay of the trial for a side-bar conference with Judges R. M. Gibson and W. H. S. Thomson. Following the conference, Government Counsel Ralph H. Smith escorted the witness through a series of alleged incidents apparently tending to lead up to the declared visit.

The appearance of Berkowitz on the stand stirred the crowded courtroom, as there had been some uncertainty as to his being called. He has been considered the chief contributing factor to the grand jury probe of North Side conditions because of his revelations after 67 raids by the police, charged in an effort to put him out of his widespread business in booze distribution to give the trade to organized traffic by police and politicians.

A dark undersized man, about five feet tall, with a vividly-colored scarf, Berkowitz sat at ease on the witness stand, giving his testimony volubly, so rapidly that he was frequently halted, and chewing gum vigorously during lulls in the examination.

Berkowitz declared that an attempt had been made to prevent his testifying before the grand jury, Elliott D. Donley, described by the witness as friendly to Grenet, came to him and asked him not to say anything about Grenet, the witness declared. Donley also said to him that he had been talking to Charles

POLICE BOMBS ROUT SNIPER; 3 SHOT

A three-hour gun battle between Louis Springer, 40, who lay hidden in his houseboat in the Ohio River below Sewickley, and more than a score of police and peace officers from riverside towns, ended last midnight when Springer, suffering several wounds, surrendered.

Two constables among the force firing at the boat also were wounded.

The shooting started, police say, over Springer's resentment at search of his boat for a fugitive.

A sub-machine gun, small grenades, high powered rifles and riot guns were used by the police. During the battle, Mrs. Ethel Springer, wife of the boat owner, lay hidden between two matresses on the floor of the boat. She escaped uninjured.

The siege began when Constable Norman Abercrombie and Constable E. P. Shimer, of Justice of the Peace L. V. Gibb's office in Sewickley, went to the boat with a warrant for a man named Murphy. Murphy and Springer, said to be pals, yesterday are alleged to have chased Chester Forsythe, 39, a riverman of 1212 Forbes street, from the boat during a drunken argument. Murphy threatened Forsythe with a gun, the latter alleges in information made before Gibb.

Springer resented the visit of the constables and ordered them from the boat at the point of a shotgun. While they were leaving, he fired at them, police say, some of the shot striking Abercrombie in the right shoulder and near the right temple.

Night Club Queen, 2 Daughters in Nobility, Freed

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Mrs. Kate Merrick, who has two daughters in the nobility and is known as the "Night Club Queen," was released from Holloway Prison today. She had been serving a six-month sentence for violation of the liquor license laws by one of her establishments.

Mrs. Merrick was greeted outside the prison walls by her two daughters, the Countess of Kinnoull and Baroness De Clifford, her two sons and her son-in-law, Lord Kinnoull.

Wearing fashionable attire, Mrs. Merrick appeared to be exceedingly well. She said she intended to celebrate her release at the Silver Slipper Club tonight.

STOCK PRICES REBOUND

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Prices bounded forward on the New York Stock Exchange with renewed vigor today, after yesterday's sharp relapse. Wright Aero made one of the most sensational advances ever witnessed in the first hour, soaring nearly $29 to a new record price at $249.87½. Montgomery Ward, Rossia Insurance, Victor Talking Machine, National Biscuit and Curtiss Aero shot up $6.

While trading did not hit the pace set in recent days, buying support came into the market in good volume as many traders found prices attractive at the lower levels. Sales in the first half-hour aggregated 770,000 shares.

WHITNEY WILL SHOWS $194,328,514 ESTATE

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—The world's financial center, used to glib talk about millions, gasped today when it learned that the late Payne Whitney had left a gross estate of $194,328,514 with a net valuation of $178,893,655. This was the largest estate in the history of the transfer tax bureau.

Filing of the estate's appraisal revealed that the financier and sportsman had bequeathed more than $45,000,000 to educational and charitable institutions, including Yale University—his alma mater—the New York Hospital, Cornell University medical school, the New York public library and others.

A residuary trust fund of nearly $26,000,000 was set aside for giving aid to charitable, educational, scientific and literary organizations, at the discretion of the trustees.

LIFE INCOME FOR WIDOW

Whitney's widow, Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney, a daughter of John Hay, a former secretary of state, was given the largest single share of the estate, a life income from $54,202,694. She also received valuable real estate in New York City and Nassau County, furniture jewelry and race horses worth in all nearly three and a quarter millions.

To the New York Hospital, which is co-operating with the Cornell Medical School in plans for a huge medical center here, Whitney left $18,632,176.

$2,823,057 TO YALE

To the president and fellows of Yale University, Whitney bequeathed $2,823,057, a sum overshadowed by donations the millionaire had made to the university during his lifetime for various purposes.

The bequest to the New York Public Library was $6,210,725. Whitney had long been a generous contributor to that institution.

The financier's preparatory school, Groton, at Groton, Mass., was bequeathed $1,129,222.

Other personal bequests included the establishment of temporary life estates in $27,101,347 to Joan Payne Whitney and John Hay Whitney, his children. They will have the income from the funds until they reach the age of 40, when Payne Whitney Grayson, a

Belgrade to Tax Flints in War Over Matches

BELGRADE, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—The Minister of Finance yesterday instituted a monopoly tax on all artificial lighting devices, such as flints and steel. The Croatians recently had declared a boycott against government-made matches to register their disapproval of the government awards of the match monopoly to the Swedish-American match trust. They declared that they would use only briquets and old-fashioned flints.

The Finance Minister instituted his tax in reprisal. All persons possessing fire-making devices or flints must present them to the government by Sunday for registration and taxation, otherwise the holder will be punished as a smuggler.

BLAZE DAMAGES MARKET, SPAN

Fire, following a double explosion, swept through the warehouse of the Pittsburgh Independent Fruit Auction Company, an old frame and corrugated metal shed in the Pennsylvania Railroad produce yards this afternoon, threatening destruction of the Sixteenth Street Bridge, overhead, and causing upward of $30,000 damage. Three alarms were sounded.

Half of the auction building, which extends from Sixteenth to Seventeenth street, with a width of 100 feet, was destroyed. In it was a large quantity of fruit sold during the morning auction, but not hauled away by purchasers.

C. Franzell, president of the auction company, which leases the building from the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, estimated the fruitl oss at $25,000. Firemen estimated the loss on railroad cars at $5,000. The building is the last of the old frame sheds in the produce yards and soon was to have been razed.

Flames swept to a 601car train on the south side of the building, and six cars were damaged before shifting engines pulled them away and the flames extinguished.

The intense heat, bent the guard rails on the Sixteenth Street Bridge and inspectors began examining the supporting steel girders and roadway to determine the extent of the damage.

The cause of the explosion has not been determined. It was stated a coal fire was kept burning to protect fruit from freezing.

WALSH CALLED IN COUNTY GRAFT QUIZ

Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh was called as a witness before the graft-probing grand jury today.

Summoned by District Attorney S. H. Gardner, the veteran police head appeared immediately. He was to be questioned as to knowledge of lottery and liquor law violations and other "rackets."

The end of the probe, now in its ninth week, is "not in sight," District Attorney Gardner declared today at the conclusion of a half-hour conference with Judge James B. Drew.

The county prosecutor and Judge Drew were closeted in chambers and were reported to be reviewing the results of the investigation thus far. Gardner's statement was emphatic.

Reid Crane, bartender, of 4209 Penn avenue, who "escaped" yesterday while waiting to appear before the grand jury, was back at the old stand today when a second raid was made. Yesterday a raid on the place netted some liquor and Crane was taken to the grand jury room. While waiting to be called, he walked out. Judge J. B. Drew issued a bench warrant for his arrest and officers sent to serve it reported they found the saloon in operation again and said they confiscated more liquor. This time they arrested the proprietor, "Stumpy" Pentecost, and Crane.

Acting on information received that slot machines were operating in Glassport, District Attorney Gardner

SHORT $200,000, WELFARE CAMPAIGN IS EXTENDED

With more than $200,000 yet to raise in its campaign for 25 local philanthropies, the Welfare Fund of Pittsburgh has resolved to extend its canvass into next week. The total subscribed to date is $708,681.36. Subscriptions reported today totaled $74,606.54.

The magnitude of the work in which so many thousands of solicitors are engaged in the house-to-house canvass and the hundreds of industrial teams recently organized, Chairman Augustus K. Oliver announced yesterday, it would be necessary to afford these many workers an opportunity to complete their tasks. In the house-to-house canvass, chairmen of the city wards reported $7,981.20 and in the boroughs and townships $4,854.75, but it is pointed out that these represent only partial returns and that a large sum is being raised by the home canvassers.

Today's luncheon at the William Penn Hotel has been set aside especially to hear, as far as possible, the final reports of those who have been engaged, since Sunday last, in the house-to-house canvass. Although the canvass is scarcely half completed, it is believed that the majority of chairmen are succeeding in recording their territories canvassed as 100 per cent.

Employes' teams organized by the wage earners on their own account in hundreds of stores and industrial plants are now only fairly under way and several days more will be required before they can make their rounds. The response thus far reported by industrial teams, indicates liberal contributions to the fund and constitutes the backbone of individual solicitation.

TAR ON RAILS CAUSED CAR DASHES, SAYS OFFICIAL

The runaway street car mishap on Amity street, Homestead, last night, like the one at the same place Tuesday morning, in which 60 persons were hurt, was due to slippery rails, Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, said today.

Buses were being used instead of cars on the route today. In both cases, he declared, the cars were in excellent mechanical and electrical condition, functioned perfectly, and the operators did everything that could have been done to prevent the accidents.

A girl was injured and five persons were pushed out of the door of the car in last night's accident.

In both cases car operators were up against a unique situation, Fitzgerald continued, and one that he, in 30 years of street railway operation here and in Cincinnati, had never experienced before. The street recently had been paved and there is considerable tar on its surface in consequence. The tar, dragged on to the rails by trucks, has created an unprecedented slippery condition which, joined with the steep grade creates a situation with which cars are unable to cope. Efforts to correct the condition, by pouring sand on the rails, and even grinding the upper surface of the rails, have been futile.

SUSPEND OPERATIONS

Temporarily, therefore, the company has suspended running cars there. Buses will be used to trans

PROBERS TOLD VESTRIS WOMEN, CHILDREN DESERTED

EX-MASTER OF LINER CALLED

EW YORK, Nov. 22.— order was given by officers the Vestris to attempt res- of more than 20 women children who hung sus-ded midway between the ter and the ship's deck, eph Boxill, Negro fireman one of the heroes of the aster, testified today.

apt. William A. Banbra, who was in command of the Vestris until two days before its disastrous trip, followed Boxill on the stand.

Cant J. A. Jessup, an aide to States District Attorney I. Tuttle, asked Boxill if any d been given by ship of- get the women and children out when it was found the lifeboat could not be lowered the rest of the way to the water.

"No order at all," Boxill said.

ALL THROWN INTO SEA

He testified the lifeboat remained suspended in mid-air until it overturned, emptying its cargo into the sea.

Boxill also testified that the ash hopper in the steamer's engine room began to leak a day and a half before the ship sank and he saw no efforts made to repair it.

He told how the "black gang" of the liner had to work chained together in the stokehold, with water sloshing about them, while they passed buckets of coal into the only boiler in operation. He was testifying at the federal investigation into the disaster before Commissioner Francis A. O'Neill.

"I became exhausted and sick—so sick that I had to go on deck and lie down," Boxill declared. "This was Monday morning, and I hadn't had any food since 5 o'clock Saturday night.

"For hours we had been working like slaves. When the water was flooding the ship eight firemen and four coal passers were ordered to form a bucket brigade to help bail out the ship. We worked hard and long but it didn't do any good. The water just kept coming in, getting worse all the time."

United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle asked Boxill if the stokers stayed by their posts and obeyed orders as [illegible] as possible. Boxill replied tha[illegible] had.

IGHTS OFF OLICE

C. W. Profator, a constable of Sewickley township, was shot in the left hand about an hour later during the battle to dislodge Springer. Neither of the officers was injured seriously. Springer is in the Sewickley Hospital with wounds in the right side and head.

A short time after Abercrombie was shot, police from Edgeworth and Sewickley, state police from Sewickley and peace officers from Glen Osborne, Sewickley and Sewickley township gathered. Springer shouted defiance to them and kept a hail of flying at the officers, hidden ie river bank.

igh the small boat was rid- h bullets and broken by the n of small grenades, it was not until a sub-machine gun was put into play by Police Chief Frank Sturm, of Sewickley Heights, that Springer showed signs of surrender. Almost naked, he staggered through the doorway and collapsed on the small boat porch. He was rushed to the hospital. His wife was lodged in the Sewickley lockup.

Police are holding Forsythe as a ial witness and are searching urphy.

BRIBED OFFICER, HE SAYS

Faulkner, now police inspector on the North Side, and that Faulkner has said he would let Berkowitz do anything, sell moonshine, or anything, Berkowitz declared.

SAYS HE GAVE BRIBE

He also testified that he had given money several times to Police Lieut. John Lynch in amounts of $20 and $10, once after Lynch had intimated that he could report the sale of moonshine by Berkowitz. He also described money dealings with other officers.

Describing his endeavors to obtain assistance from Grenet, Berkowitz testified that he went to see Donley at "14-something Orchlee street," and that Donley told him, "Don't say nothing. I'll see you later."

Donley came to him the next day, Berkowitz testified, saying, "I asked him to see Grenet." Donley later reported to him, "I couldn't do nothing," recommending that Berkowitz see Grenet, according to the witness. Berkowitz said, "I went to see Grenet at the Fort Pitt Brewing in May, 1925."

At this point defense counsel objected to any conversation with Grenet, as the reputed conversation took place more than three years ago, and would be outlawed by the statute of limitations.

TELLS OF BUYS

Berkowitz testified that in 1925 a policeman, whom he did not identify, called him to the Woods Run station, took him into a back room and solicited an order for moonshine whisky at $2 a gallon. Berkowitz took 25 gallons, he said, and sold it at retail in his Preble avenue saloon at 15 cents a drink, 40 cents a half pint and 75 cents a pint.

Twice a week after that, he said, "I would drive to the side door of the police station. It was almost always open. I took four or five cans, each holding five gallons. I paid $2 a gallon and left the money in a cupboard. Then I would sell it."

GOT SHORT MEASURE

This continued, Berkowitz said, for several years. Then he began to receive short measure. There would be only three or four gallons of whisky in the can, and he telephoned Faulkner and protested, but without getting redress. He stopped buying from the police in December, 1927, he said.

Describing a telephone conversation, Berkowitz quoted Faulkner as saying:

"Wait, I'll fix you."

"The next half hour police raided my place," Berkowitz testified.

He said 15 gallons of moonshine were found in his place and he was fined $100 at the Allegheny police station.

"Did you continue the business?" asked Smith.

"No, I didn't go back to the police station for stuff after that."

"What did you do?"

"I used to deliver whisky for the North Side ring."

Immediate objection was filed to this remark by defense counsel, and Judge Gibson sustained it, ordering it stricken from the records.

The witness charged he delivered to 40 or 50 places in the Woods Run district, mentioning Preble avenue, McClure avenue, Cass avenue and Eckert street. He gave some names but was unable to recall very many, saying "people I saw here."

Asked to describe his operations after he quit delivering, Berkowitz said he conducted a saloon and bought his booze from Harkins.

"Lynch came to my place and gave me a 'Joe Green' card," the witness said.

"'If Joe Green comes to see you it's all right, buy from him,' Lynch told me. In the next two hours Harkins and Martin Burke came to see me. Harkins said, 'I'm Green,'" Berkowitz declared.

Berkowitz said he was told to turn over a list of his customers and he said he gave all the names to Harkins. The next day he said he got 10 gallons of moonshine, that Harkins delivered it and collected $4 a gallon. After three or four weeks Berkowitz said he discovered the booze was no good and he told Harkins he would take no more. A few days later Harkins delivered 10 more gallons and, according to the testimony, Berkowitz said, "if you bring any more stuff like this, I'll break the bottle over your head."

A few hours later, Berkowitz said, he was raided by Lieut. Lynch and taken to the Woods Run station. While there, according to Berkowitz, Faulkner came in, cursing fluently and said to him, "Ain't you got enough, you ——. You made 50 grand. Why not give somebody else a chance to make something."

This brought about a whispered conference between all leading counsel and the jurists and it was 45 minutes before the examination was resumed.

TESTIFIES TO MEETING

Smith then asked the witness to describe his meetings with Donley at various times. The first, the witness said, was a street conference in Preble avenue with Donley, John Harkins and Martin Burke, the last two described by witnesses as the heads of the booze traffic in the Twenty-seventh Ward.

At the alleged street meeting Donley assured the other two that anything Berkowitz had done in transferring to them his list of customers was all right, Berkowitz said.

Berkowitz said his saloon had been closed from January, 1925.

When Prosecutor Smith asked him who told him to close, he replied, "Faulkner told me to close when we talked at the Woods Run Station."

After describing other alleged meetings with Donley, Berkowitz said Donley telephoned him May 9 and said, "Somebody wants to see you."

"I said I would have to go to the Federal Building and he said don't go until I see you," the witness testified. "I saw Donley 20 minutes later at 3047 Preble avenue and he told me about the men's being subpenaed. He asked, 'Who started it?' and I said, 'No, I didn't start it and then I said 'yes.'

"I showed him my subpena and he said, 'Don't tell anything about Sam, about Sam Grenet,' and I said, 'Don't you believe I won't say anything'."

Berkowitz said something about a "punch in the nose," but did not make it clear.

Berkowitz continued:

"Donley said, 'Don't you go until you see Faulkner,' and later he came to me and said, 'I was talking to Faulkner and he said you could do anything, sell moonshine, or anything; I don't blame you.'"

IDENTIFIES DONLEY

When Donley was asked to stand up in the courtroom, he remarked plainly, "I want to stand up," and Berkowitz, on inquiry, identified him, as well as Harkins and Burke.

Berkowitz then told of giving money to Lynch, once $20 and a couple of times afterwards $10, also testifying that Lynch had borrowed his automobile. Lynch told him he was very glad to take over his business, Berkowitz said. At the station, Berkowitz said, Lynch said to him:

"Suppose I should report you are selling moonshine," and Berkowitz replied, "You don't have to say anything," after which Lynch said, "All right," and Berkowitz gave him $10, according to the testimony.

This occurred upstairs in No. 13 Station, Berkowitz said.

Berkowitz described a meeting with Michael Rogan, a policeman, and Tom Olliffe, previously described as a dealer in moonshine, in 1927, and turning $15 over to Rogan and getting a receipt. The purpose of this alleged payment was not made clear.

Once Police Lieut. John Loebig called him on the telephone and said: "You better pay or be raided."

"Do you know Lieut. Arthur?"

He testified further:

"In February, 1928, Arthur," Berkowitz said, "and Acting Lieut. Tom Morgan took away from my place 150 gallons of whisky that was 12 years old. They pinched me and put me in jail. The next morning I was fined $100, but the only evidence that was used against me was a half-pint. Then the next day Arthur and Morgan came to see me.

"Arthur said: 'Abie, I have a search warrant for your place.'

"I said, 'What do you want to search my place for, I have nothing.'

"Well, he searched, and about 10 minutes later Arthur said, 'Abie, I found some stuff,' and he had a half-pint. Well, I gave him $65, and Arthur said, 'Why that wouldn't buy my uniform.'

"The next day I pawned my diamond pin for the rest—$35—and at 6 o'clock that night Tom Morgan was at my door and I gave him the $35."

Close-ups on Court Screen In Booze and Graft Drama

In those old days, which are invariably described as the "good old days," the new saloonkeeper was always willing to spend a fair sum to have his name and title emblazoned on the big front window. JOHN SMITH, PROP., the sign would yell. Things are different today. In the Federal rum trial witness after witness tells that he had no sign at all to proclaim the wonders within, that he just set up a bar and let it go with that. Now why?

"Did they find anything?" Government Prosecutor Smith asked Tom Punckowski, moonshine dispenser, concerning a raid on Tom's place.

"Sure," Tom confessed, "they fined me $100."

A woman stands up for "his" rights:

Q.—You didn't run the saloon; your bartenders took care of it, didn't they?

Mrs. Mary Ranker—Oh, no, I ran it.

"When I went away," testified Joseph Krismanich, "I had a saloon, when I came back a year later I had a restaurant. You want me tell where I was?"

Everybody has been complaining that the witnesses haven't been speaking loud enough. Defense Counsel Prichard has been one of the complainants. And then this happened:

Prichard—The only man you can remember buying liquor from is Stratman?

Witness Krismanich—A little louder, please; I no can hear.

Addicts of near beer will be interested to know that for one brewery's near beer Joseph Lucas paid $12.50 a barrel, for another brewery's $45 a barrel.

Short story: Thirty years ago Anthony Schreffnel and Tom C. Johnson, Jr., were schoolmates and pals. They grew up. Congress declared prohibition. Anthony opened up a place. One day Tom came around. Anthony bought whisky from his classmate. A grand jury indicted Tom. One of the witnesses against him was Anthony, subpenaed by the government.

Edward Heim had two kinds of beer in his place—wildcat beer and near beer. But the near beer, which was not so good, was "on the house" and used only for a "chaser".

Fred Vaupel wasn't certain that alleged Whisky Salesman Stratman was really Stratman. "Maybe," Fred suggested, "if he'd put his hat on I could tell easier."

Ivan Dodenski, the student of seasons: "In the winter I sold bottle beer, in the summer draught beer."

Defense Counsel Coll — Was the Carstairs whisky you sold rye or Scotch?

Witness Gustav Just—I got no idea.

ROTHSTEIN SUSPECTS NAMED

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(INS.)—With new and definite clues in their possession, police declared today they were hot on the trail of the man who killed Arnold Rothstein here on November 4 in room 349 of the Park Central Hotel.

The new leads in the murder of the notorious gambler were furnished by Mrs. Ruth Keyes, petite blonde model who was entertained by three men at a party in Room 349 a few hours before Rothstein was shot for welching on a $300,000 gambling debt.

IDENTIFIES PHOTOS

Brought here from her home in Chicago to view rogues' gallery photographs of suspects, Mrs. Keyes identified photographs of three men who were in the room.

As District Attorney Joab Banten promised within a few days a bombshell development the basis of Mrs. Keyes' information, it became known that Jack "Legs" Diamond, former Rothstein bodyguard, was wanted for questioning by authorities.

NOT SOUGHT AS SLAYER

Inspector John B. Coughlin announced at police headquarters that Diamond is not being sought as the actual slayer.

He is believed, however, Coughlin said, to hold the key to solution of the killing.

Diamond's name is inscribed high in the blue book of the racketeer world. He has been arrested frequently but never convicted.

When Gambler Arnold Rothstein was fatally shot in a New York hotel room, a nearby room was occupied by Mrs. Ruth Keyes, who went back later from Chicago to testify at the police inquiry into the murder. This is the only available photograph of the woman, shown taken by a policeman to the probe.

granddaughter, will inherit the net funds of both her mother and her uncle. On the death of her grandmother she will also inherit the net fund of that life estate.

$182,028,278 IN BONDS

Stocks and bonds held by Whitney totaled $182,028,278. The largest item in these securities was a block of 60,000 shares of the Northern Finance Corporation, a company capitalized at $263,955,616 and organized to look after the vast security holdings of the Whitney fortune. Payne Whitney owned it jointly with an unnamed person, but the latter is believed by the appraisers to be Harry Payne Whitney, the decedent's older brother. Payne Whitney's share in this one investment was valued at $124,231,191.

In addition to the beneficiaries already named, Whitney left $2,823,057 to Charles S. Payson, a son-in-law, of Manhasset, N. Y.; to Samuel Adams Clark, an architect and an old friend, bequests amounting to $917,644, New York real estate worth $77,500 and a legacy of $500,000.

Finley Peter Dunne, creator of "Mr. Dooley," was forgiven a debt of $3,290. He also got a legacy of $500,000.

Identical gifts and a similar legacy went to Eugene Hale, Jr., a New York financier.

Other bequests were: $100,000 to Katherine B. Barnes, of Manhasset, a cousin; $50,000 each to Frank S. Rollins and Elmer D. Gault, employes of Whitney; $25,000 legacies to Clara L. Weithas and Edna M. Blackmar. Henry Allendord, L. Waterbury and Philip Boyer, friends of the financier, were forgiven respective debts of $1,000, $154,101 and $490,033.

The real estate held by Whitney was valued in the appraisal at $3,140,361. The outstanding item was the 587-acre holding in Manhasset, where the Whitney country home, "Green Trees," is situated. It was there that Payne Whitney died on May 25, 1927.

$2,000,000-HOME

The appraisal held the country place at $2,185,756. The Whitney town house and land on Fifth avenue, New York, a wedding gift to Whitney, was appraised at $635,000, while another home in Saratoga Springs, N. Y., was valued at $47,000.

Wearing apparel, furniture and other personal effects in the city residence were estimated to be worth $515,575. Similar articles at Manhasset were listed at $124,338. Whitney's houseboat "Captiva" and his private railroad car "Adios" were booked at $76,000 and $54,000, respectively.

$3,284,392 DEBT

The 29 Whitney automobiles were listed at $35,985.

The debts totaled $3,284,932, comprising chiefly the balance of the millionaire's 1926 federal income tax payment and the same tax for 1927 up to the time of his death.

Transfer taxes paid outside of New York—it is estimated that the federal government and this commonwealth will collect between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 on the estate—totaled $374,140. They were paid in Ontario, Canada; France, Indiana, Maine, Pennsylvania and Washington. Taxes due in Ohio and California have not yet been fixed.

CAR DASH IS EXPLAINED

fer passengers over the dangerous place.

Fitzgerald said he did not think it wise to hold a public meeting for the discussion of the accidents.

He asserted that the fact that the cars which figured in the mishaps were one-man cars had no bearing whatever on the cause of the accidents. An incident occurred in the runaway last night, he said, which suggested that one-man cars might be safer in a crisis than those with a crew of two.

One of the passengers last night, Louis Friton, of Homestead Park, pushed his way to the rear of the car as it was sliding down the hill, and operated the hand brake. The brake was jammed on so hard that after the car came to a stop some difficulty was experienced in unloosening it.

The street car which figured in last night's accident was in charge of Motorman T. J. Mollyneaux, of Swissvale, was ascending the hill, and at Twelfth avenue it started backward.

During the two-block run, the doors opened and Anna Fenus, 19, of 369 West Thirteenth avenue, Homestead, fell into the street. She suffered a sprained ankle and injuries to the head. She was taken to the Homestead Hospital.

Patrolman John Mostyn, who was riding on the car, fought to keep passengers from jumping into the street. He was forced through the doors along with three women and a boy. Curtis Cochran, of West Eleventh avenue, Homestead, a street car motorman, who was a passenger on the car, took the Fenus girl to the hospital.

WALSH CALLED IN QUIZ

TO CONTINUE RAIDS

Other witnesses who testified today included William Doheny, 3 Friendship apartments, Friendship avenue; Martin J. Hoehn, Bennett street; Frank Kalka, South Twenty-second and Wharton streets; Harry Dunbar, 226 Isabella street; Pauline Frisleben, 440 Third avenue; Francis Barszezowski, 2630 Carson street.

The district attorney announced that county detectives will continue to stage raids inside the city, such raids taking place whenever testimony before the grand jury merits an immediate investigation. Raids were made yesterday on six alleged speakeasies in the Strip and South Side districts, and a "bookie" shop in a downtown building also was visited. Operators of the speakeasies were ordered before the grand jury, but no one was found in the bookie shop.

SLEUTHS BEFORE JURY

Two city detectives who are reported to have aided Former Detective P. E. Moran in raiding a lottery several months ago were before the grand jury yesterday. District Attorney Gardner questioned Clarence Raeder and Edward McEntee, the sleuths, to check up on Moran's story. Moran is said to have told the grand jury that he made the raid but was ordered to drop the case by a police official.

WHERE POLICE GUNS BARKED INTO HOUSEBOAT

WHERE "WAR" RAGED ON RIVER BANK

This tiny houseboat, propped up on the Ohio River shore just below Sewickley, was the target for many police guns as Louis Springer, 40, stood them off more than three hours in a heated battle. Police, seeking to arrest a visitor to Springer's little home, pumped bullets from the top of the embankment down into the little boat.

RUSSIAN PEASANTS FLARE INTO REVOLT, SOVIET TEETERS

LITVINOFF

The foundations of the Soviet regime are threatened by a counter-revolution as the peasants rise in revolt against the Stalin dictatorship. Maxim Litvinoff, Commissar of Foreign Affairs, is one of the present leaders.

MRS. TROTZKY

When the Stalin group assumed power in Russia, Mrs. Trotzky, wife of the former head of the Red Army, was among the many former Soviet leaders under Lenin who were exiled from the country for oppositionist activities. They were active in a counter-revolutionary movement, which was nipped in the bud by Stalin and his associates.

TROTZKY

Leon Trotzky, who, next to Lenin, was the most powerful man in Russia, was responsible for the great re-organization of the Red Army. He was deposed from office when Stalin assumed power and was later sent into exile for openly attacking the new regime. Rakowsky, Kameneff, Radek and Krylenko were among those also banned.

VOROSHILOFF

Clemeny Voroshiloff, Commissar of War and head of the powerful Red Army, may be called upon to marshal his troops to quell the present peasant revolt.

STALIN

Will Stalin, supreme head of all the Soviet Republics, be able to withstand the onslaught of the present peasant revolt? He has ruled with an iron hand since he assumed power after Lenin's death and has so far held the reins of Government despite tremendous opposition.

Many Leaders Slaughtered When Near-Revolution Sweeps Provinces

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—A revolt which may crush the already weak props of the Soviet structure and plunge Russia into another counter-revolution is brewing in various parts of the country, according to dispatches received here. The latest counter-revolutionary activities are, paradoxically enough, being propagated by elements which are supposedly to have derived the greatest benefits from the Soviets—the peasants.

The revolt is sweeping across Russia and has already assumed serious proportions, particularly in Rostov, Smolensk, Yuroslav, Stalingrad, Kiev, Minsk and Samara. Although all news dispatches to foreign countries are subjected to an iron censorship, reports received here indicate that the revolt is marked by wholesale murder of Soviet officials. At least seven presidents of local Soviets have been assassinated in the last few days.

BUILDINGS DESTROYED

Soviet buildings in several of the aforementioned cities have been destroyed by angry mobs of peasants.

Responsibility for the uprisings are attributed to the "Kulaks." Their animosity is said to have been aroused by the government's recent questionings of grain. The "Kulaks"—Russian for tight fists—are well-to-do peasants who have become dominant figures in many parts of Russia. Wherever they have become powerful, they are making grain collecting impossible.

NEITHER SEX SPARED

Dispatches from Moscow declare that the enraged peasants spared neither men nor women Soviet officials in their attacks. Librarians, social workers, school teachers and village correspondents were attacked.

Official circles do not regard the revolt as initiated solely by the "Kulaks." They believe officials within the regular Soviet ranks have aligned themselves with the peasants, because of dissatisfaction with the present regime.

Just how far the present revolt will affect the stability of the Stalin government, observers were unable to predict. They point out that the situation is probably far more serious than censored dispatches indicate. They show no hesitancy in declaring that the peasant revolt is the most serious yet faced by the Soviets and may prove disastrous to the Stalin regime. Besides Stalin, the most powerful men in his government are Maxim Litvinoff, commissar of foreign affairs, and Voroshiloff, commissar of war and head of the Red army. It was Litvinoff who submitted the Soviet disarmament proposals at the recent Geneva preliminary disarmament conference.

WIND TOPPLES RIVER BOAT

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va., Nov. 22.—(AP.)—A heavy wind sweeping across the Ohio river yesterday capsized the Charles R. Wilson, river tow-boat, about two miles below Point Pleasant. All members of the crew escaped uninjured.

The boat, owned by the Ohio River Dredging Company, of Huntington, was en route from Ashland, Ky., to Charleston, towing two barges, when it overturned.

Three members of the crew of 15 swam to shore and the others jumped from the capsized boat to a barge and were removed by a passing steamer.

Reporter's Identity Puzzles Captors

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Mystery yesterday enveloped a newspaper reporter arrested last night for the theft of $176,000 worth of Liberty bonds in Los Angeles. Sitting in his cell, dry-lipped and grim-eyed, he astonished his callers by saying:

"If I told my real name I'd be killed. My name is not O'Hara, neither is it O'Neil. It is an honored name of Kentucky and I'd die before I revealed it."

So he sits in his cell while the police strive to unravel the threads of his mystery.

Porto Rican Slays Allentown Woman

Mato was the father of three children, while Mrs. Mory, separated from her husband, is the mother of four.

THIEVES TAKING AUTO SHOOT AT OWNER

E. C. Moore, of 7312 Penn avenue, narrowly escaped death or serious injury early today when he was fired on by three young men he caught in the act of stealing his automobile from in front of his home. One of the bullets fired by the thieves passed through Moore's coat as he chased them in Penn avenue.

On a description furnished by Moore, police later arrested John Fivre, 21, of 7206 Hamilton avenue, and Eli Meyers, 22, of Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg. Both were held for further investigation at a hearing this morning. Moore was called to the police station by Lieut. William Fullerton, who arrested the pair, and he is said to have identified the men as two of the three he found trying to start his machine. Fullerton is searching for the third member of the alleged band.

MOVIE ACTRESS DENIES DRUNKENNESS CHARGE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—A charge that Alma Rubens, screen actress, was "extremely intoxicated" and that she thrust herself into an argument over an automobile collision which led her Negro maid to administer a beating to a Beverly Hills woman motorist drew an indignant denial from the actress here last night. Miss Rubens declared she would ask her lawyer to "protect my interests in the affair."

The charge was made in an affidavit filed in the city prosecutor's office by Mrs. W. N. Schoelwer, of Beverly Hills. Mrs. Schoelwer obtained issuance of a complaint charging Miss Rubens' maid, Edna Clayton, with battery.

The affidavit also declared that Miss Rubens threatened Mrs. Schoelwer with bodily harm during the argument.

The affidavit said Miss Rubens' automobile occupied by the maid and a chauffeur, collided with Mrs. Schoelwer's car, which was parked at a motion picture studio in Hollywood. It was alleged that an argument ensued between Miss Rubens' employes and Mrs. Schoelwer and a friend, Mrs. W. G. Swenson, which was climaxed by the maid seizing Mrs. Schoelwer by the throat and beating her in the face with her fist.

Miss Rubens entered the picture, according to the affidavit, when she heard the argument and came out of the studio, "extremely intoxicated," and told Mrs. Schoelwer that her maid "only done what she should have done. We are all God's children. There is no creed or color."

"Hanging on the side of my car," the affidavit continued, "and smoking a cigaret, the film star said 'Come in and see Harry Schenck. You're not going to get away until this thing is straightened out. You're trying to frame me.'"

The affidavit stated Mrs. Swenson then accused Miss Rubens of "being drunk," whereupon the acress came around the car and said, "I'll smash your nose in." The argument was ended, the affidavit said, when a young woman came out of the studio and led the film star into the office.

After depositing bail for the release of her maid, Miss Rubens indignantly denied the drunkenness and abusive language charges. She said she "went out of the studio to see what was wrong and do what I could to settle whatever dispute there was," but declared "I was not wobbling as they say."

Safe Cracked, Sleuths Take All Day To Reach Scene

WAITING ALL DAY FOR DETECTIVES

Today Fred Geyer, 1705 Beaver avenue, North Side, is telling the story of his long, long wait for city detectives to come to his hardware store to try to find the cracksmen who failed to open his safe and who stole flashlights and electric toasters. Finding the safe in the condition pictured here at 8:30 a. m., Geyer called police, who responded within a few minutes. As they make only summary arrests, they advised him to "leave things as they are," for city detectives always called to make investigations. Hours passed and Geyer waited, not touching the safe nor disturbing the tools used by the thugs. Detectives arrived at 5:30 p. m. in their high-powered car and the investigation is on!

HATCHET FIEND SUSPECT CAUGHT

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—A Negro hatchet man, beaten down by his own handax, was held here today as a suspect in the Omaha, Neb., "hatchet" slayings.

The prisoner, confined to the Bridewell Hospital under close guard, said he was Harry Gonsha, 29 years old. He was arrested early yesterday after he had robbed the home of Alfred Samuelson, city fireman. His description, even to his clothing, fitted that of the man sought for the series of Omaha attacks.

Gonsha carried a hatchet in his belt when he entered the Samuelson home. Fleeing, he was overtaken by Samuelson, who wrested the handax from the Negro's hand and struck him several times, knocking him unconscious.

After questioning Gonsha, Police Captain James Doherty telegraphed Omaha police: "I believe your axman is under arrest here."

"Where did you get the ax?" Doherty asked Gonsha. "I got it next door, in a basement," the suspect replied.

The theft of a handax from some place near his victim's home was an act of the Omaha axman in each of his three attacks.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Although Omaha's hatchet slayer did not swing his weapon yesterday morning as he had for three previous mornings, bringing death to three, seriously wounding another and injuring a fifth, police and citizens maintained another all-night vigil.

Harold Stribling, husband of the woman the killer had abducted from their home and held captive for three hours, after slashing Stribling with a hatchet, is improving at a hospital, where he underwent an operation yesterday to relieve pressure on his brain, caused by four fractures from the hatchet.

Policeman Appears, Thwarts a Holdup

The timely arrival of Patrolman Michael Gigilotti, of the North Side Police Station, frustrated a robbery in Vinial street at Wettach strtet. Three young men, all armed with revolvers, who had stopped Oscar Voegtly, of 908 Wettach street, fled at the approach of the patrolman. Voegtly said he turned and ran when the three stepped out in front of him from behind a hedge and that they had almost overtaken him when they saw the policeman coming toward them.

Hair was shot and killed in a shooting gallery at Morrison, Col., on the night of July 12 last.

Hoover Works on Speech As Battleship Races South; Lands Fish

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN,
International News Service.

ABOARD U. S. S. MARYLAND (Via Arlington, Va., Radio Station), Nov. 22.—While the Maryland ploughed southward today at 17 knots an hour, 150 miles off the Mexican coast, President-elect Herbert Hoover, wearing a yoeman's cap pushed far back on his head, spent some time at his desk weaving the genial mood of a successful fisherman into the first speech of his good-will tour which will be delivered at Amalpa, Honduras, on Sunday.

The President-elect, an ardent angler, had full cause to feel happy over his fishing exploits on Wednesday.

Even before the launch bearing the fishing party returned to the Maryland, Mrs. Hoover, watching through glasses at the rail of the warship, noted with jubilation that the expedition was a success. The launch was two miles away, but clouds of flying spray could be seen where a fighting dolphin was churning up the water.

"They have caught something that is beating up a tremendous fuss," remarked Mrs. Hoover.

The fishing was done in 500 fathoms (3,000) feet of water and it was twilight before the Hoover fishing party returned. A searchlight played on the starboard gangway while the President-elect and his fellow anglers boarded the ship, their catch being carried in canvas bags.

A canvas sheet was spread upon the quarterdeck as the finny victims of the anglers' skill were spread out to view.

WIFE ENTHUSIASTIC

Mrs. Hoover was enthusiastic as the big fellows were tumbled upon the canvas and even some of the ship's officers said they had never seen finer fish.

"Fine, daddy," exclaimed Mrs. Hoover.

The President-elect beamed, but whispered softly aside:

"It took me 15 minutes to land that big fellow."

George Akerson, secretary to Mr. Hoover, hooked 20 pounds of bonitas and three newspaper correspondents added 60 additional pounds to the fine frying pan goods.

Some of the fish were not yet dead and they flopped upon the canvas as though they found it no honor to be hooked even by a presidential party.

"We will all have a fine breakfast tomorrow," remarked Mrs. Hoover.

The Maryland has passed the line of Mexico and Guadalajara and should reach the northern line of Guatemala Friday evening, the fifth day out from San Pedro.

Mr. Hoover was much interested in the ship's newspaper, "The Evening Hurricane," which printed a radio dispatch from New Orleans saying that Gov. Brewster, of Maine, had presented to the governors' conference a program for $3,000,000,000 for public works contraction to give employment in dull times. Mr. Hoover sponsors this project, which has already been approved by engineering societies. It was outlined by Mr. Hoover in his acceptance speech in August.

The weather was again warm and bright today and the top deck of the warship took on the appearance of an ocean liner with deck golf, quoits, shuffleboard, tennis, medicine ball and even baseball. There is plenty of opportunity for the members of the Hoover party and the ship's officers to get outdoor exercise.

There are only two deck chairs on the man of war. The President-elect occupied one for some time and Mrs. Hoover the other. They sat in the warm sun and the balmy breeze, amused at the waggish antics of the deck golfers who were compelled to take from five to ten strokes to "hole" as the motion of the ship sent the ball from its course.

H. P. Fletcher, American ambassador to Italy and an authority on Latin America, who is accompanying the President-elect, has fully recovered from his slight eye trouble which developed before he left San Pedro. He has been under care of Dr. Bencare, the ship's surgeon, but has not been confined to his quarters.

There has not been a single case of sea sickness so far.

WOMAN SAVED FROM CHAIR

ATLANTA, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Fula Elrod Thompson was saved from the electric chair yesterday when Gov. L. G. Hardman commuted her death sentence for murder to life imprisonment.

The woman was sentenced to death from Murray county in 1927 with her husband, Clifford Thompson, and a Negro servant, Jim Hugh Moss, for the murder of Coleman Osborne, a merchant, living near Chattsworth.

Thompson and the Negro were executed at the state prison at Milledgeville several months ago, each going to his death declaring he was innocent.

MACKEY SAYS DRY DUTIES HAVE CORRUPTED POLICE

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Formation of a federal-state-city organization for the enforcement of prohibition laws, was proposed by Mayor Harry A. Mackey yesterday at a meeting of city council. With Harry C. Davis, director of public safety, the mayor asked for 200 extra policemen with automobiles and motorcycles to serve as a "bandit prevention squad." The request was referred to a sub-committee.

Mayor Mackey attributed the alleged corruption of police as revealed by the grand jury investigation of bootlegging and gang murders to the requirements of liquor law enforcement.

"I am in full sympathy with Director Davis on the creation of the bandit squad," Mr Mackey told the councilmen, "and I approve the request for 200 men. It is the fundamental duty of the police to protect life and property, but now they have an added duty to help enforce the liquor laws.

"This requirement causes police to do espionage work and test liquor. That has been the fundamental cause of criticism of the police force in every big city in the United States.

"I advocate the devotion of men and money to the promotion of an organization comprising the United States and the state authorities to relieve the police force of that duty which has been its downfall in nearly every city of the country—that is prohibition enforcement. Banditry has been one of the results of the attempts to enforce the liquor laws."

Jaworski's Cousin Held in W. Va. Jail

NEW CUMBERLAND, W. Va., Nov. 22.—Three members of the Warzensky gang, indicted here in connection with a series of robberies, were sentenced to terms in the state penitentiary at Moundsville by Judge J. Harold Brennan. Joe Zuber and Joe Yokovich drew nine years each, while Stanley Warzensky, 18, drew five years.

An indictment charging George Warzensky, leader of the gang and a cousin of Paul Jaworski, with being an accessory to the fact in connection with the robberies, was nolle prossed, but he was held in jail without bond, pending an investigation.

Jilted!

ANNE LIVINGSTON

When Franklin Hardinge, 61, head of a Chicago oil burner company, phoned and said he had just married another, Anne Livingston, jilted, she says, retaliated by baring letters he had written to her as his fiancee. She sues or $250,000.

JILTED FIANCEE SUES FOR $250,000

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—When Franklin S. Hardinge, 61-year-old millionaire inventor and manufacturer, called Anne Livingston, his 30-year-old fiancee, on the telephone on November 17 and nonchalantly announced, "I am married to a girl named Peggy," he probably did not realize that his action might cost him $250,000.

This is the amount for which the jilted bride is suing him and, to prove that the millionaire was much in love with her, Miss Livingston has replied to the press, offering an exhibit of letters alleged to have been written to her by Hardinge during their courtship. One of them reads:

"Here is a great long kiss for you that will last until you feel it in your toes—with Franklin's love."

VOWS UNDYING LOVE

Miss Livingston vows that her love for the inventor is undying, but, in the meantime, she will press her $250,000 heart balm action. Hardinge has filed an answer to her suit, alleging she was a lady of many loves, having vowed her affection for one Charles Nax, of St. Louis, during the period immediately prior to their cancelled wedding. Hardinge also charges that his fiancee, in addition to $100,000 he offered her in a prenuptial agreement, asked for a gift of a large block of stock in his oil burner company and title to his home. He says that it was Miss Livingston and not he who proposed marriage.

The two were to have been married on January 28, 1928. The pastor had been engaged, the church reserved and the wedding supper planned. Accommodations on a Havana-bound steamer had been booked in the names of Mr. and Mrs. Hardinge, but he called off the wedding and sailed for Havana without Miss Livingston. At that time he announced he would not be deprived of the wedding trip, even if he were denied a wife.

DENTISTS PICK OFFICERS

Almost 200 dentists from all parts of Western Pennsylvania last night attended the annual banquet of Odontological Society of Pennsylvania, held in the William Penn Hotel. The banquet marked the close of the second day's program of the annual convention of the society.

Dr. H. H. Sargent, of Pittsburgh, was elected president of the society at the annual election yesterday. Dr. Leslie Waddill, and Dr. Earl Craig, also of this city were elected secretary and assistant treasurer respectively.

Dickinson, Former War Secretary, Ill

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—J. M. Dickinson, formerly of Nashville, Tenn., secretary of war from 1909 to 1911 in the cabinet of former President Taft, is seriously ill in St. Luke's Hospital. Attaches of the hospital said last night that an operation would be necessary.

The former secretary's son, J. M. Dickinson, Jr., Chicago attorney, is at his bedside.

CLUB, INSULTED, RECALLS ROGERS MEMBERSHIP BID

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—(INS.)—Let your voice drop, articulate softly, or perhaps it shouldn't be mentioned at all, but the fact remains that Will Rogers, the rambling ambassador, has been withdrawn for nomination as an associate member of San Francisco's Bohemian club.

How come, and likewise, what ho?

To the casual observer, the gum-chewing, rope-twirling, wisecracking ex-mayor of Beverly Hills would seem a notable addition to the ranks of the jolly Bohemians.

But, it is reported, the board of governors of the club upon receipt of the Rogers application, knotted its collective brow and hearkened back to that night not so long ago when the former Oklahoma cowboy was a guest at the club's "High Jinks."

There was much talent present on this evening, it seems, and it was of such quality that Rogers was alloted five minutes in which to do his stuff.

But, or so it is alleged, the cowboy humorist was in such fine fettle that five minutes were as nothing. He continued to crack while other waiting artists ranted.

Subsequently, in some quarters, the atmosphere became quite chilled when, it is alleged, Will told of the "High Jinks" in his syndicated article. For Will is reported as saying that it required a couple of weeks for the participants in the "High Jinks" to get back to normal.

2 IN AUTO LURE SLAIN GIRL'S BROTHER

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Nov. 22.—Two days after his sister, Emma Alley, 16, murder victim, had been buried, Fred Alley, 18, was lured from his home in Shenango township, and police profess ignorance of his whereabouts. The family last night appealed to city and state police for assistance in locating the boy.

The family said they fear he had been abducted by the murderers of their daughter.

The parents said that two men called at the Alley home at the Five Point School yesterday afternoon. They said they were newspapermen interested in the murder. Fred was asked to accompany the two men, got into their auto and was driven away. There was no license number on the car, members of the family stated. After the boy had been gone several hours, the family notified the police.

CAPPER VISIONS NEW FARM BILL

DETROIT, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, predicted here last night that a farm relief measure similar to the McNary-Haugen, but without the equalization fee, will be given to the country at the short session of Congress. The Senator, addressing the Michigan Master Farmers' Club, said the equalization fee, in which he still believes, but which has been opposed consistently by President Coolidge and President-elect Hoover, probably would be eliminated in order to clear the way for some sort of farm relief.

"I look for farm legislation," he said, "that will create a Federal farm board, with power to determine causes and remedies which should be applied to each of the multitude of problems which, grouped together, constitute what is generally termed the agricultural problem."

POLICEMAN HIT IN GUN DUEL

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—John Manning, a patrolman, was shot on the street while pursuing a Negro who is alleged to have threatened another with death. Three bullets struck the policeman and he was taken to a hospital where later he identified David Robinson as the man who had shot him.

Manning was patroling his beat when a Negro ran toward him exclaiming: "A man with a gun is chasing me and says he's going to kill me." Manning turned and saw another Negro wheel in his tracks and run in another direction. He gave chase and was gaining on the Negro when the Negro turned and shot three times.

The patrolman was shot twice in the hip and once in the arm. He is 31 years old, and was decorated by the French government with the croix de guere for bravery in the World War.

Active People want and need sugar

The "Fuel of Preference" in the body

AN EMINENT food authority recently stated that any person who has a very active body is likely to be always on the edge of the sugar reserve in his body (glycogen). "That is why," he said, "the soldier and athlete wants and needs sugar. That is why the active child wants and needs sugar." He went on to explain that sugar is the fuel of preference in the body, that sugar can be more easily and quickly converted into energy than any other food. He emphasized the fact that sugar should form a part of the regular diet of every family and that any reducing diet, as well as any other diet, should contain sugar.

The best way for sugar to be eaten is as a flavorer of other foods. In that way, it serves the double purpose of furnishing energy to the body and also of adding appetizing delight to other healthful foods. Sugar added to healthful grain cereals makes them welcome and enjoyable to growing children. Think of how many health-giving fruits are objectionable to the taste without sugar. Scientists tell us that we need the daily roughage of salads as well as cooked fruits and vegetables. Any good cook knows that adding sugar makes all of these welcome and pleasant to the palate. In addition to being the best and cheapest fuel for the body, sugar is nature's perfect flavor. It makes nearly all other foods more enjoyable. For health and enjoyment, there is no substitute for sugar. The Sugar Institute.

ASK FOR POLICEWOMEN

MRS. SAMSON MISS HENRY MISS HUTZEL

Mrs. Harry G. Samson headed a delegation of women active in social welfare work, which appeared before city Council requesting employment of policewomen in a proposed new city bureau to prevent delinquency and crime. Miss Dorothy Henry, captain of women's police, Cleveland, and Miss Eleanor Hutzel, in charge of the women's division, Detroit, explained their work.

SOCIAL AGENCIES URGE POLICEWOMEN'S BUREAU

Mrs. Harry G. Samson, heading a delegation from social service agencies, appeared before Council yesterday to urge the creation of a policewomen's bureau in the safety department.

Mrs. Samson explained that the police department must deal with a wide variety of female offenders including sex delinquents, runaway girls, petty thieves and destitute children, all of whom need readjustment at home, school and places of employment in order to prevent crime.

Since those cases were social problems and demanded technical knowledge, she contended, they must be dealt with by women who have education, training and experience in social work.

CITES OTHER CITIES

Mrs. Samson declared 280 cities in the United States now employ women police and to illustrate their operations in their respective cities she introduced Miss Eleanor Hutzel, deputy police commissioner, in charge of the women's division, Detroit, and Miss Dorothy Henry, captain of the women's division, bureau of police, Cleveland.

Miss Hutzel said Detroit employed 40 policewomen, who among many other activities locate 94 per cent of missing girls from their own city and 62 per cent of those reported from other cities. Policewomen are recruited from the ranks of women with a minimum of a high school education with preference given to those experienced in girls' work.

Policewomen's pay in Detroit ranges from $1,800 a year for first year employes to $2,220 a year after the third year.

RATE OF PAY

Miss Henry said the policewomen in Cleveland were former social workers, school teachers and nurses. Their pay ranged from $1,800 a year for first year employes to $2,400 after the fourth year, she explained.

Miss Hutzel gets $3,840 a year and Miss Henry, $3,543.

President James F. Malone pointed out that Pittsburgh employs five policewomen, who are assigned to the missing persons bureau. He asked the visitors how many should be added to attempt a program being carried out in their cities. Miss Hutzel recommended 10 more and the employment of a woman director. Policewomen here get $1,416 a year.

Malone asked City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt to submit an opinion to Council as to whether it could appropriate for a given number of policewomen in the annual budget with provision for exempting them from civil service regulations.

$14,000 Labor Bank Reward Goes 26 Ways

The $14,000 reward for the recovery of $102,000 stolen from the Brotherhood Savings and Trust Company was divided among 25 local city detectives and a resident of Uniontown, Pa., yesterday by Roland A. McCrady, former president of the organization. C. H. Price, of Uniontown, gave police the information which resulted in the arrest of Charles E. Knapp, who had disappeared with the funds. The money later was dug up on the property of Eddie Goodfellow, in Perrysville, Pa.

The Standard Oil king said he would spend the Thanksgiving holidays with his son's family here. He plans to leave for Florida about December 1.

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive [illegible] n anything else. It's no trou- [illegible] to mix and costs but a trifle. [illegible] pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces [illegible]; then add plain granulated [illegible] up or strained honey to make a [illegible] pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It also promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and at the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs and "flu" coughs.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

GEORGE QUITS, EMPHATICALLY

Some one made "Whoopee" in a lunch wagon in Webster avenue, near Tunnel street, during the night, the day manager discovered when he opened for business.

"I have gone for good. The key is across the street with Bill.

"GEORGE."

This was the contents of a note found on the cash register, after the day manager had stumbled over dishes, bread baskets and cooking utensils that littered the interior of a 7x17 lunch wagon.

"George" was the night cook, waiter, cashier, etc.

An investigation revealed that the cash register was empty, although there was no indication who had emptied it.

Freed of Poison Pen Charge, Asks $75,000

HACKENSACK, N. J., Nov. 22.—(INS.)—An echo of New Jersey's famous "poison pen" case was heard here today with the filing of a suit by Miss Sarah Mowell against Mrs. F. A. Von Moschzisker for $75,000 damages. Last February Miss Mowell was acquitted of charges made by Mrs. Von Moschzisker that she wrote "poison pen" letters concerning one Frank Burnet, a friend of both women.

The husband of Mrs. Von Moschzisker is in charge of the real estate department of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

SUN-TELEGRAPH

COLOR GRAVURE

THIS famous painting, the work of Emanuel Leutze, which pictures the defeat of the British, under General Braddock, was presented to the Carnegie Free Library of Braddock, Pa., by the school children of that town. It is particularly interesting to Western Pennsylvania, because of its historical significance. Mr. Leutze, painted "Washington Crossing the Delaware," also. Because the picture is so faithfully reproduced, retaining its natural color and detail, it is well worth framing.

This Sunday's Color Gravure is more beautiful than any previous issue . . . . . .

Portraits of Local People . . . . . .

One by Leopold Seyffert, of Dr. William Jacob Holland, which hangs permanently at Carnegie Museum, and another, hand colored by Jerome Chircosta of Miss Scotty Jean McKeown, are worthy of note.

Scenes at Teachers' College . . . . . .

From Indiana, Pa., the home of the College, come an interesting collection of photographs. It is the oldest teachers' college in the state and has a large enrollment.

More International Pictures . . . . . .

"Sweeping Crests," by Frederick J. Waugh, American marine artist, which is attracting considerable attention at the Exhibition. "The Studio of Emile Rene Menard," a painting by Lucien Simon, one of the outstanding canvases on display. Both are reproduced in natural colors.

Direct Color Photographs . . .

Multicolored chrysanthemums, captured by direct color photography are reproduced as they appear in the Phipps Conservatory, Schenley Park.

MINE STRIKERS TELL COURT OF KILLING

Fred Simonetti was the star witness this morning in the murder trial in which he and four other young mine strikers of Indiana township are accused of beating Mike Yarsavage, an alleged strike breaker, to death with fence palings from the Walter's Chapel graveyard fence March 5. He testified he had engaged in a fist fight with Yarsavage on the road and that the latter then had run to the cemetery. The witness said he did not follow him into the cemetery, having been called back by his companions.

The other four defendants, John Micklow, Sam Koneski, John Koneski and Joseph Bassetti were on the stand late yesterday and all told the same story. This was that Simonetti and the dead man had fought and they had gone to his rescue when Simonetti was getting the worst of it. This occurred in hte road near the strikers' picket headquarters. All denied they had gone to the churchyard where the final fight had taken place and the man killed.

Four other youths who had been defendants in the trial were not directly connected with the affair by the state's testimony, and Assistant District Attorney John F. Hagerty asked visiting Judge S. J. Morrow, of Fayette township, who is trying the case, to direct verdicts of acquittal at the end of the trial. These are Alex Simon, John Kubic, Louis Branzet and Julius Frank.

TO PHOTOGRAPH EARTHQUAKES

SANTA CLARA, Cal.—(AP.)—Five new seismographs which instead of recording quakes on a chart will photograph the action of earth tremors are being built for the use of Father Ricard, Santa Clara University's "Padre of the Rains."

The instruments will be installed in steel and concrete vaults completely underground, but will be connected with the out-of-doors by a concrete tunnel.

To study records it will be necessary to develop the photographic plates. This is a longer process than now used, but Father Ricard says will be more accurate.

Three of the instruments are being built in Esthonia by Prof. Masing and two at Pasadena, Cal., by Prof. Frederick Hensen.

Rides for the Smaller Children in Santa's Big Airship

Our Daily Short Story

'Twixt Cup and Lip

By MARTIN ROSS JEFFERSON

"YOU treat 'em rough and they come back for more. Be nice to them and the first cave man they meet they'll fall for." Having uttered this piece of profound philosophy Ted Martin thrust his hands in his pockets and surveyed his friend with all the wisdom of his 26 years.

The friends were a study in contrasts. Whenever you looked at Ted Martin you thought of football and college banners and saxophones and fluffy girls. You couldn't help liking him, he was so simple and sincere and egotistic. Like a little boy, all puffed up with self-righteousness because he hasn't failed in his spelling test.

Ted Martin was stocky and broad and muscular. He could lick any man twice his height—and often did. But John Everett, his best chum, who had never used his fists in all his 26 years of existence, had been called upon often to get Ted out of scrapes. Everett was the perfect foil for Martin.

But at this particular time it was Ted who was meting out advice to John. And as usual it was advice to the lovelorn. For if anyone was qualified, on the strength of a volume of experience, to give such advice, it was Ted, the most popular boy in his set, the catch of the season. He had himself, fallen in love with Doris Mantell, the pretty deb whose photograph adorned his dresser, and in characteristic fashion had become engaged to her two months after they met.

"The trouble with you, old man," said Ted, "is that you pamper your girl friends—you make too much fuss over them. Now if I had done that with Doris I'd never have gotten her to fall for me so soon. I take her for granted—and the results are gratifying."

He glanced at the photograph on his dresser and sighed, boylike. "Gosh, she's a looker!" he murmured. "I'm nuts about her. And that reminds me, I promised to phone her about tonight, before seven."

A few minutes later he put down the receiver and stared, dumfounded, at John. "She left a message that she had another date and couldn't wait for my call. Can you beat that? Why, I practically told her I'd see her tonight." He whistled to hide his embarrassment. Then, in an effort to take the situation lightly, "Oh, well, it's just one of those things. Let's go and eat."

They went to Gallo's, a popular Italian restaurant that catered to patrons in search of good food and excellent music. When they entered they were greeted by a group of boys and girls sitting in a corner and having a merry time over spaghetti and wine. Just then a couple entered, the girl so striking that everyone in the restaurant glanced her way as she passed. Ted's usual buoyancy gave way to depression as he explained to John: "There goes the light of my life, with another man."

'Twix Cup and Lip

The "light" of his life nodded affably enough in Ted's direction, but not affably enough to make it plain that she was engaged to marry him. Then she looked at his companion and her eyes twinkled. "Hello, John," she called as her escort guided her to another corner of the room.

Now it must be laid to John's credit that a cordial greeting from a lovely girl who was engaged to his best friend did not turn his head. He was far too sane for that. But it did make him feel that since she was accepting invitations from other men he might be one of that fortunate number. Accordingly, he phoned her the next day, a trifle uneasy, shy.

"I wonder, Doris," he said, "whether you would like to go to the theater with me tonight. I-I'd love to have you."

Evidently Doris must have said "yes," because an hour later a large box of yellow roses came for her, from John. As a matter of fact she probably agreed to see John the next night, for more flowers came the following day. But each time he phoned her, John remembered Ted's advice: "Treat 'em rough." And each time, he ignored that advice. For her found that Doris responded to gentler tactics—he found that she resented being taken for granted.

Yet nothing John could tell Ted would make him believe this. Ted went on phoning Doris as though nothing had happened. That is to say, he would merely let her know that he was free for the evening and might find it convenient to see her. Unfortunately for Ted it was becoming increasingly difficult for Doris to see him—despite the diamond ring she wore on her left hand.

And finally the day came when Doris wrote Ted a little note explaining that she could no longer feel herself pledged to him, and would he please understand and forgive. The note came with a little package. . . .

About two months later another note came from Doris. This was a little more formal, yet not so strained. It read: "I want you to be among the first to know that John and I were married yesterday. You and he were such good friends that I'm sure you will want to come and see us soon. With every good wish, Doris."

Ted did go to call on the Everetts. He was a slightly better Ted, but a far wiser one.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

If you have a thumping in your head, dizzy spells, shortness of breath, lack of strength and endurance and are extremely nervous, you have symptoms of high blood pressure—a serious ailment that should have immediate attention.

High blood pressure causes much physical discomfort and if permitted to continue, is extremely dangerous. It should be checked at the earliest possible moment.

Thanks to a physician's prescription, high blood pressure may be reduced quickly and easily. Simply go to your nearest drug store and get a bottle of Norma. Norma is a palliative in cases of high blood pressure. A few days' use would show a marked improvement in your condition. The thumping and pounding in your head should disappear and as the blood pressure is reduced the dizzy spells should become less and less frequent and you should find you are much stronger, have more endurance with a real joy in living.

Norma is a scientific formula, is not a laxative, is easy and pleasant to take and often only a few days' use is very helpful. For sale by May Drug Co.

"DOPE" CRUSADERS WOULD SMASH RING BY NEW LAW

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Concerted action on the part of Congress, the 48 states and the larger cities of the United States in smashing the narcotic traffic is expected to result from efforts of the world conference on narcotic education and the International Narcotic Education Association.

More than 150 delegates from all parts of the world were present when the initial session was opened by Capt. Richmond P. Hobson, Spanish war hero. The primary object of the two organizations, Capt. Hobson explained, is the standardization and codification of federal, state and municipal laws governing narcotic transportation and the treatment of addicts. The sessions will continue until Saturday.

A determined drive will be undertaken, it was announced, to stiffen the state and municipal statutes regulating the traffic with the purpose of throwing on the various states much of the burden of curbing the illicit traffic which is now shouldered by the federal government.

A new model anti-narcotic measure, patterned somewhat after the New York state law, will be introduced in each state legislature which meets during the present winter.

Capt. Hobson said:

"The measure makes the trafficking in narcotics a felony instead of merely a misdemeanor. Another provision of the law would penalize with life imprisonment any drug peddler who induces a minor to become an addict.

"In addition to fortifying and unifying the anti-narcotic statutes, we want to remodel the federal law so that every alien convicted of drug selling can be automatically deported at the completion of his prison term.

"There is also much to be done in the way of bringing about a revision of school text books on the subject of narcotics. We think an educational campaign will be one of the most effective weapons, and we want to begin educating children on the evils of drugs as soon as they can read.

"Some of the matter now in the school books is positively laughable, and in few cases do the books stress the terrible evils. Such an educational campaign must of necessity be a long-drawn-out affair.

"After some pioneering work has been accomplished in America, it is our intention to arouse the world powers to the seriousness. There are in existence several treaties which specifically limit the amount of narcotics which may be manufactured, but little or no attention is being paid to them. The world is being flooded with as much as 50 times the amount of narcotics which should legitimately be produced."

The new measure will embody some of the good features of the laws now in existence in New York and California. The hospitalization features have been taken from the California statute.

Says Wife Left Him, Files Divorce Libel

Adolph Dourlain, 211 Patterson avenue, Bridgeville, and married in 1924 to Elizabeth Dourlain and deserted the following year, has filed a libel in divorce in Common Pleas Court, alleging desertion.

MUNICIPALBOND ISSUES O. K.'D

HARRISBURG, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Six municipal bond issues were approved by James F. Woodward, secretary of internal affairs.

Three provide for school improvements and were as follows: New Brighton, $40,000 for land purchases; Penn township, Centre county, $27,500 for building and equipment, and Masontown Fayette county, $83,000 for refunding indebtedness and new building.

Pittsburgh Couple to Wed in Den of Lions

The first Pittsburgh couple has signified a willingness to wed in a den of lions. They will be married during the Knights of Malta circus, December 1 to 8, in Motor Square Garden, but they have not yet seen the lions, now in winter quarters in a warehouse in the Point Breeze district. William Volkman, 22, of 1723 East street, and Marie Hendershot, 21, of 1012 Constance street, had planned to marry early in December, but the $1,000 in wedding presents that promoters of the circus say will be given to the couple married in the den of lions, caused them to change their wedding date to a night during the circus week. Helen Volkman and Henry Volkman, sister and brother of the bride, will act as maid of honor and best man.

Phila. Ballot Boxes Ordered Into Court

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—On petition of William L. Rooney Democratic candidate for Congress from the First District, three judges of Common Pleas Court yesterday ordered the ballot boxes from 16 divisions of the Seventh Ward brought into court Friday.

With President Judge Thomas D. Finletter presiding, the vote in the divisions specified will be recounted.

Rooney trailed James M. Beck, his Republican opponent, by 50 votes in the recent election, according to the official count of ballots.

Ex-Convict, Given 'Chance,' Thanks Pardon Board

HARRISBURG, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—A bit of pathos was injected into proceedings of the State Pardon Board yesterday when at the close of the hearings one of those who benefited by the mercy of the board appeared to express his gratitude.

Harold Nissen, of Philadelphia, out of the Eastern Penitentiary less than a month, after serving more than seven years for complicity in a hold up, walked up to the bench, shyly.

"I just wanted to thank you for giving me another chance to make good," he said in a voice hardly audible to others in the room. "I have been working as an automobile salesman and have already sold three cars. I am going straight."

Nissen was well dressed and and looked like anything but a former prisoner.

VETS BOOSTING CRUISER BILL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Support of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the Britten bill for 15 additional cruisers was pledged to President Coolidge yesterday by the organization's commander-in-chief, Eugene P. Carver, Jr.

Carver also left at the White House a letter outlining the body's suggestions for veterans' legislation. The letter urged adequate appropriations "to keep our Army and Navy up to the standards required for the protection of our country" and for the extension of citizens' military training camps to training for service in the Navy.

The organization also asked Mr Coolidge to include in his annual message suggestions for World War service pensions, hospitalization and an Army retirement act.

Maniu Puts Down Police Terror In Rumania

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Continuing his drastic reforms in the national administration, Juliu Maniu, new peasant party premier, yesterday ordered the state gendarmerie reduced by 12,000 men and decreed that the conscription class of 1916 should be sent home.

Aside from the financial saving the greatest importance was attached to this action because the state gendarmes for the last 10 years have been used largely for political terrorization. Progressive Rumanians now envisage a new era of political liberty. The change is in line with Maniu's earlier decrees guaranteeing the right of free assemblage.

FIRE DESTROYS $75,000 PLANE

BRISTOL, Pa., Nov. 22.—(AP.)—The Keystone Patrisian, said to be the largest airplane ever built in this country, and one of the largest in the world, was destroyed by fire yesterday at the Keystone Aircraft Corporation flying field.

Two mechanics, Walter Young and Walter West, who were in the airplane when the fire started, were burned on the hands and face, though not seriously.

Edgar N. Gott, president of the Keystone concern, said the craft would be rebuilt. Three other planes similar to the Patrisian are under construction.

The craft, valued at $75,000, was to have been christened tomorrow before a gathering of aeronautical leaders.

Stop decay at THE DANGER LINE

DECAYED teeth and infected gums are largely unnecessary. There is a way to prevent them—a way to avoid the pain and the expense and the possible injury to general health that accompany them. And the way of prevention is so simple!

Guard The Danger Line. It is there that the acids form that cause the most treacherous tooth decay and the most dangerous gum irritations. Secure this protection by using Squibb's Dental Cream—a dentifrice which protects The Danger Line by neutralizing the acids there. Squibb's Dental Cream contains more than 50% of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia, an amount ample to neutralize dangerous acids. Use Squibb's to brush the gums too. As an added precaution consult your dentist regularly. On sale at all druggists at 40c for a large tube.

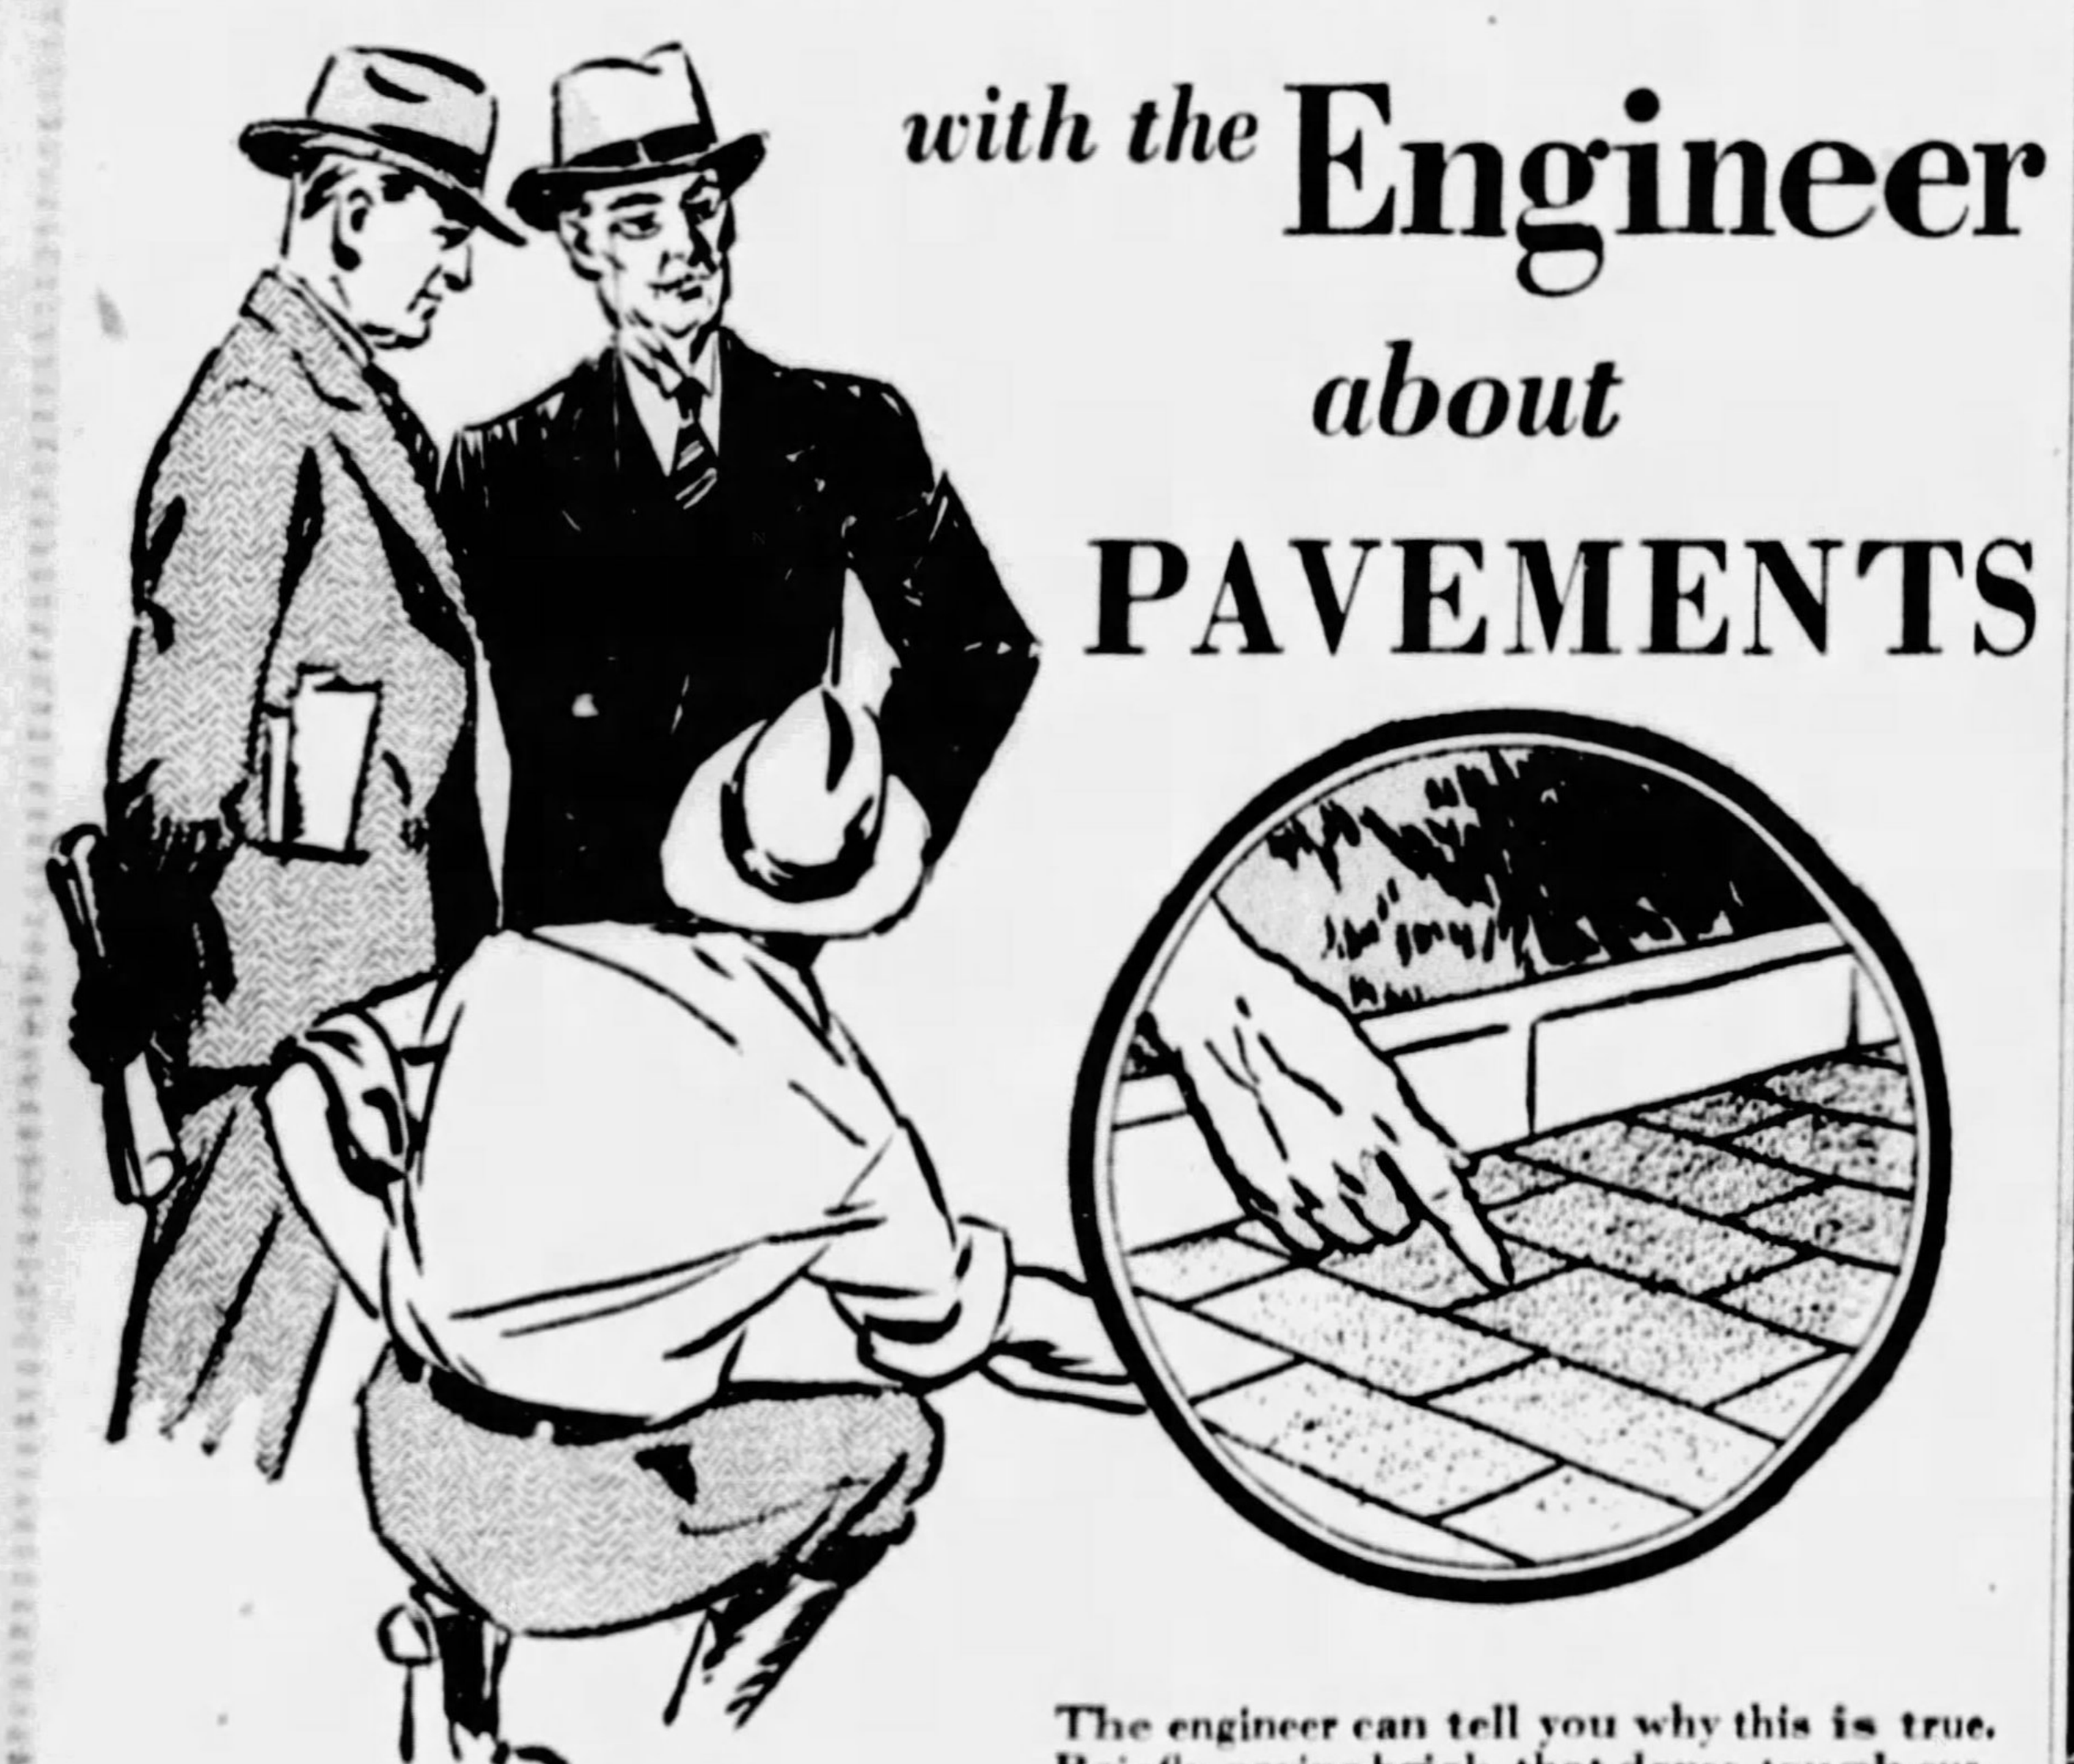
When the Banker talks with the Engineer about PAVEMENTS



BOTH banker and engineer to be successful, must be keen judges of value. When they talk pavements, the truth comes out.

The banker knows that brick pavements are a safe investment for any community. Long life; less upkeep. He will tell you that they are thoroughly satisfactory even after 20 to 30 years of hard use and exposure to weather. They outlast the bonds.

The engineer can tell you why this is true. Briefly, paving brick, that dense, tough surface, protects pavement base from wear. Being vitrified and laid with asphalt between bricks, it forms a surface that is weatherproof. The sand cushion protects the base from traffic shock.

Time-tried brick is the quality pavement. Its beautiful, even, smooth-riding surface remains that way. Ask for it on road or street. For further information address National Paving Brick Manufacturers Association, National Press Building, Washington, D.C.

"The A. B. C. of Good Paving," a taxpayer's manual tells in words and pictures how engineers today build ever-wearing, low cost, brick surfaced roads and streets. Address your request to National Paving Brick Manufacturers Association, National Press Building, Washington, D.C.

12 CONVERTS BAPTIZED BY EVANGELIST

More than a dozen converts were baptized by Evangelist John W. Sproul at services held last night in the Glory Barn, Carson street. One of the largest Wednesday evening crowds at the barn since it was erected several weeks ago was present last night. Evangelist Sproul omitted his sermon last night and in its place held a testimonial service.

A score of persons who have been benefited through faith and prayer gave testimonials from the platform last night. It was testified that Beula Grindel, 4, of 517 Lockhart street, unable to walk for more than a year due to infantile paralysis, last night walked across the platform and up the aisle of the tabernacle after she had been anointed by Sproul.

Beginning next Tuesday there will be a special song service each afternoon at 2:30 o'clock except on Monday, when there are no services and and Sunday, when there is a preaching service. There will be another testimonial service Friday night.

Mr. Sproul announced the next baptismal service would be held Thanksgiving morning at 7:30 o'clock.

IDUNKNOW! IDUNKNOW!!
HEY BULL! DEFINE AN AXIOM! NO NEVER MIND, I KNOW YOU CAN'T. I'LL EXPLAIN, AN AXIOM IS A SELF-EVIDENT FACT!
GOSH, BULL! YOU'RE DUMB!

"My dear, I'm all-of-a-DOOdah, no less! I mean I'm so exCIted I could shell PEAnuts at this point because the other night 'BULL' came over, my dear, and ARab was enSCONCED as usual, my dear, so 'Bull' imMEdiately began laMENting lugubriously about his geOMetry woe, whereupon ARab asked him to define an AXiom, which of course left 'Bull' comPLETEly BLANK, my dear, because I mean that bobo ACtually doesn't know ANYthing about even the LOWer forms of matheMATics, but ANYways, my dear, Arab went right ON to explain that an AXiom effect is a self-EVident FACT or something, whereupon I simply HAD to remark to 'BULL' that he certainly WAS terribly DUMB, and my dear, I was TOO imPRESSED because Arab suddenly exCLAIMED that THAT was an AXiom—can you BEAR it? I mean, you see, I'D ILlustrated exACTly what Arab meant and I HONestly think it was TERribly sort of CLEVer of me, but I mean I HONestly think I'm sort of FUNny that way—I mean I sort of SAY the right THING inTUitively or something all the time, my dear—I ACtually DO!"

A Doctor Talks About Cascara

It is unfortunate that many people judge the thoroughness of a laxative by its violence. The salts that rush through the system may not even penetrate the film of poisonous matter that has coated the colon. A long list of drugs will "loosen the bowels" but what is the best way to CLEANSE them?

The world's best laxative is one that Mother Nature makes in her own laboratory. It is the bark of a tree, called CASCARA. The Indians used to chew this bark—and reach old age without a sick day. It is the best thing there is today, for any system; best for the blood. The most beneficial in its action on the bowels, of anything yet disclosed. For many reasons.

First of all, there is no HABIT formed from cascara. The bowels are not weakened, but strengthened by its occasional use. The occasions when one needs this aid grow less and less. Its influence is long-felt. You don't find yourself worse bound-up the day following. You do find the bowels more inclined to move of their own volition. The candy Cascaret that every drug store always has in stock is the ideal form of cascara.

ALLEGHENY 2ND IN PA. GAS TAX COLLECTION

HARRISBURG, Nov. 22.—Collections of the 3-cent gasoline tax in Pennsylvania for the third quarter of this year amounted to $6,044,316, State Treasurer Samuel S. Lewis announced today. This is an increase of $807,323 over the corresponding period of 1927.

State Treasurer Lewis estimates that the total tax collection for this year will be in excess of $22,[illegible]. If figures are correct the receipts from the gasoline tax will be $[illegible],000 above the estimates of the highway department. For the first nine months of this year the total gasoline tax collections have been [illegible]515,847. Of that sum $10,471,[illegible] came in for the first half of the year.

The motor fund will be credited with $5,029,308 of the collections for the third quarter and the counties where the tax was collected will receive $1,014,499. The remainder of [illegible]508 will go to the general fund.

Philadelphia again tops the list of counties in the amount of gasoline tax collected for the quarter with $841,121; second in amount is Allegheny, $766,835.

Amounts collected in other Western Pennsylvania counties are: Armstrong, $52,418; Beaver, $87,870; Butler, $73,703; Crawford, $60,410; Erie, $142,459; Fayette, $922,680; Greene, $23,611; McKean, $52,620; Mercer, $71,500; Venango, $60,894; Washington, $127,428; Westmoreland, $167,535.

On the commission are Drs. Guy S. Shugert, Rochester, M. M. MacKall, Beaver, and Attorney J. K. Stone, Beaver.

Mail Carrier Freed In Two Auto Deaths

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

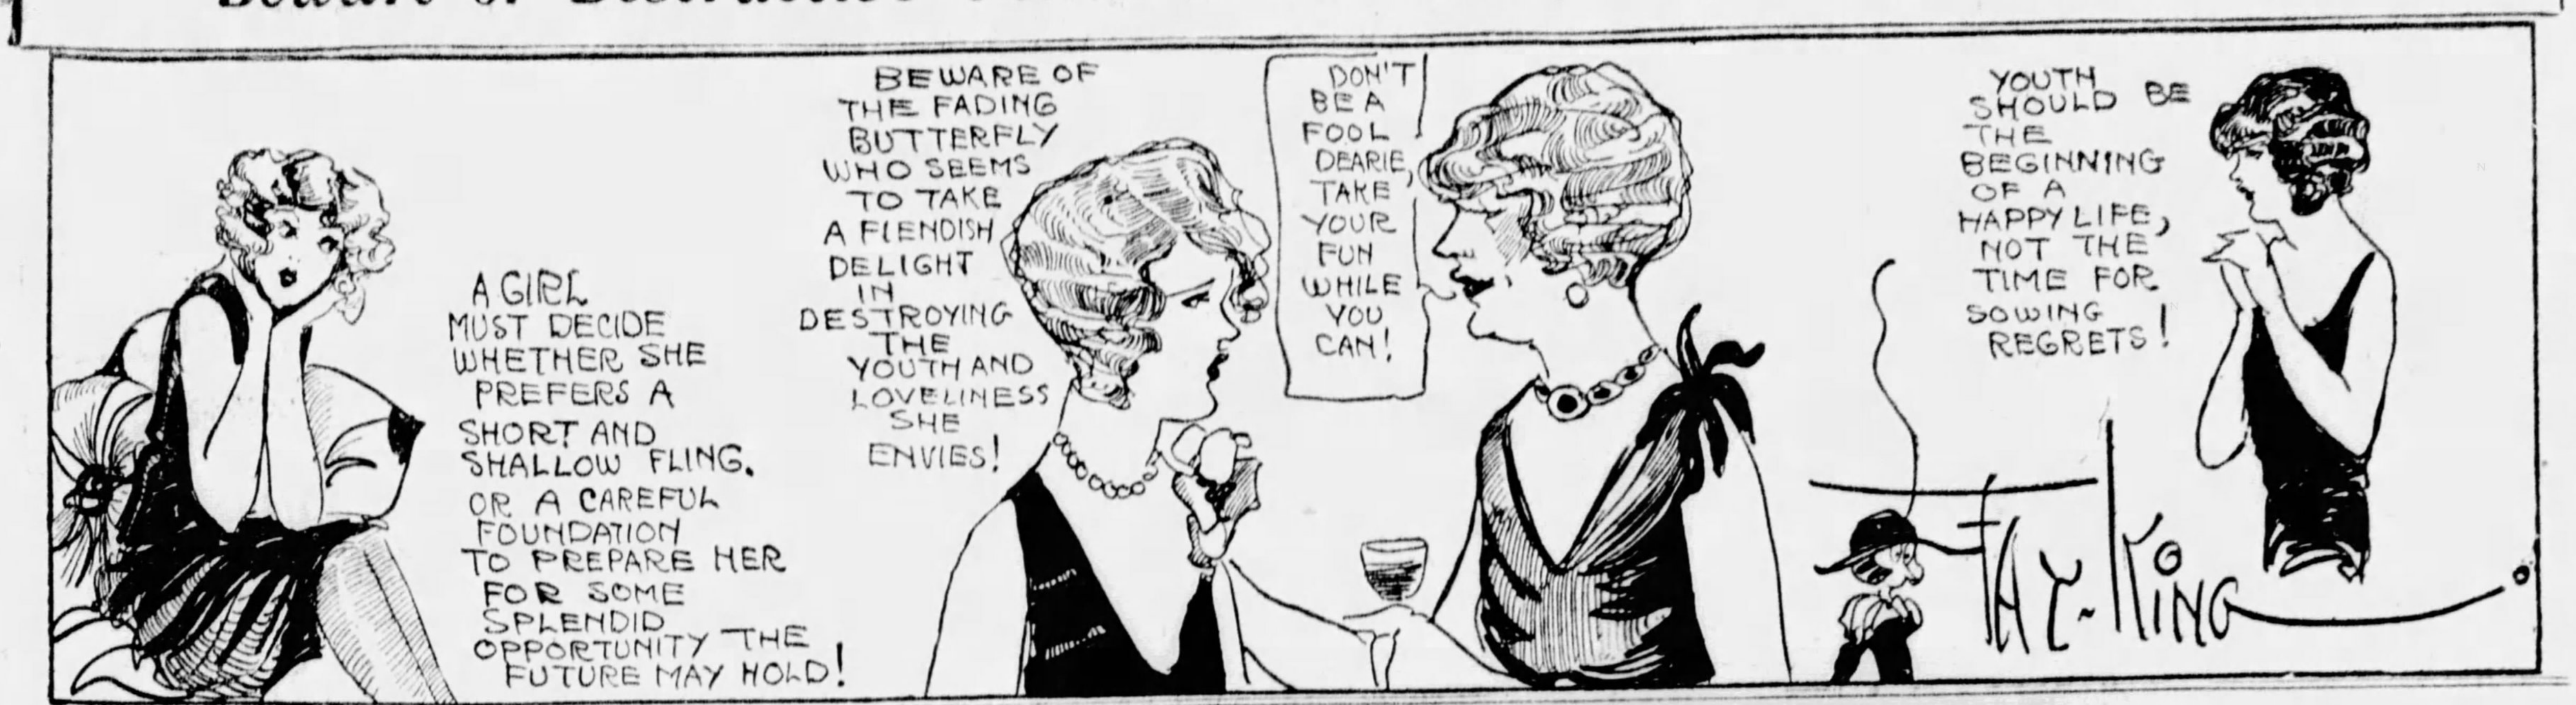
Beware of Destructive Contacts in Youth, Fay King Warns Girls



A GIRL MUST DECIDE WHETHER SHE PREFERS A SHORT AND SHALLOW FLING, OR A CAREFUL FOUNDATION TO PREPARE HER FOR SOME SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY THE FUTURE MAY HOLD!
BEWARE OF THE FADING BUTTERFLY WHO SEEMS TO TAKE A FIENDISH DELIGHT IN DESTROYING THE YOUTH AND LOVELINESS SHE ENVIES!
DON'T BE A FOOL DEARIE, TAKE YOUR FUN WHILE YOU CAN!
YOUTH SHOULD BE THE BEGINNING OF A HAPPY LIFE, NOT THE TIME FOR SOWING REGRETS!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

AS THE foundation is the most important part of a building, so is youth the most important beginning of a happy life.

Contacts in youth can do so much to help or to destroy a happy future.

Youth recuperates quickly, but the time comes when humans must pay the penalty for foolishness.

One of the most dangerous contacts of youth is with a frivolous person, now faded, who finds popularity by surrounding herself with fresh and youthful friends whose attention she can hold.

But she is the cheer leader of dissipation, and, unfortunately, her younger friends do not see in her what they are likely to become.

Youth withers quickly in the false atmosphere of failures, who, rather than admit their own regrets, urge youth onward to these same regrets.

To Rheumatic Sufferers:

New Concentration from Europe Poured in Your Own Bath Tub Gives Quick Relief from Pain

Astonishing as the results are, they must be true, for the importer of this new discovery offers a test bath to all sufferers from chronic Rheumatic diseases, at no cost whatever, if they do not receive blessed relief from the very first bath. This new discovery is called Transkutan. It combines in a new and more effective way ingredients of known value to the medical profession including actual concentration of famous European mineral springs. It is used by pouring it into a bath in your own tub at home.

And note! There are no long drawn out expensive treatments that do not show for months whether or not they are helping you. The very first Transkutan bath will determine whether or not you can expect relief from the Transkutan treatment. European specialists say 97% of all cases benefit magically thru Transkutan—if you are one of the 3% who do not benefit, the treatment costs you nothing.

Do this: Go to any of May's Drug Stores or McCulloch stores or your favorite druggist right now. Merely deposit with him $5 for your test bottle of Transkutan. If you happen to be one of the rare few who do not experience noticeable relief from pain from the first Transkutan bath return the empty bottle to the druggist and he will immediately return your $5 deposit. Thus you can determine, without risking one cent, whether or not Transkutan can help you.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Proceeds of St. Margaret Benefit Dance Used For Dispensary

WHEN most folks buy tickets for benefit dances or card parties, they do it because they expect to have a good time, of course. But I think that the majority are interested in knowing just what the proceeds are goin gto be used for—in knowing just what the proceeds are going to be used for—all. There are so many demands on one's charitable impulses—not to mention one's funds—that we like to pick and choose among them.

As an example take the ball which the dispensary board of St. Margaret's Hospital is going to give a week from tomorrow night. This board maintains the hospital dispensary, of course, as its name indicates, and the members meet at each other's houses to work on bandages and other articles.

But an even greater financial drain is the employment of a full-time social worker and the keeping up of a small car in which she goes about the city. A great deal of the board's good works is done through this agency and so, naturally, the bulk of the ball's proceeds will be used for its maintenance.

Mrs. W. Ford Moreland is general chairman for the dance, which, you know, will be held in the University Club.

YOU remember, don't you, my telling you about the tea which Mrs. John Phillip Hoelzel is going to give on Tuesday afternoon in her home in Beechwood boulevard for Jane Allderdice? Now Mrs. Hoelzel has told me who her aides are going to be. Included in the list are Mrs. Edward Vose Babcock, Mrs. Taylor Allderdice, Mrs. Daniel M. Clemson, Mrs. James Francis Burke, Mrs. Eugene W. Pargny, Mrs. Edmund W. Mudge, Mrs. Fleming Fell, Mrs. Benno Janssen, Mrs. Oliver Nicola, Mrs. Thomas Watson, Mrs. Carl Peirce, Mrs. John Knable, Mrs. William G. Costin, Mrs. Louis Brown, Mrs. Jerome Hill, Mrs. Donald McKaig, Mrs. Elmer Flaccus and Mrs. Burton Mustin.

Jane is going to have her sister debutante for her aides, I understand.

ALL sorts of attractive things are going to be on sale at the Women's Exchange sale Tuesday in the Hotel Schenley. But there is not news in that, is there? The Exchange tables are always full of articles that fairly sell themselves.

In charge of the booth where household linens will be on display are Miss Nell Stewart, Mrs. Wallace H. Rowe, Mrs. William M. Moreland, Mrs. Charles Arbuthnot, Mrs. Charles Orr, Mrs. Charles Wharton and Mrs. Moses Atwood. And not far away will be the fancy work table where Mrs. Carroll Davis, Mrs. Edward Scull, Mrs. C. A. Foster, Miss Sarah Bissell, Mrs. Harmar Denny, Mrs. William H. Parke, Mrs. Alexander Laughlin and Miss Beatrice Hawkins will be the saleswomen.

That particularly charming booth where children's garments will be sold will be, I am told, under the direction of Mrs. William Larimer Jones, Jr., Mrs. Walter Heron, Mrs. William C. Moorhead, Mrs. J. S. Hammond and Mrs. Thomas C. Wurts, while the sale of negligees will be directed by Mrs. Harry Darlington, Mrs. G. Greer Coolidge, Mrs. Charles F. Holdship, Mrs. William P. Snyder, Jr., Mrs. Harvey N. Van Voorhis and Mrs. Leslie Johnston.

The baby clothes and the toys will be sold at one booth, and in charge there will be Mrs. T. Howe Nimick, Mrs. Charles C. Heard, Mrs. A. G. Wells, Mrs. William C. Robinson and Mrs. Richard Hawkins, while at the booth of paintings Mrs. John P. Penney, Mrs. John T. Brown, Mrs. Samuel A. McClung, Mrs. Horace F. Baker, Mrs. George B. Berger and Mrs. D. D. Gill will do the selling.

Then those famous Exchange cakes will have a booth to themselves. In charge there will be Mrs. Gordon Fisher, Mrs. Rox Flinn, Mrs. Richard B. Mellon, Mrs. George Claypool, Mrs. George B. Trainer, Mrs. C. C. Sandels, Mrs. Herbert DuPuy, Mrs. Ambrose N. Diehl, Mrs. Dorwin Donnelly, Miss Martha Jamison, Mrs. B. Preston Schoyer, Mrs. Frederick Atwood and Mrs. Howard Evans.

I've already told you about the card party, and that Mrs. George MacBeth, Mrs. Birney K. McMechen and Mrs. William Zang are in charge of that feature.

TO GO back for a moment to the St. Margaret's dispensary board ball, I hear that one of the dinners to precede it will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Faber Brooks, of Shields, in the Pittsburgh Golf Club. They will entertain for two of the debutantes, Margaret Holdship and Virginia Willock.

Coal Carbonizing Plant, Second in U.S. Announced

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—The first low temperature coal carbonization plant to be identified with the steel industry and the second to be installed in America, will be built at Coatesville, Pa., by International Combustion Engineering Corporation of New York, it was announced last night.

President George E. Leonard said the plant, which is expected to be in operation early in 1930, will be owned and operated by International Coal Carbonization Company, a subsidiary, to sell gas under contract, already signed, to the Lukens Steel Company of Coatesville. By-products will be tar, light oils and motor and domestic fuels, as well as coke. Initial installation of six retorts will carbonize 500 tons of coal daily.

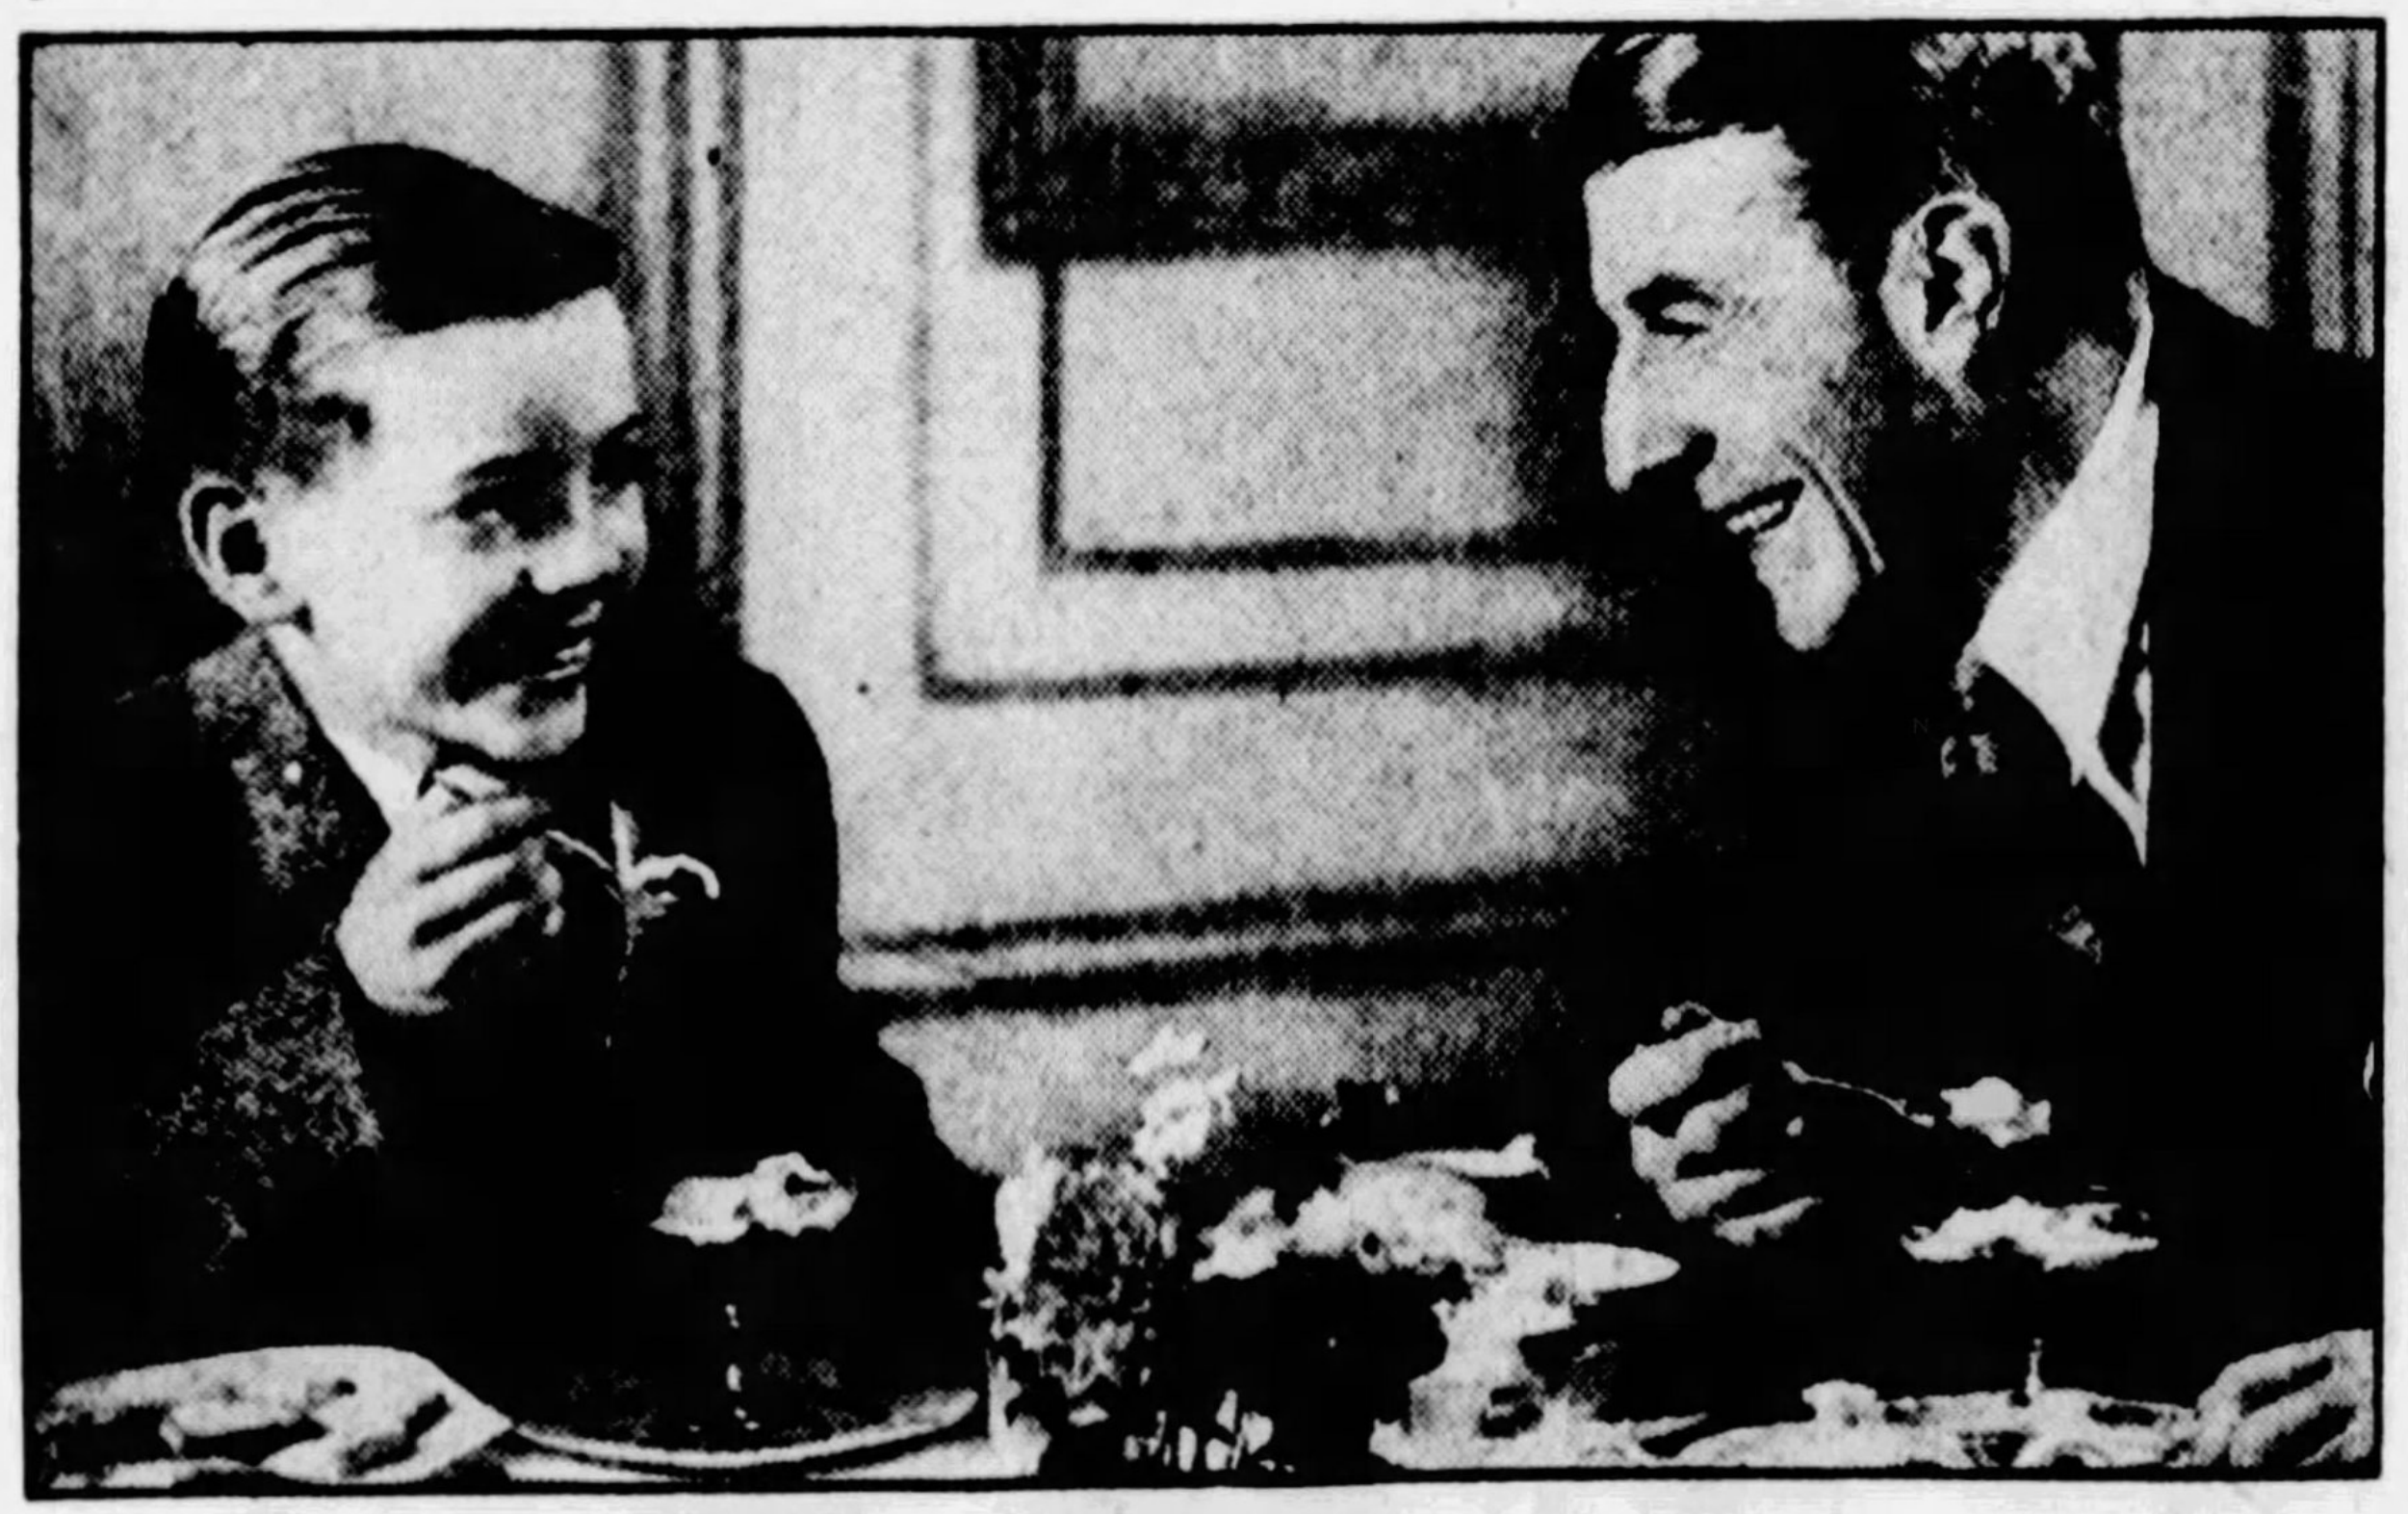
HERE'S GELATIN WITH A REAL FRUIT FLAVOR. YOU CAN CERTAINLY TASTE THE DIFFERENCE



Men Folks
Know the Difference Instantly!

Here's gelatin that's simply delicious . . flavored with real fresh fruit

TODAY'S NEWS, Madam, is about a wonderful new gelatin that "men folks" think is delicious.

It's called Royal Fruit Flavored Gelatin . . . and it's entirely different from the ordinary gelatin you're now using.

Here's gelatin with body. With that real fruit aroma. Nothing flat or tasteless about it.

You can actually detect this flavor difference the minute you try Royal.

The piquant flavor of strawberry . . . the sharp tang of lemon . . . the succulent orange. There it is . . . fresh . . . sun-ripened . . . the real flavor of real fruit . . . to add zest and health to your meal.

Doctors recommend this gelatin because it's so rich in protein . . . the energy-giving, muscle-building nourishment needed in daily diet.

So we urge you to be generous with Royal. Serve it frequently . . . at least once a week.

Try it for dinner tonight. Ask your family to take a vote on flavor.

Note, too, its speed and ease of preparation.

Royal Gelatin, you know, is made by the same people who make Royal Baking Powder . . . a pure, wholesome cream of tartar product that's been on your pantry shelf for years.

Thus you can buy it with the utmost confidence. Your grocer now has it in stock . . . in five delicious fruit flavors.

CONSTIPATION CAUSES TROUBLE

But there's a way to safe relief

It's so easy to become constipated these days—what with soft food, lack of exercise, modern rush and hurry. So easy, indeed, that many of the worst sufferers don't even realize what's the trouble with them.

They go through life—half-way sick, half-way tired. From time to time, they resort to drugs and pills. But these afford no more than temporary relief. Often enough, they only increase the trouble.

Headaches, sleeplessness, backaches, sallow cheeks, fading hair—these are all symptoms of this widespread affliction. Sooner or later it leads to serious disease. Stop dangerous constipation! Stop habit-forming drugs! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN points the way to natural relief. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal—are guaranteed to relieve constipation.

Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN because it is 100% bran—100% effective. A health cereal to serve with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Sprinkle into soups. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

WITH the ladies' running to small hats, an old complaint is cropping out among local theatrical managers. The ladies in the theaters are not removing their hats. Some of the ladies cannot understand why their small hats interfere with the view of the persons in the row just behind them. They don't know the mere fact that a lady has refused to remove her hat makes some of the customers see red even if the hat is green or blue or yellow.

Great tact is needed to sell the recalcitrants on the hat-removal idea. An usher first gives them a card which makes a mute request. This failing, another usher goes down the aisle and injects a note of command into a verbal request. This failing—but so far nothing drastic has been found necessary.

Now if the theatrical managers can induce the leader of the orchestra to stoop a little everything will be oke.

One of the drifters around town evolved a new idea of corruption in the last election campaign. He said he took $10 from a Republican worker and then got $5 from a Democratic worker. He said he voted Democratic because he decided that since the Democrats had not offered him as much as the Republicans they were "not so corrupt." There was a man with ideals.

HOW many more Pittsburghers would attend football games if the stadium were covered? The writer, in another column, advanced the idea of a roof for the stadium, recognizing the bad weather peculiar to Pittsburgh during the football season. Progress can be reported. The Pitt Weekly thinks the same way. Many reasons advanced for the decline of local football crowds, in the face of championship football, would disappear if the customers were assured they will not catch a bad cold from watching football.

HURT IN CRASH ASKS $50,000

Cora L. Edge, 701 Duff street, through her counsel has brought suit against the Pittsburgh Railways Co., for $50,000 damages for the death of her husband Richard Edge, February 24, last. Four days prior to that date, a car in which he was riding collided with another one of the defendant's company at Wylie avenue and Logan street. It was a blustery day. Edge sustained injuries to his lungs and as a consequence developed pneuomnia. He was badly hurt about the body, being thrown to the floor by the impact of the collision. He left his widow and two children, Richard Edge, Jr., 22, and Thelma, 15.

Sailor Mate Left Her, Wife Charges

It apparently was not a happy Christmas Day for Jane S. Tharp, 132 Valonia street, West End, who was deserted by her husband, now on a United States submarine in the Canal Zone. Mrs. Tharp filed a libel in divorce in Common Pleas Court charging her husband with desertion. They were married October 7, 1924, living together a little more than three months. The last known address of the respondent is given as Coco Solo Island, United States Submarine O-9. The addresses of the respondents are now required in all divorce cases.

CHURCH NEEDS PAINT, MEMBERS JOIN AND DO JOB

CHURCHMEN DO OWN PAINTING

When the interior of Ross Community U. P. Church needed painting, members of the congregation to save funds set aside a night, rolled up their sleeves, and did the job themselves. Here, Miss Luella Mohrhoff sees that Ted Dodds loses no time from his task and feeds him while he works. Today only a few finishing touches need be added.

WOMEN PREPARE FOOD WHILE MEN PAINT

While the men painted and painted, the womenfolk of the congregation prepared their dinners in the church kitchen. The "painters" came from their tasks in shops and offices and went right to work. Here, as dinner was served, Walter Titus and John Rapp receive the rewards for the labors. Hundreds of dollars will have been saved by the completed task.

JAILED, DOG REPULSES ADVANCES, GREETS MASTER

"Queenie," 10-months-old German police dog, spent the last week-end in jail. Howling and whining within the narrow confines of a cell in the North Side Police Station, the dog begged for freedom.

"Queenie" was not under arrest; she was a runaway, and she was placed in a cell for safekeeping. A stranger brought the animal to the station house Sunday night, and told police there that he had found the dog, harnessed and leashed, running about the streets. He was glad to get rid of the "wild critter," he said.

Like all "wild critters," "Queenie" was lodged behind the bars. Although fed and watered by police, the animal refused to be friendly, and it was not until John Beck, a cell sergeant, reached a hand through the bars to pet the dog that "Queenie" displayed a tendency to like his gaolers. That was yesterday.

Paid for Husband's Vacation, Now Asks Divorce

Even sending her husband on a vacation and giving him money to pay for his trip did not make him appreciative, so Frances Shaw, 470 South Aiken avenue, wants Judge Thomas J. Ford to divorce her from John Melvin Shaw.

The Shaw's were married in 1928, and separated this year. The wife testified that her husband was very abusive to her and on various occasions struck and kicked her. At the present time the young woman is employed by the National Tube Company, as a stenographer. She charges her husband with cruel and barbarous treatment.

Dormont Borough Council, at its meeting held in the Municipal Building Tuesday, approved the plans and authorized the work for the construction of a new bath house to be started immediately. The bath house is to be erected alongside the swimming pool, and will cost $35,000. This is one of the items of the $108,000 improvement bond issues, approved by voters of the borough in the recent general election.

The revision of traffic and parking ordinances was handed back to the respective committee, as the borough solons could not agree, as they had too many suggestions to consider. The ordinances will be taken up at a special meeting to be held soon, according to O. E. Garrett, borough secretary and manager. Charles Chamberlin, president, presided.

Falls Dead After Hitting Child, Estate Sued

One month after his car struck little Beatrice Bluestone, 5, of 5804 Phillips avenue, Samuel P. Warren, Cathedral Mansions, dropped dead and the estate of the deceased has been made defendant in a $25,000 damage suit filed in Common Pleas Court.

The proceedings were begun by Attorney Sidney A. Sanes, representing Simon Bluestone, father of the child, the proceedings being instituted against the Potter Title and Trust Company, administrator of the Warren estate. In the bill of particulars filed in court, it is alleged, that the child was alighting on the right side of the machine at Phillips and Murray avenues, October 13 when the Warren car came along and struck the child. The little girl was injured about the chest, back and body, her spine also being affected. The child is still confined to her bed.

FIND STILL IN VACANT HOUSE

An unoccupied house at 131 Sprague street, police say, yielded a 50-gallon still, 37 barrels of mash, four boxes of yeast and 30 gallons of moonshine after an entrance to the house had been forced by a squad of police led by Lieut. William Fullerton, of the Frankstown Avenue Police Station. The still was in operation when the officers arrived. Efforts are being made to find the operators of the plant and the owner of the house.

POLICE NEAR AS ROBBERS WORK

In the shadows of the Dormont Municipal Building, thieves for the second time in eight months yesterday, broke into the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company store at 3008 West Liberty avenue, Dormont.

According to the manager, Ray C. Franks, entrance was gained by jimmying a rear window, cutting a hole and breaking a lock of a door leading into the store. In an attempt to locate the hidden money, the thieves upset several shelves throwing cans, boxes, crates, fruit and vegetables on the floor. Several hours were spent in putting the stock back in its place. An estimate of the loot could not be determined until officials of the company make a thorough check-up. Between 30 to 50 cartons of cigarets were taken, Mr. Franks said.

The robbery was discovered by a Dormont policeman, who notified the manager about 2:30 in the morning. The store is one-half block away from the Municipal building, and can be seen from the courtroom. A similar robbery occurred in that store eight months ago. Three weeks ago another of the company's chain stores, located on Potomac avenue near West Liberty avenue, two blocks away from the Municipal building, was entered. Nothing was taken, as when the manager entered the store he was confronted with a couple of guns in his face. He fled from the store, drove his automobile to the Municipal building, but when he got back with a policeman, the robbers were gone.

SCHOOL SURVEY TAKEN IN BELLEVUE

A survey to determine the most suitable type of school buildings to care for the increasing enrollment of Bellevue schools has been made by the State Department of Education and a preliminary report, it is expected, will be submitted to the Borough School Board by January 1.

Experts of the State Department studied the needs of Bellevue at the request of the school board, in view of the fast-growing need of more school facilities.

A Junior High School has been broached as a solution, but it is said this proposal has not met with unanimous support by the school authorities.

The two grade school buildings and the high school have about reached the limit of capacity. The high school designed to accommodate 620 has an enrollment of 640 and 72 more are to be admitted at the midyear.

The school board several years ago purchased property at Jefferson and Howard streets, adjoining the high school athletic field and this likely would serve as the site for any building that might be erected.

Firemen Will Get New $500 Furnace

Safety Director James M. Clark has been authorized by Council to install a heating furnace costing not more than $500 in No. 7 Fire Engine House, Twenty-third street and Penn avenue, to replace one destroyed in an explosion. Elias Johns, chief clerk in the Safety Department, explained to Council that the old furnace was heated by gas. No one was hurt in the explosion, he said. Johns said the department would put in a coal unit if one could be bought as economically as a gas furnace.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 22.

People that know them well tell me that the Coolidges are more interested in getting that two million fund raised for that deaf and dumb school than they are in getting a job for themselves.

It would be a mighty fine tribute to this gracious and charming woman for her to hand her old school that on March fourth.

And this new Governor Roosevelt—did you know what that guy has been doing for years at Warm Springs, Ga., for infantile paralysis victims? No you didn't for nothing has been said about it. Well, look it up—it's a real charity.

Ruth Becomes Angry When Bill Tells Her That He Doesn't Love Her

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Joan Hastings, seventeen and beautiful, lives with two old maiden aunts and one of them, Aunt Evvie, tells her of her unmarried mother's tragic love affair and death. Joan falls in love with Bill Martin, a penniless young man, and she is sent away to school. Bill, an innocent victim of a bootlegging gang, is sent to jail and Joan, begging for bail money from the aunts, confesses everything to them. She is put on a train for school in charge of a woman friend of Aunt Evvie's. Bill, freed, bids goodby to his mother, leaving no address and befriending Rollo Keyes, a rich young spender, is given a job by his father. Joan, escaping from the train, reaches his home just after he has gone. Concealing her presence from her aunts she gets a position in a department store and later works as a model in a smart shop. There Mrs. Barstow, a rich society woman, sees her, likes her and asks her to tea. She meets Curtis Barstow who immediately becomes interested in her. Bill comes home and discovers that Joan is close at hand. Joan meets Bill again and discovers Ruth Gillespie, one of the girls at the shop, is deeply in love with him. Joan becomes engaged to Curtis. She later tells him about her old love affair with Bill and wants to break their engagement. Curtis leaves town to try to forget her, but returns when he finds he still loves her. Bill returns and Joan sees him. Bill meets Ruth and he tells her that Rollo is deeply in love with her, but she isn't interested as she is in love with Bill. Curtis tells his mother that he is called out of town on business, but he takes Joan to his summer home in the mountains.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

SHE rose to take the plates away. "I'll miss you—"

"Come on down South, and marry Rollo, and you won't miss me," he said, avoiding her eyes.

A little spasm of pain passed over her bright face. "I told you I'd only marry for love or money," she said, "I meant it."

"Rollo will have plenty of money and he loves you."

"You spoilt all that."

"I—why Ruth—that's a crazy thing—"

"No it isn't a crazy thing to say, Will'um. It's the truth. I'm going to say it. I've been wanting to say it long enough. I haven't been able to see Rollo, since I met you—"

Her soft arms were about his neck now, her lips on his cheek. "Will'um—do you hate me so much? Why, Will'um you seemed to like me pretty well. I haven't forgotten the fun we had together if you have. You seemed to like me pretty well, then—"

He jumped up, and shook himself with a rather unsuccessful laugh. "See here, Ruth—this is getting dangerous. Why, what would Rollo say to me horning in on his preserves this way, and you flattering me—"

"I'm not flattering you. Oh, be serious—be serious!" she cried, her brown eyes wet and starry. "Bill Martin, you know I'm not fooling. I ought to have more sense, but I haven't. Don't go away. Don't Will'um, darling. Stay here with Ruthie." Her arms were tight around his neck now, she was holding him close.

Her voice went on, crooningly. "You know you like me—you know you do, Will'um—I can tell. And you aren't horning in on Rollo's preserves, 'cause he's out of the running—kiss me, honey! . . . No—not that way—miserable little peck, as if we'd been married 10 years—or 20—Will'um."

"Ruth—have a heart! I'm Rollo's friend—"

"The devil with Rollo. Say you're going to stay—just a little while, Will'um—just another week—come on—that's a teeny."

"I've got to go back—right away. I only came up—" he broke off in confusion—"I only came up—for a couple of days—didn't really expect to stay."

He was standing up now, looking around for his hat. She saw him, knew that he was going in a moment. "I know why you came up," she cried suddenly, her eyes blazing, the red mounting to her temples with the tide of her disappointment and anger.

"Oh—well—I've got to be on my way Ruth. Thanks a lot for the—"

"Yes, thank me for the lunch and run away to safety. For fear you might accidentally fall for me! And that might bother your friend Rollo—never mind me—let me break my heart if I'm fool enough to break it—that's nothing, just as long as dear, darling, lovely, sweet Rollo is happy—"

She began to cry, chokingly. "Oh, Bill—it's such a farce. Such a hopeless farce. I know what's the matter with you. It isn't Rollo—it's Joan—Joan Hastings. I know why you came up here—to see her. To make sure that she was really going to be married. Thought it might be a misprint in the papers—ha, ha—I know—I've been watching you whenever her name was said—I know—"

"Look here, Ruth—that's no way to talk. I—"

"No, it isn't—say anything but the truth! That's what you believe in doing. What's the matter with you, are you afraid? If you wanted her, why did you sit back and let Barstow grab her—"

"Joan—I—I wouldn't stand in her way—"

"No—just in my way. Just break my heart for Rollo. I know you, Bill. I wouldn't run after someone who didn't want me—but I can tell you do. I know—I'm no fool. Oh, love me, Bill—love me—you can't have Joan—"

Ruth's face was scarlet now, she was beyond reason, beyond control. She knew she was doing everything wrong, frightening him away, undoing all the good, but she couldn't stop now—it had to come out—

"Yes, you'll go on your whole life, worshipping at the shrine of that plaster saint—making a fool of yourself over her. I know. I know plenty more, too — plenty that would make you see she's no saint. I have a good mind to tell you—it'll do you good—you have it coming—"

She held fast to his coat, holding on with all her strength—"No, you don't—no, you don't walk out till I tell you! Right now—right this minute she's on a wild party with Curtis Barstow—sneaked off to a love nest in the country. You aren't the only one she's had—oh yes, you don't have to look at me that way—I know that, too—I'm not blind. And if you want to know how I know she's gone with Barstow I'll tell you—I—"

Her words ended in a shriek, a choking, agonized shriek. He had seized her, was shaking her, as a terrier shakes a rat. Her neck was breaking, her eyes were bursting out of their sockets.

With a groan he flung her on the bed, and leaned against it, his face working. For the first time in his life he had hurt a woman. He had shaken her brutally. And to think that only a moment ago he had had her arms around him, had been drawn to her, almost loving her—

He covered his face with his hands. "Johnnie—Johnnie—"

The minutes passed. Ruth's cries ceased. Slowly she struggled to her feet, her eyes glued on the man whose strong brown hands had tightened on her shoulders.

Quietly, carefully, hardly breathing, she began to move to the door . . . inch by inch . . . inch inch by inch . . .

Ruth was almost at the door now. In another moment she'd be safe, in the hall, calling for help.

But he was suddenly alert.

"No—not until you tell me where Joan is—where Joan is—do you hear me?" The squeak of the door had roused him. His hands were on her shoulders again, holding her fast.

She began to whimper. "You're hurting me—let me go—I'll scream—I'll scream so loud—"

"Shut up, you little fool—keep quiet!" But he released his hold. "I'm not going to hurt you—just tell me about Joan—tell me—"

"You did hurt me—you did—"

"I know," his hands dropped heavily to his side. "I must have been crazy. Forgive me."

"You shouldn't have done it," she said unsteadily. Her eyes rested on his accusingly, amorously . . . he was so big, so supple and strong. "I didn't know you were such a cave man! Wonder you didn't give me a black eye!" She began to giggle helplessly. "I didn't know they made 'em like that any more—"

Sour Stomach Sign of Carelessness

POLITE society frowns on those whose stomachs "grumble." For careful people heed this warning that the contents of the stomach is sour and fermenting. Those who don't, may some day develop gastritis—or even ulcers.

Nine times out of ten indigestion and allied stomach disorders are due to excess stomach acid, which impedes normal digestion and forms sour gases that cause intense pain. To restore good digestion you must eliminate this cause. A tablet of "Pape's Diapepsin" after eating or when pain is felt will instantly neutralize the acidity and banish all digestive trouble and pain.

So, do buy a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapepsin" today. This not only means instant relief, but by soothing, healing and strengthening your weak and disordered stomach a little "Pape's Diapepsin" keeps your digestive system healthy and helps to prevent various disorders.

IT MIGHT be that these two live on different worlds, so far apart are they in everything.

Life to one means a constant round of dizzy gayety. Ever striving for the will-o'-the-wisp which dances tantalizingly before and seems to promise happiness. But eventually the path leads to sorrow and misery and loneliness. For the time being it seems as though she has everything—jewels, clothes, motors, the gay lights, the dancing, fawning, flattering friends—but what happens when her beauty is gone and a new face captures the fickle crowd which now surrounds her? There's nothing left but tears and vain regrets. That's one world!

But the other! Ah, there lies the true secret of happiness. The one calls her "foolish and ridiculous" for preferring the tiny baby fingers which cling like rose leaves 'round her fingers. And the crooning, age-old Mother song that springs ever to her lips. Hard work, perhaps, but nevertheless, Love work, too. And whatever Love prompts brings the only real happiness.

And that's the other world! The one pursues a wraith, the other possesses reality! After all, reality may be hard and matter-of-fact and tedious, but it spells H-a-p-p-i-n-e-s-s! And isn't that what we all desire more than anything else which Life has to give?

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

Question of Career or Boy Agitates Madge

KATHERINE slipped her hand into the curve of my elbow as I told her that she would have ample time to answer my question between the house and the gate.

"Come along, then," she said, "but if your query is what I think it's going to take more time than the interval you've named. However, let's get clear of the house. I'm not going to the big road, anyway, but in the other direction. I'm going to tramp up the hill back of the house, rest my eyes with that view and then go on down the wood road for a mile or so."

"I'll go out to the first wild apple tree beyond the barn," I said, naming a boundary which we set for Junior when he was smaller. "Then Katie will be able to call me if Junior needs me."

"Her voice will reach farther than that," Katherine said with a smile, and neither of us spoke again until we reached the tree and sat down upon the grass beneath it.

"So you think you know what I'm going to ask you," I said.

"Practically sure of it," she returned. "It's the inevitable query of anyone confronted with your problem. You want to know whether you ought to stay at the farm with Junior this winter or go to the city to live, coming home only week-ends."

"You'd have been fuel for a bonfire if you'd lived in Salem a couple of centuries ago," I told her. "You've named my question exactly. I hope your answer will be as decisive."

"It's going to be," she said emphatically, "although I don't know how pleasing it is going to be to you. I say, go to your work by all means. Your staying wouldn't be of any benefit to Junior under the present circumstances. In fact, to speak plainly, you would add only another complication to the difficult situation I shall have to manage this winter."

Involuntarily I stiffened. I defy any mother to listen with absolute calmness to the dictum of nurse or teacher that she is a handicap to her child. Then, as I caught the amused twinkle in Katherine's eyes, I knew that she purposely had phrased her answer in provocative fashion.

"Hook, line—also sinker, that time," she laughed. "But, seriously, Madge, I mean what I've said, only my reasons for it will smooth down your justly rumpled feathers, I'm sure."

"Just a second," I said, furious at myself for my betrayal of my chagrin. "You ought to know that you needn't explain to me. When we made this compact that you should take charge of Junior for this year of my work in Philip Veritzen's organization, I resolved to keep hands off."

"And you've kept your resolve wonderfully," she said. "If you hadn't I should have been over the seas and far away. But just because of that you're entitled to the explanation of my words. So please keep quiet, if you can, and let me talk awhile."

I closed my lips tightly and pressed my finger against them before locking my hands in my lap. Katherine laughed lightly and then plunged directly into clearly clipped speech.

"In the first place," she said, "there's nothing for you to worry about in Junior's physical condition. He's coming along splendidly—the accident wasn't nearly so serious as we feared, and the winter out here will set him up beautifully.

"But"—she paused impressively—"please remember that in the farmhouse this winter will be two doting grandparents, just bubbling over with plans for his entertainment and perfectly willing to spread themselves upon the floor as rugs any time he says the word. It's going to be a herculean task to keep him from being spoiled. You, no doubt, could accomplish it, but you'd be a wreck by the time the winter was over and you'd have acquired the undying enmity of your mother-in-law. I expect to get mine from her many a time, but it's a different problem with me. A trained nurse is supposed to be rigid and uncompromising in the discharge of her duty, and while your mother-in-law may rebel at my authority over Junior, she isn't going to resent it as she would if you or any other near relative were issuing the ultimatums. If you stay here, it will only mean divided authority; Mother Graham trying to have you go to the mat with me over something she wants to do and similar problems ad infinitum. 'An' you love me,' Madge, go and do the work you've contracted to do. I'll take care of your boy."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, November 23

THE stellar mutations for this day point to many avenues for deceit, treachery, slander and self-undoing by an ill-governed tongue and temper as well as rash and tumultuous conduct. The personal affiliations seem to suffer most in this campaign of publicity, intrigue and clamor, and should be protected from such at every angle. Employment is under a benignant ray and with proper management the finances are well fortified by a friendly ray from Jupiter. Change and travel with care.

Those whose birthday it is stand at the threshold of an important year in which some benefits may accrue from most discreet and well-managed action. But there is seen definite danger from fraud, deception, slander and self-undoing through tempestuous conduct and impetuosity. The purely personal affairs need safeguarding from this flagrant menace. Changes should not be hastily embraced.

A child born on this day may be prone to hasty, rash and tumultuous conduct as well as to sly and subtle ways of attaining its ends, unless well trained.

Apple and Red Cabbage

Remove the outer leaves and the heart of a small red cabbage and chop it very fine. Cover with boiling water to which add a half cupful of vinegar, pepper, salt and a little sugar and boil until tender. When done, drain dry and add to it a generous lump of butter, two cupfuls of fine applesauce and serve with a hot drawn butter sauce of Hollandaise sauce.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Speaking of Men—

LOVE may be anything from platonic to "plutonic"—but it's always a TONIC!

I have often wondered what makes the Tired Business Man so tired, after a half hour's dictation, a 15-minute "conference" and a two-hour lunch.

HELEN ROWLAND

Cynicism and misogyny, like whooping cough, are infantile diseases. A mature bachelor is too indifferent to the whole darned feminine sex to be a bitter woman-hater.

The American man's love-making may leave much to be desired, and it is certainly lacking in originality and dramatic fervor. But his divorce manners are perfectly beautiful!

* * *

By the time he is 40, a man should have achieved that perfect balance of character, produced by 20 years of effort on the part of his wife to counteract the 20 years of spoiling on the part of his mother.

* * *

Perhaps the reason why a divorcee holds onto her girlish figure and her "pep" longer than a happily married woman, is because she hasn't got that "Now-I've-got-him-what's-he-going-to-do-about-it" feeling, which acts like a lullaby on a woman's vanity.

* * *

You don't wonder why so many men are getting shot, these days, when you read some of the innocuous and jury-proof sort of love letters they write.

* * *

In the game of love and of life, it is the element of chance or peril that men relish most. Perhaps that is why they keep younger—and die younger—than women.

* * *

A woman's heart is a "one-man" affair; but no man was ever so absorbed in one woman as to deaden his subconscious interest in the "next woman."

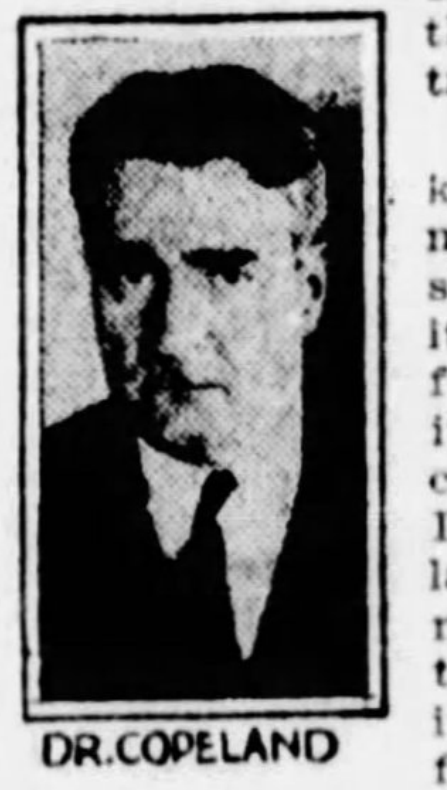
How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Diet Errors Cause Intestinal Troubles

A FEW days ago I told you something about tuberculosis of the intestine. Perhaps it will be well now to speak about the simple form of inflammation of the lining of the intestinal tract.



DR. COPELAND

This trouble is known to the medical profession as "enteritis," and most forms of enteritis are of the catarrhal type. In simple language, this means that there is such an irritation or inflammation of the mucous membrane of the bowel as to result in an increased flow of mucous. It is just as much a catarrhal condition as a head cold where there is a marked increase of the flow from the nose.

Any part of the intestinal tract may be involved in a catarrhal inflammation. When there is a disturbance in one location, it is not long before the entire lining membrane may be involved. The most common cause for enteritis, particularly in children, is the taking of improper food. It may be produced by over-eating, and with most people the eating of unripe fruit is a common cause. Diarrhoea is the most frequent and almost the only symptom of a mild case. Whenever there is an attack of diarrhoea it is because the lining membrane of the intestine has been disturbed.

Most of us know that particular articles of food will produce diarrhoea. The reason why is because that particular food is capable of causing congestion of the intestinal lining. It acts as a poison to this part of the body.

Spoiled milk, strong coffee and plums are among the foodstuffs which irritate some individuals.

It is a remarkable fact that pronounced changes in the weather will sometimes produce intestinal irritations. I have heard a great many patients complain of acute diarrhoea following exposure to cold, or to such weather conditions as I have suggested.

We cannot disregard the effect of nervous influences. One of the symptoms following stage fright, or other similar emotions, is marked diarrhoea.

Of course, we are familiar with this symptom as an accompaniment of typhoid fever, tuberculosis, pneumonia and other infections. As a rule, however, it is a passing disturbance, due to some dietetic error.

In a pronounced case of enteritis there may be some pain. Indeed, a collicky pain is quite common where the disturbance is due to taking the wrong kind of food.

There may be slight amount of fever and great thirst. In consequence, the tongue may be dry and coated. If the diarrhoea continues for a long time, there will be prostration and sense of illness.

It is a good thing to go to bed and reduce the diet. Milk should be omitted and, indeed, to give up food entirely will be helpful. At the same time quantities of hot water may be taken.

The colic may be relieved by applying hot, moist compresses over the abdomen. A hot water bottle and frequent hot tub baths will help.

Answers to Health Queries

G. F. Q.—I am a young man of 26 and have a lump below the kneecap on the front of the leg. Is this dangerous and should it have attention? It does not pain, but has persisted for about three months?

A.—May be due to strain or some other injury. Have your doctor look at it and prescribe the necessary treatment. It would be difficult to advise treatment without careful investigation.

H. B. Q.—Will a loose and inflamed kidney ever grow back into place? The patient is only 16 years of age. What treatment would be advisable?

2.—Is it possible to drink too much water.

3—Will shoulder braces improve round shoulders?

A.—Depending upon the seriousness of the trouble. You should be under the care of a doctor and follow out his instructions. The treatment depends upon the individual case.

2.—No.

3.—Yes, if properly fitted and adjusted.

M. V. C. Q.—What causes ice-cold feet?

A.—This is probably due to poor circulation. Build up the general health and your circulation should improve.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Man's Letter Paper

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. What kind of script should be used on a man's visiting card?

2. What kind of paper should he use?

3. It is considered good taste to have his name and address printed on his letter paper?

4. Is it necessary for the man to do the ordering for the lady when dining in a cafe? When should the man do the ordering, and what does he say? That is, "Miss So-and-So will have," and so forth.

E. S.

MODIFIED Roman is now the most often chosen.

2. Large generous sheets (preferably double sheets) of white or oyster white or very light gray or Scotch granite. Plain, and of as fine and heavy a texture as he can afford. No curly-cues or wiggly edges or other "decorations."

3. For his business correspondence his name and address may be printed on his letter paper. But for his social correspondence the address only is usually used, and this must be engraved.

4. Yes; at least, this is polite. After he has found out what his guest wishes, he gives the order to the waiter, giving the lady's order first. It is not necessary to say "Miss So-and-So will have."

The Luncheon Party

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am having a luncheon for a club at two o'clock. Will you kindly advise me on the following points that I am a little doubtful about?

1. I am planning to use a three-and-a-half-yard tablecloth, which is hemstitched and has 25-inch napkins to match. Would it be proper to use these napkins or shall I use Maderia luncheon napkins?

2. I am going to serve broiled lamb chops, French fried potatoes, peas, mint jelly and a salad. Also olives, hot biscuits, parfait, coffee and fancy cakes. Is this all right?

3. Shall I use bread and butter plates and place a salad fork for the salad? I have heard that bread and butter plates are superfluous at a luncheon. Also salad forks when the salad is not a separate course.

4. Would it be incorrect to serve a fruit cocktail at a luncheon such as this?

5. Are celery, olives, radishes considered hors d'oeuvres, and what is the correct pronunciation?

6. Are brass candlesticks (lighted) correct at a luncheon?

THESE napkins are too large for use at luncheon. They are even an especially generous-sized dinner napkin. It would be far better to use Madeira luncheon napkins.

2. Yes, this is an excellent—and nourishing!—luncheon menu. The only change I should like to suggest is the French fried potatoes. They are a bit obvious and heavy. Why not a lighter kind of potato, souffle or Julienne?

3. Place both bread and butter plates and salad forks. Indeed, bread and butter plates aren't superfluous at a luncheon. Quite the contrary, especially with your menu. You need them for the hot biscuits and butter, and for the olives.

And it is better form to place a salad fork as well as a luncheon fork, even if the salad is not to be served as a separate course. But why don't you serve your salad as a separate course? You certainly have a full roast course—chops, potatoes, mint jelly, peas. I suggest raising the dignity of your salad. Serve it as a separate course, and accompany it with two or more interesting cheeses, and toasted crackers.

4. No, this very often is the first course at just such a luncheon as this.

5. Yes. Or dervres.

6. No. It is not correct to have candles on a luncheon table. And brass candlesticks are usually too heavy looking for a dining 'a' e.

Ex-Teacher Thanked For Piano by School

BRIDGEPORT, O., Nov. 22.—When Mrs. Leonora Dorsey donated a piano to the Kirkwood Heights School, each pupil in the building wrote her a letter of appreciation.

Lucky?

When she comes to the footlights to acknowledge Broadway's applause of her marvelous dancing in "Sidewalks of New York," theater-goers sit forward to admire her youthful charms; the fresh crispness of her rose-petal skin and her gleaming black hair. She's Virginia Clark, of 143 Twenty-third street, Jackson Heights, New York City.

"When friends say I'm lucky to have such clear skin and soft, shining hair," says Miss Clark, "I have to tell them it isn't luck at all. In my case it's the result of care. For my hair, I use the simple method that's all the rage among New York girls now. It's so easy. All you do is put a little Danderine on your brush each time you use it. This makes my scalp feel just grand and keeps away all dandruff. It keeps my hair and scalp so clean I don't have to shampoo nearly as often as I did. It makes my hair soft and easy to dress; holds it in place; and gives it more lustre than brilliantine!"

Danderine quickly removes that oily film from your hair; brings out its natural color; makes it fairly sparkle. Dandruff disappears when you use Danderine. Waves set with it, stay in longer. It isn't oily and doesn't show. All drug stores have the generous 35c bottles. Over five million used a year!

BUGS BAER Says

WE have just passed through national meteor week.

Comets, meteors and Jiggers always pick out November for their old home twinges.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

A meteor doesn't do so good competing against electric toothpaste signs and cigaret constellations.

Astronomers have been much puzzled lately watching the academic cavortings of a new comet which has been flipping its whiskers through the solar stadiums.

Just when they were all set to wow forth the discovery of a new world, they suddenly realized that the new comet was merely bigger and better noodle advertising.

A total of 5,492 meteorites buzzed through the celestial mezzanine during national meteor week.

Thank goodness, we didn't have to eat any them.

In addition to the new meteors, a semi-detached professor at Harvard estimates there are a billion meteorites striking the earth every day.

Every time an astronomer gets spots before his eyes, he buys himself a million dollar telescope when all he really needs is a 10-cent set of spectacles.

Some of the prominent visitors who were making non-stop flights were Scorpion, the Centaur, Ophiuchus and Sagittarius.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

USING a much shorter antenna in an attempt to "get out" better, Station WCAE last night played its lone trump on the new wavelength assignment of 245.8 meters. From first reports the change did very little good, but nothing definite can be said until tomorrow. By this time the smaller towns in the tri-state area will be heard from.

It was learned late yesterday that the Federal Radio Commission had changed the time of the WCAE wave appeal from Tuesday, December 4, to Friday, December 7. No reason was assigned for the postponement.

Letters coming to the Sun-Telegraph still demand that WCAE be shifted to its old wavelength of 461.3 meters. But down at WCAE the studio management is mum as ever as to that station's attitude. From the first day the management has maintained that the new wavelength would be given a fair trial and that no public announcement would be made until the time of a hearing before the commission. To say that the studio management has adhered to this ruling is putting things mildly. One is denied any word of the progress of tests and must rely entirely on observation for news of broadcasting activities.

The principal observation that this writer has made has been that the studio manager's desk is piled high with letters every day, similar to the piles of letters being received by the Sun-Telegraph. Since no favorable comment is forthcoming from the studio office it is presumed that these letters are the same in content as those being received by the Sun-Telegraph.

The whole substance of the story is that fans want WCAE back on its old wavelength and that WCAE, ever mindful of the Radio Commission's far-reaching authority, are not going to jeopardize their chances of getting something better than they have by antagonizing the commission through a public announcement of dissatisfaction.

HIT-RUN HURTS CAB RIDER

Bruce A. Gibson, 32, of Aliquippa, was injured seriously last night when a taxicab in which he was riding was struck by a "hit-run motorist" in East Ohio street near Cedar avenue. Gibson is in Allegheny General Hospital suffering a probable fracture of the skull. Police say the machine struck the taxicab and its driver then sped away without offering any assistance.

POISONED, GIRL HIDES IDENTITY

Efforts are being made today to identify a woman, aged about 20 years, who police say took poison late last night in a comfort station in Smithfield street at Third avenue. A matron found the young woman shortly before midnight and had her taken to Mercy Hospital, where she is being detained.

After she had been revived, she refused to tell police her name or address. If the girl is able to leave the hospital today she probably will be arraigned in Morals Court on a disorderly conduct charge. She is described as having reddish brown bobbed hair, and dressed in a dark blue coat with fur collar and a blue silk polka dot dress.

Infant Scalded By Hot Tea Dies

Joseph Krunoski, 17 months, died early today in the home of his parents as a result of upsetting a pot of hot tea upon himself yesterday. The child was on a chair at the table when he suddenly pulled the pot of tea over the table edge onto himself.

Penn. Mother Finds Best Plan

When Nature fails you, try and help yourself by the most natural method! That's the advice of leading authorities nowadays and for over 50 years it has been the plan of the makers of California Fig Syrup. The quick, easy way this pure, wholesome product relieves children of those symptoms of stubborn bowels, such as headaches, biliousness, coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy, etc., and makes them strong, energetic and rosy-cheeked again shows there's no use drugging a child with harsh purgative medicines. And Fig Syrup helps give tone and strength to weak, flabby stomach and bowels so they continue to act of their own accord and you don't have to keep dosing them. Its popularity is shown by its sales record of over four million bottles a year and by the praise thousands of mothers are fairly showering on it. A Pennsylvania mother, Mrs. F. Koehler, 259 Ithan St., Philadelphia, enthusiastically declares: "My big, fat boy, John, is now seven. He is strong and energetic and always romping. I give California Fig Syrup a lot of credit for his condition. I have used it with him since babyhood for every cold or upset spell. It always regulates him quick and starts him to eating right and improving in every way."

Your protection against inferior substitutes is the word "California," which always appears on the carton of genuine California Fig Syrup.

Views of Emotional Artist Included in Panorama of Theater

YOUNGEST OF SAD-EYED STARS, KATHARINE CORNELL, IS NOT SO MELANCHOLY

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

LIKE Madame Olenska in "The Age of Innocence," in which she is appearing at the Pitt Theater, Katharine Cornell has just returned from Paris. It was a hurried trip, for relaxation and change, and she got both. She got so much change, in fact, that she could hardly count it. Motoring with a party from Paris to Aix-la-Chapelle, and then through Belgium and Holland, they spent exactly $85 in five days, for hotels, meals and everything. It was like a Scotch model of Paradise, Miss Cornell declares.

GEORGE SEIBEL

Miss Cornell, who is one of the youngest stars on the stage today, is also one of the most serious. Perhaps that accounts for her success in emotional roles. When she looks sad, it seems like the real thing, not merely a mask or a pose. She has thought much and read much and brings to every part a deep human sympathy, not merely a superficial sense for stage effect. She lets Guthrie McClintic—that's her husband—worry about the stage effect. What she wants is the human appeal.

Her reading has been that of the average educated woman of our day—from "The Vicar of Wakefield" to Michael Arlen. She admires Edith Wharton, who wrote the novel on which her new play is based, but has never met Mrs. Wharton.

She's Afraid of Edith Wharton

"I'M a little bit afraid of her," she admitted. "She must be a very formidable person. She knows so much. She puts it so well. She'd make anybody hesitate and stammer. No matter what you said to her it would be dull and trite."

"Maybe Mrs. Wharton feels the same way," I suggested. "Being a famous author, she should be the one that is afraid to meet people. So much is expected of her kind that they can never live up to it. You'd want her to know everything and to say everything well. No matter what she said, it would seem to be dull and trite. A very clever man once assured me that Bernard Shaw was a stupid talker. But perhaps the other man was only a stupid listener."

"I like to listen," confessed Miss Cornell. "I like to think. I like to dream. I could spend a long summer in one of those French chateaux just dipping in books by Maeterlinck or Remy de Gourmont. Watching the poppies spring up in the furrows and the lilacs climbing over the fence. Wondering how many years it took for the moss to spin its green shawl all around those ancient trees in the parks."

Unknown Woman Is Her Heroine

"AFTER such a summer you could play Joan of Arc," I hinted.

"There are many parts I'd like to play," she said. "Parts no dramatist has written. Parts no dramatist might think worth writing. For instance, while there has been so much fuss about the 'unknown soldier' in the war, no one thinks about the 'unknown woman.' But hers was the saddest tragedy of all—hers was the unhappiest lot."

"Shall you take up comedy one of these days?"

"I don't know. I'm not a gloomy person, am I? I like a good laugh, even at myself. I'd be glad if I could make other people laugh, even at myself. It's a sort of missionary work, isn't it? But are there any comedy roles for women unless they are very fat, or very thin, or very foolish?"

Miss Cornell had put an unanswerable question. There are few comediennes because there are few comedy parts for women. Even Viola and Rosalind are romantic, rather than humorous. Maude Adams and Henrietta Crosman have had few rivals. So I made no effort to answer that question, and Miss Cornell started for home. She has a home in Pittsburgh. She never goes to a hotel here if the George S. Olivers are in town. And she has some of her best times with Mrs. Oliver and the children.

WITH FILM PLAYERS :-: AT HOME :-: AND ACROSS SEA

Doris Dawson becomes a leading woman in "Do Your Duty," photoplay starring the funny Charlie Murray. That's a nice shawl.

George Bernard Shaw is becoming a regular movie actor. A short time ago we saw him—heard him, too—in a talking picture. Here he is with Rex Ingram, Alice Terry and Alastair Mackintosh at the Ingram studio, Nice, France, where "Three Passions" is being made.

Virginia Cherrill, selected by Charlie Chaplin as feminine lead in "City Lights," is blue-eyed, blonde and twenty.

VARIED BILLS COMING TO THEATERS

Seats now are on sale in the box office of the Nixon for "Rosalie," Ziegfeld's romantic music play, starring Marilyn Miller and Jack Donahue. There will be three matinees, Wednesday, Thursday (Thanksgiving) and Saturday.

Seats are on sale today in the Pitt for the one-week engagement, opening next Monday night, with matinees Thursday and Saturday, of Peggy Joyce in the Parisian comedy, "Le Golouchon Delicat," adapted as "So This Is Love."

GILDA GRAY COMPLETES FIRST OF THREE FOREIGN-MADE FILMS IN ENGLAND

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 21.

GILDA GRAY cables from London that she has completed her foreign-made photoplay, "Piccadilly," and plans to cross the Channel for a Paris vacation before returning to the British International Studios for the second of the three pictures for which she has contracted. Gilda is as popular in any of the European capitals as she is on Broadway and in Hollywood, and shows no signs of homesickness. However, she does say that she'll be back in California soon as she finishes her work.

Many of the boys in the various publicity departments of the big companies find that the talkies have suddenly presented them with an opportunity to be directors. So far it has fallen to the lot of the publicity department to create the "trailers" run off at the theaters to advertise coming productions. "Trailers," silent ones, have been in use for years. But these were merely bits of scenes taken from the picture. The talking trailers are complete, well-rounded little pictures in themselves. They introduce the various characters in the talkie, and each of them speaks a "part." So far, Hal Wallis, of Warner Brothers; Pete Smith, of Metro, and Herb Moulton, of Paramount lead the field in this new development. The boys certainly deserve a credit like "directed by," for the talking trailers certainly pull in business, and thus are of first importance.

"White Collars" As Screen Play

THE use of dialog in talking pictures promises to bring many stage plays to the screen. The latest of these to be under consideration is "White Collars," which, it is understood, is being negotiated for by Metro and William C. De Mille. The play appeared for quite a run when presented by Anne Nichols three or four seasons ago. The star of the stage production was Dorothy Hall, the New York actress. Dorothy has since accumulated considerable screen experience.

A brand new movie company has sprung up calling itself Liberty Productions. And it has shown its good judgment by signing Margaret Livingston as its first star. Margaret is to have the main role in "The Story of Judy Dudd," which is the working title of the first picture. This will be the first of a series of six productions.

If you are blonde, and of masculine gender, there may be a job for you in the movies. Casting directors agree that blonde men are becoming an unknown quantity in the pictures. There just aren't any. For that matter there is an actual dearth of leading men either light or dark. Directors are constantly looking for new leading men . . . . And doubtless lots of eligibles are looking for a chance in film work. If the two could only meet.

Alice Lake Gets Role in Picture

ALICE LAKE, once one of the big shots of the screen, has been signed for a part in "Circumstantial Evidence," which goes into work under the supervision of Long Young, of Chesterfield Productions, with Wilfred Noy, another of Hollywood's actor-directors at the megaphone.

Richard Dix isn't to make "Bulldog Drummond," after all. At the twenty-third hour Samuel Goldwyn exercised his option and secured the rights for Ronald Colman. Anyway, Rich reaches New York in a day or so, and by that time they'll have his story lined up. He was on his way to the train when he received word that "Drummond" was "out."

The other Richard Barthelmess, is appearing in vaudeville these days. Not really . . . just in the movies. Dick is shooting some scenes for his picture, "Weary River," in the Hollywood Music Box Theater. In his character of an ex-convict who gains a vaudeville engagement through singing over the radio while in prison, Barthelmess proves that he has an especially pleasing singing voice which will further endear him to the fans.

Millions of Families Depend on Dr. Caldwell's Prescription

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their systems. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles. Or, to prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours, use this special coupon:

Lasts all winter—can't evaporate

No guess; no worry; you know your car is freeze-proof

IN MOST cases when cars are frozen, their owners thought they were protected. They knew that they had put in anti-freeze. But they forgot about "evaporation." It's so easy to be fooled by an anti-freeze that evaporates. You never can be sure of it.

One filling of Radiator Glycerine protects your car against freezing for the entire winter. It won't evaporate. No need to add more with every cold snap. Put it in now, and get freezing problems off your mind for the rest of the winter. Zero weather and unheated garages lose their terrors.

Radiator Glycerine is a familiar safe product. It is safe to put in your cooling system and does not damage the car finish. It has no unpleasant odor. Thousands of motorists use it with perfect results. Amundsen took it to the North Pole. It is recommended by automobile manufacturers. Its virtues are pointed out by the U. S. Bureau of Standards.

Make your car glycerine-tight

Radiator Glycerine is a permanent anti-freeze. Prevent its waste by leakage or carelessness. Be sure to have your car properly serviced, then drive your car the whole winter without fear. Your garageman should have Radiator Glycerine. Any distributor listed at the left can tell you where to get it.

Insist on this seal. It appears only on standard glycerine solutions vouched for by the Glycerine Producers' Association as especially adapted for automobile use.

LUINI CANVAS COMES TO PITTSBURGH

PAINTING PURCHASED BY EDGAR J. KAUFMANN

This canvas, "Madonna, Child and Saint John,' measuring 33 by 24½ inches, today is in Pittsburgh for delivery to Edgar J. Kaufmann, who has purchased it from John Levy Galleries, New York, for many thousands of dollars. A. Venturi, Parisian authority on paintings by its artist, Bernardino Luini, says it is one of his most important and very rare works, painted in detail and showing brilliant handling of strokes. Other Luinis in this country are owned by J. P. Morgan, Clarence Mackay, Judge Samuel L. Bronson, New Haven, and Ralph Cross Johnson, Washington, D. C. Luini, born in 1480 in Northern Italy, died about 1531 and is believed to have been a pupil of Leonardo da Vinci.

NAME THREE MEN TO HEAD CHAMBER FUND CAMPAIGN

Appointments were announced today of three businessmen to serve as group chairmen of the sustaining fund portion of financial drive being staged by the Chamber of Commerce, which will enable the organization to wage a community improvement program. The appointment of the two men to serve under General Chairman George S. Davison and F. J. Chesterman, formally opened the fund campaign.

A. W. Robertson, president of the Philadelphia Company, will take charge of the sustaining fund campaign among the public utility, transportation and hotel interests. A. L. Humphrey, president of the Westinghouse Airbrake, will manage the campaign among industrial interests, and Joseph B. Shea, president of Joseph Horne Company, among the department stores.

In a statement sent yesterday to these group chairmen and some [illegible] committeemen, T. P. Gaylord, president of the chamber, pointed out that the larger business interests in Cleveland contribute 61 per cent of the total income of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, and the proportion in other representative cities is 58 per cent in Cincinnati, 55 per cent in Toledo, 53 per cent in Detroit, and only 27 per cent in Pittsburgh.

Mr. Gaylord further pointed out that the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce performs services for the community in Pittsburgh that in many other cities are performed by independent agencies working outside of the Chamber of Commerce and making an additional demand upon the business interests of the community. The present income of the Pittsburgh chamber is only $205,000, whereas the agencies doing similar work in Detroit have a combined income of $616,000, in St. Louis $784,000, in Los Angeles $750,000, in New Orleans $466,000. In urging all business concerns in Pittsburgh to put the Chamber of Commerce on their payroll at a substantial annual salary, Mr. Gaylord said:

"The chamber is a clearing house for co-operative action on projects fundamental to the best interests of Pittsburgh. Pittsburgh's problems are your problems and mine. The chamber can handle them better than any individual. It has the time, the accumulated information and a trained full-time staff. It can do the work more economically and expeditously. Its budget is an important part of the budget of every business firm, and each company should put the Chamber of Commerce on its payroll with a substantial annual salary."

3 WOMEN FINED AFTER RAID

When three women, who were arrested with a dozen men in a police raid on an establishment at 3045 Penn avenue last night, appeared in Morals Court this morning and told Magistrate John Orie they had only visited the place to eat pickles and powder their noses in the restroom, he fined them $50 each. Police Capt. Harry Mellon, of the Penn Avenue Station, who raided the place with a squad of his men, testified he saw the women imbibe what he believed to be booze.

The three women said they were Eleanor Smith, 24, of 3025 Penn avenue; Betty Maynard, 28, of 800 Cedar avenue, North Side, and Rebecca Miller, 25, of 816 Sandusky street, North Side.

Joseph Werban, 45, alleged proprietor of the saloon, was fined $100 with the option of 30 days in jail. The male visitors were discharged.

WOMAN AGREES NOT TO JUMP

Upon the promise that she would never again jump out of a window, Mrs. Mary Perina, 24, of 100 Carrick avenue, was discharged by Magistrate John Orie in Morals Court this morning. She appeared in court following her release from the South Side Hospital, where she had been confined since Sunday with injuries received when she leaped out of a second-story window at her home.

She told the magistrate she jumped following an argument with her husband.

"He objected to the manner in which I was doing my housecleaning," she said. "I got angry and made for the window. Now I am sorry I did it."

Striking Packers Sent Back to Jobs

BULGARIAN CITY MENACED BY REBEL

VIENNA, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Advices from Sofia this morning said that Ivan Michailoff, Macedonian revolutionary leader, was reported to be threatening to march on the Bulgarian capital on short notice.

The population was stated to be panic stricken. Public buildings were occupied by troops. Streets were deserted at 10 p. m. last night.

Along the approaches to Petrich, which is Michailoff's stronghold, bodies of his murdered opponents were stated to be hanging from trees on both sides of the road. The initials of the Macedonian organization were branded on their chests.

The revolutionary leaders' men were said to be requisitioning everything they wanted from the terror-stricken population whose number was being decimated by the comitajts or irregulars. Nobody dared to go on the streets after 6 o'clock in the evening.

A meeting of the Bulgarian cabinet was summoned for today. It was common knowledge, however, that the majority of troops and officials were siding with Michailoff.

Michailoff has been the prime mover of the Macedonian revolutionary organization—an illegal association which is striving to free Macedonia by force of arms—ever since the assassination in Vienna of Todor Alexandroff four years ago.

After the assasination in Sofia on July 7 of General Alexander Protogueroff, leader of a rival Macedonian group, a bitter feud between the two organizations developed.

On October 13, Michailoff pronounced the "death sentence" upon all supporters of General Protogueroff. On November 17 eleven members of the rival organization were shot to death near Petrich by Michailoff supporters.

KING GEORGE ILL, QUEEN TAKES PLACE AT 2 EVENTS

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(INS.)—Because of the indisposition of King George, Queen Mary today took his place at two important ceremonies.

The King is suffering from a cold which, although not regarded as a serious one, was sufficiently virulent to cause his physicians to ask him to remain confined to his bed. Some alarm was felt at first when a communique stated that the cold was accompanied by fever. Later bulletins indicated, however, that the fever apparently had abated.

The ceremonies at which the Queen took the King's place were the opening of the Spitalfields market extension and the reopening of the historic Lincoln's Inn.

WATER POWER UNLIKELY TO GET LEAD

"White coal"—water power—has not eclipsed its black brother as the source of America's electrical energy, and it is not likely to do so for centuries to come. In fact, hydro-electric power is losing ground.

That summary of the power situation, directly at variance with popular belief, was put before the international coal conference here today by two men, one an electrical, the other a chemical engineer.

Falling water produces only one-third of the electricity consumed in the United States, A. R. Smith, General Electric Company engineer, told the conference. Heat from coal furnishes the other two-thirds, he said, and improvements in firing equipment probably will strengthen coal's position as the chief source of power.

Development of water power has lagged behind construction of thermal power stations, because the initial capital required is far greater than that for a steam plant, according to Smith. This in spite of the fact that the consumption of electricity is increasing at the enormous rate of five billion kilowatt hours a year.

And coal—cheap because it is abundant—continues to be dominant in spite of the fact that plants using it deliver at the dynamo's producing end only 28 and sometimes as low as 22 per cent of the potential energy that is fed into the plant furnaces.

To increase that rate of efficiency is one of the chief problems fuel technologists are struggling to solve. How they may do it was told by H. C. Parmelee, editor of "Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering."

The answer, he said, may not be a new fuel or a new form of an old one, but a new kind of steam. Water, which has been the lifeblood of the steam engine since the engine's invention, may be replaced by diphenyl, a compound which synthetic chemistry can produce cheaply.

Water carries with it many dissolved solids. These solids coat boiler surfaces and reduce effi- Diphenyl, free from that defect, would increase the efficiency of the steam plant to as high as 50 per cent, or double the present output, cutting costs in half, according to Parmelee.

Thus, while the coal supply lasts, there would be less incentive than ever to invest capital in hydro-electric plants when steam plants offer quicker, surer profits.

This does not mean, however, that the future of water power is in danger, Smith said. Its development, he predicted, will continue steadily, but it will not take the place of coal as the chief source of industrial energy in this or the next generation, nor the generation after that.

WELFARE FUND BENEFIT SHOW SEATS ALL BOUGHT

The "S. R. O." sign has been hung out by the Variety Club, which, under the auspices of The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, will give a midnight show at the Stanley Theater tomorrow night for the benefit of the Welfare Fund. All reservations, to the last seat, have been sold.

"Standing room only," now is being sold through the medium of yellow pasteboard cards at the special offices in the lobbies of the Sheridan Square and the Grand Theaters. When the big show opens at 11:45 tomorrow night, indications are that the largest crowd ever in any theater in Pittsburgh will be "out in front."

The benefit was suggested by Eugene L. Connelly, of the Harris Amusement Company, to the Variety Club, which was anxious to do something serious and ennobling to leaven its perennial spirit of fun. It now remains for the galaxy of artist from the theaters of Pittsburgh to "put it over." All entertainers have volunteered their services.

Site Accepted for Washington School

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 10.—The Washington School Board has definitely accepted the Highland avenue site for the proposed new Washington High School building, which is to be erected at a cost of approximately $1,000,000. There was much objection to the plan on the part of owners of fine residence properties in the district and others who thought the site would cost too much. Plans will be rushed toward condemning properties and taking other preliminary steps looking to speedy erection of the new building.

CLERGY DEMAND HOMESTEAD VICE QUIZ

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner today will be asked by Homestead ministers to investigate vice conditions in the town as a result of an attempted murder and suicide in a resort there.

The shooting occurred yesterday when Manu Miteff, 36, of 408 South First street, Duquesne, went to 469 Third avenue, Homestead, and there, police say, wounded Mary Steele, 24, and then shot and killed himself. The young woman is in Homestead Hospital in a critical condition. Evelyn Marshall, alleged proprietor of the house, is under arrest.

The clergymen held a special meeting last night and adopted resolutions calling upon the district attorney to include Homestead in the vice investigation which the county grand jury is making. The Rev. H. E. Shade, pastor of the Baptist Church, presided.

If their request is refused, the ministers may conduct an investigation themselves, it was said.

JUDGES FAIL TO PLACE BLAME FOR LOOTED VOTE BOX

M'KEES ROCKS OFFICIALS QUIZZED

After spending virtually an entire day in questioning members of an election board, police officers and borough employes, Judges Thomas D. Carnahan and Richard W. Martin, in charge of the returning board, have been unable to learn who caused the disappearance of 331 ballots cast in the Second District of the Second Ward, McKees Rocks.

GOES TO GARDNER

After the judges had questioned all parties who had handled the ballot box, they said a certified copy of the minutes of the hearing would be turned over to the district attorney.

"Someone has committed a crime. Who, it cannot be ascertained," the judges agreed.

Checking on the tally sheet for the district, the returning board asked that the ballot box be brought in and this was done at the judges' order. When the box was found empty the election board, consisting of Paul Thomas, George Matovich and James Evans, were called. They testified that after counting and locking the boxes, they were turned over to Police Capt. George Ashton.

NOBODY KNOWS

Ashton and two other policemen testified the boxes had been locked in a cell in the station house. Herman Golling, a borough employe, then testified he had removed the boxes to the office of Justice of the Peace James J. Westwood, located next door. Westwood testified he had kept the box in his custody since the election, and that as a self-appointed watcher at the polls, he had watched the election board count and seal the boxes.

UNWED MOTHER CONVICTED

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 22.—Elizabeth D. Angelo, 16, unwed mother, of Greensburg, tried in the Criminal Courts here on charges of killing and concealing the birth of her child, was found guilty on the latter charge with a recommendation for mercy by a jury today. The Commonwealth did not press the murder charge against the girl.

The girl was arrested in October after county detectives had found the body of a new-born infant stuffed in a mattress in the attic of their home.

The defense rested here late this morning in the case of the Commonwealth against Mrs. Anna Hlatky, of Monessen, who was being tried on charges of murdering and burying two sets of twin infants.

Mae Murray's Cars, Furniture Attached

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Mae Murray, whose stage has been more in the courts of late than in motion pictures, became involved in further litigation today. Two automobiles of an expensive foreign make, her bank account and much of the furnishings of her home were in the hands of the sheriff, who served a writ of attachment at the behest of a Los Angeles bank. The bank alleged that Miss Murray had failed to meet a foreclosure action.

POSTAL WORKERS SIFTING DIRT FOR JEWELS

Although a month has passed since the airmail crash that killed Pilot William C. Hopson, near Franklin, Pa., postoffice employes under the direction of Postal Inspector William H. The washing crew, recruited from clerks and carriers, has already recovered several thousands of dollars in fine diamonds by passing the dirt through screens.

POSTAL CLERKS SIFT SOIL FOR BURNED PLANE GEMS

FRANKLIN, Pa., Nov. 22.—Though more than a month has intervened since Airmail Pilot William C. Hopson's plane crashed on the rocky slopes of Bear Hollow, six miles southwest of Franklin, killing the famous National Air Transport aviator and resulting in complete wrecking of his machine, the famous "diamond hunt" which bobbed up as a sequel to the crash, goes on.

Within a few hours after Hopson's body, burned and crushed, had been found in the charred wreckage of the aircraft, diamonds were found among the debris and in the soft soil where part of the plane rested after it struck the rocks and went to pieces.

These diamonds were at first picked up by countless persons—seemingly countless, it appeared—until Postal Inspector William Tafel arrived on the scene in 24 hours and began a checkup, which resulted in return of 600 diamonds of varying size and worth more than $80,000, all within 10 days of the crash of the plane.

RECOVER GEMS

Some of these jewels had strayed away to Erie, to Ohio points and even farther, but the news that the Postoffice Department was after the missing gems, which had been posted in cardboard containers—and these containers burned with the rest of the mail—brought the diamonds into the proper hands.

And when this search in Polk (the town near which the craft fell) and in Franklin had been pursued to a point where it was believed that most of the large and small stones taken from the scene had been returned, then came a new task of digging up the loamlike soil underneath the plane, putting it in mail sacks, transporting it on horseback down the treacherously steep and wooded side of the mountatin, then bringing it to Franklin.

At the Franklin postoffice, under Inspector Tafel's direction, a force of postal clerks is working overtime, night as well as day, sorting over this earth, putting it through a screen, washing it out in "placer mining" fashion, and then beating it—then going through it, small and partial handfuls at a time. And in this fashion on an average of eight to 10 diamonds have been found daily. The count is well above the 700 mark now.

LARGE STONE MISSING

All of the large stones have been recovered except one, weighing more than 9 carats and valued at more than $18,000. Where it has disappeared is a problem, and the Postoffice Department is most anxious to find it. One diamond worth $5,000 was returned from Erie, and the Alexanderite, a famed stone from the Ural Mountains, with a history dating back to 1833, also was returned in response to Tafel's appeal for all stones that had been taken from the scene of the plane wreck.

The Postoffice Department has never given out the exact figures regarding the value of the cargo in the six of the 29 mail sacks aboard the plane, which were registered and which contained the diamonds and valuable Federal Reserve papers, but it is thought that a tentative value of $250,000 to $300,000 might not be far from the mark. Probably about 1,100 diamonds were in the various shipments aboard the airplane—and the wreck, it seems, has taught one lesson. Hereafter when diamonds are sent by air mail they are more likely to be transported in metal containers of some sort, better able to withstand disaster such as befell Pilot Hopson's craft.

Meanwhile, the "night school" in "placer mining" goes on at the Franklin postoffice and is likely to continue until the Christmas postal rush makes further search of the transported soil inadvisable. At the scene of the plane crash, where hardly a bit of the wrecked plane remains, a lone guard, armed and ready to repel unauthorized search, maintains a constant vigil.

BUSFARE PROBE BODY SEEKING MORE FACTS

The traction committee of the Allied Boards of Trade will seek additional information on the operations of street car and bus lines as soon as a study of the answers to the board's questions made by A. W. Robertson, president of the Philadelphia Company, has been completed.

C. V. Shoup, chairman of the transportation committee, said on his return to this city that the replies did not supply all of the information necessary as a basis for the survey of the transportation problem.

Members of the transportation committee at a meeting last night unanimously recommended that the executives of the committee continue to study the necessity for the 25-cent bus fare and for the operation of one-man cars on 26 per cent of the street car company's mileage. The executives were directed to find the underlying causes and to determine whether they are due to financial drains or to mismanagement.

Temperatures in North Dakota ranged from 18 to 20 degrees and freezing temperatures are as far south as Northern Kansas. Light frost occurred at Tampa, Fla.

GOVERNORS AID HOOVER LABOR FUND PLAN

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Commonwealth governors ended their annual conference here a day ahead of schedule time to lend their moral support, in the roles of private citizens, to Herbert Hoover's proposed $3,000,000,000 surplus to remedy slack times unemployment, up for final consideration by the American Federation of Labor today.

The governors yesterday adhered to precedent by declining to adopt resolutions indorsing the President-elect plan for stabilizing industry of the nation, but Gov. Ralph O. Brewster of Maine, who outlined the proposal in their conference, stated that seven of the chief executives favored the movement and said they would put it into practice. The plan received enthusiastic consideration in an executive session of the governors.

ACCEPTED INFORMALLY

After gubernatorial response to the Hoover construction plan, it was accorded informal acceptance in the labor convention when the address of Gov. Brewster was read before the labor men by John P. Fry, secretary of the metal trades department of the Federation of Labor.

The Hoover industrial program was described generally by William Green, president of the Federation of Labor, as a full and complete indorsement of the wage policy of the Federation.

Resolutions awaiting formal action before the Federation of Labor today were those asking approval of the multilateral peace treaty negotiated by Secretary Kellogg and proposing a conference to promote organization work in the South.

Another resolution placed in hands of committee seeking freedom of speech demanded that "public officials who violate the rights and liberties of citizens by unlawful arrest and assault be prosecuted and sued for damages."

PROGRAM OF TRIP

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Further details of President-elect Hoover's itinerary were radioed to the Navy Department today from the battleship Maryland, as follows:

Arrive Valparaiso December 7 and depart the same day.

Arrive Santiago December 7 and depart December 8.

Arrive Los Andes December 8 and depart December 9.

Arrive Buenos Aires December 10 and depart December 11.

Arrive Montevideo December 12 and depart the same day.

Arrive Rio de Janerio December 15.

The itinerary homeward from Rio de Janerio will be forwarded to the Navy as soon as it is approved by Mr. Hoover.

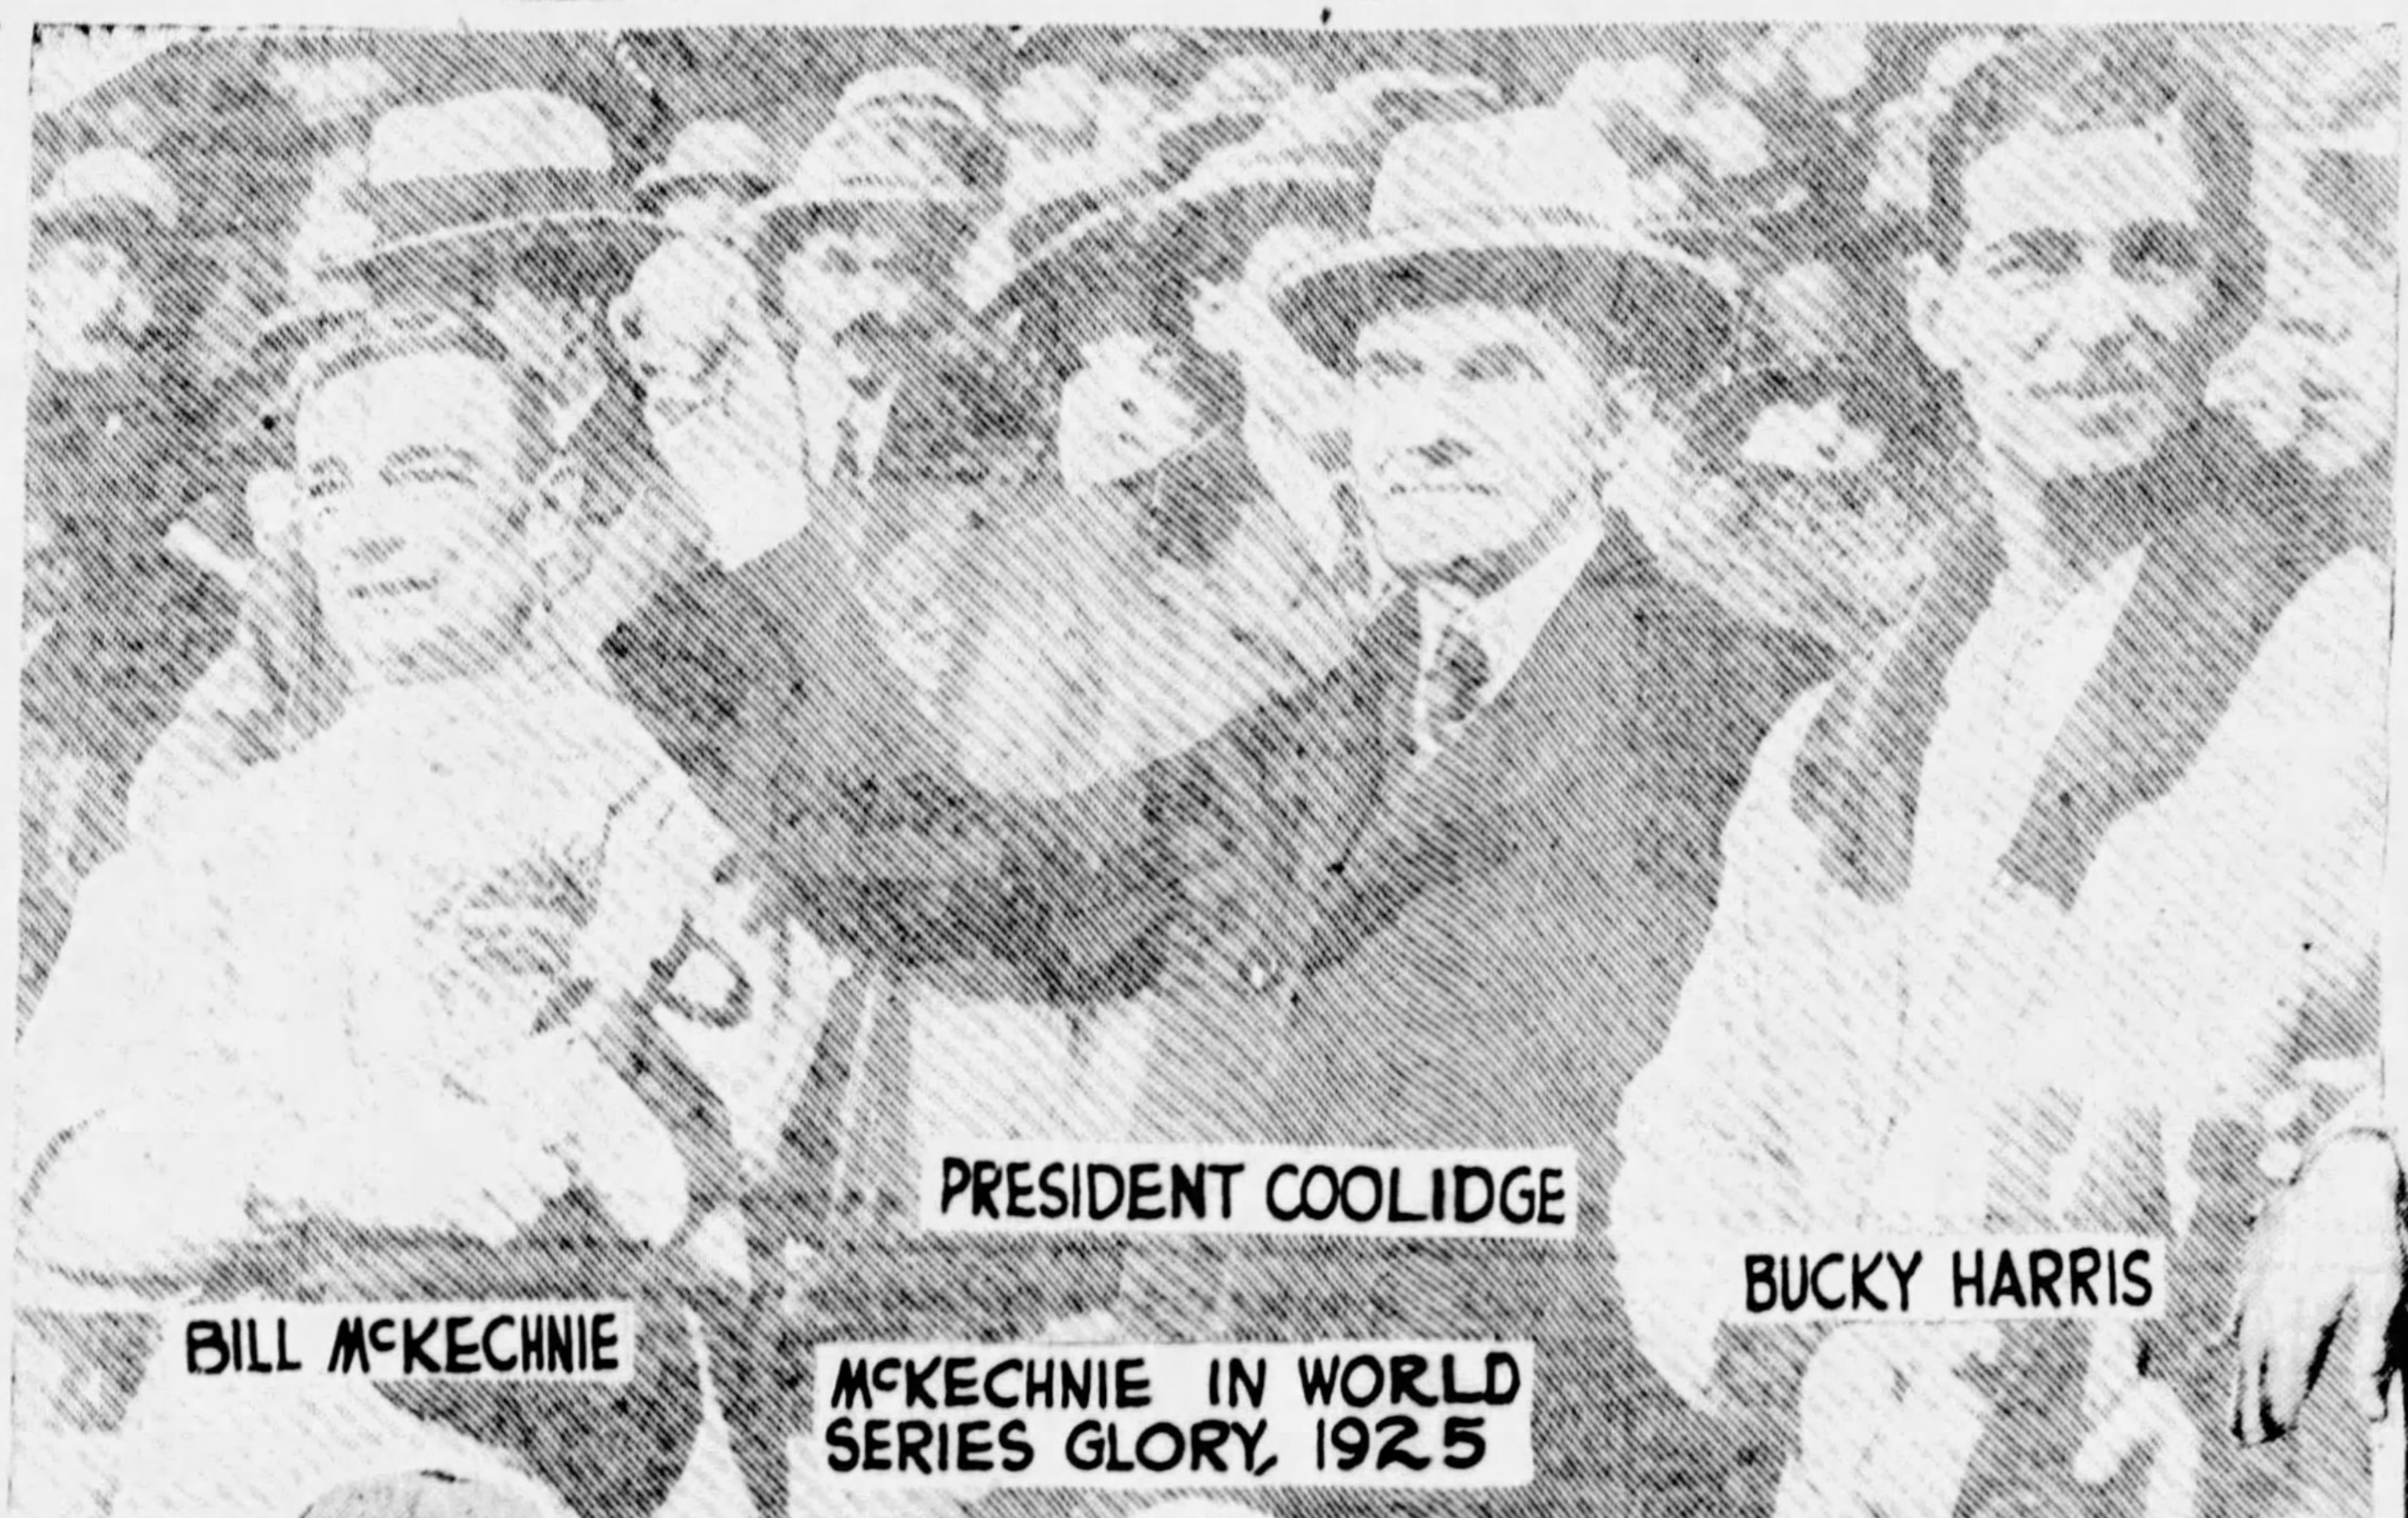
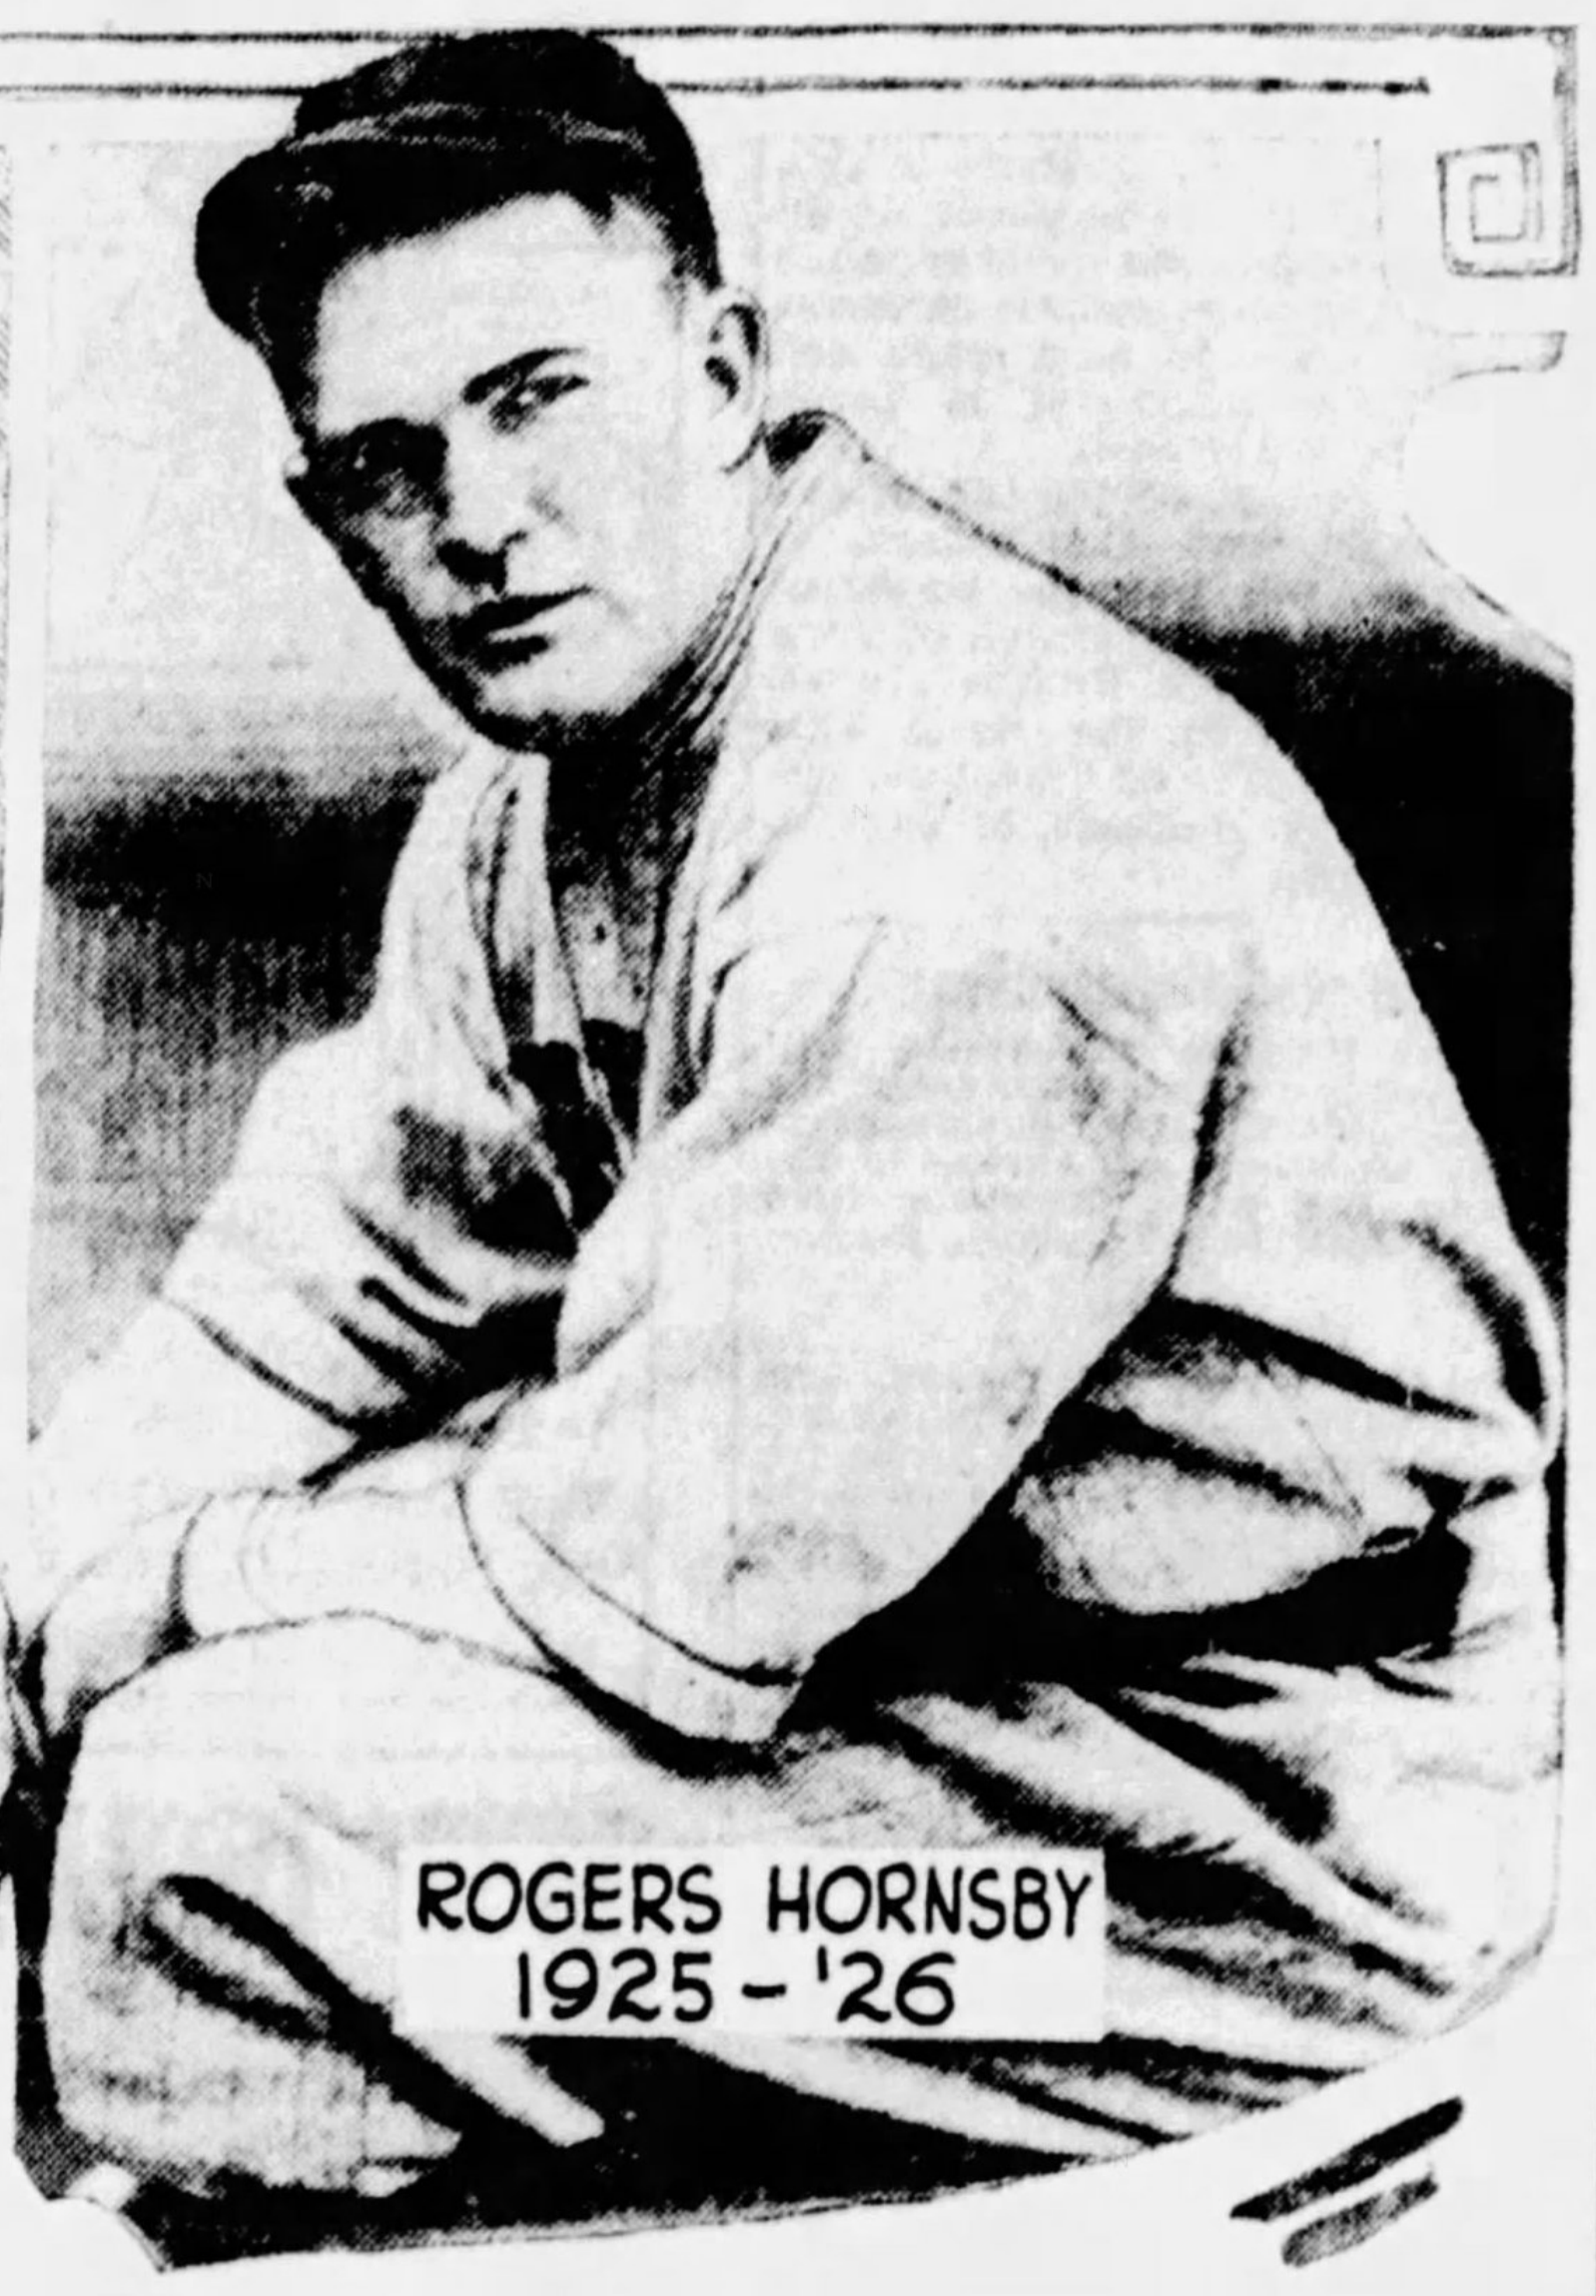
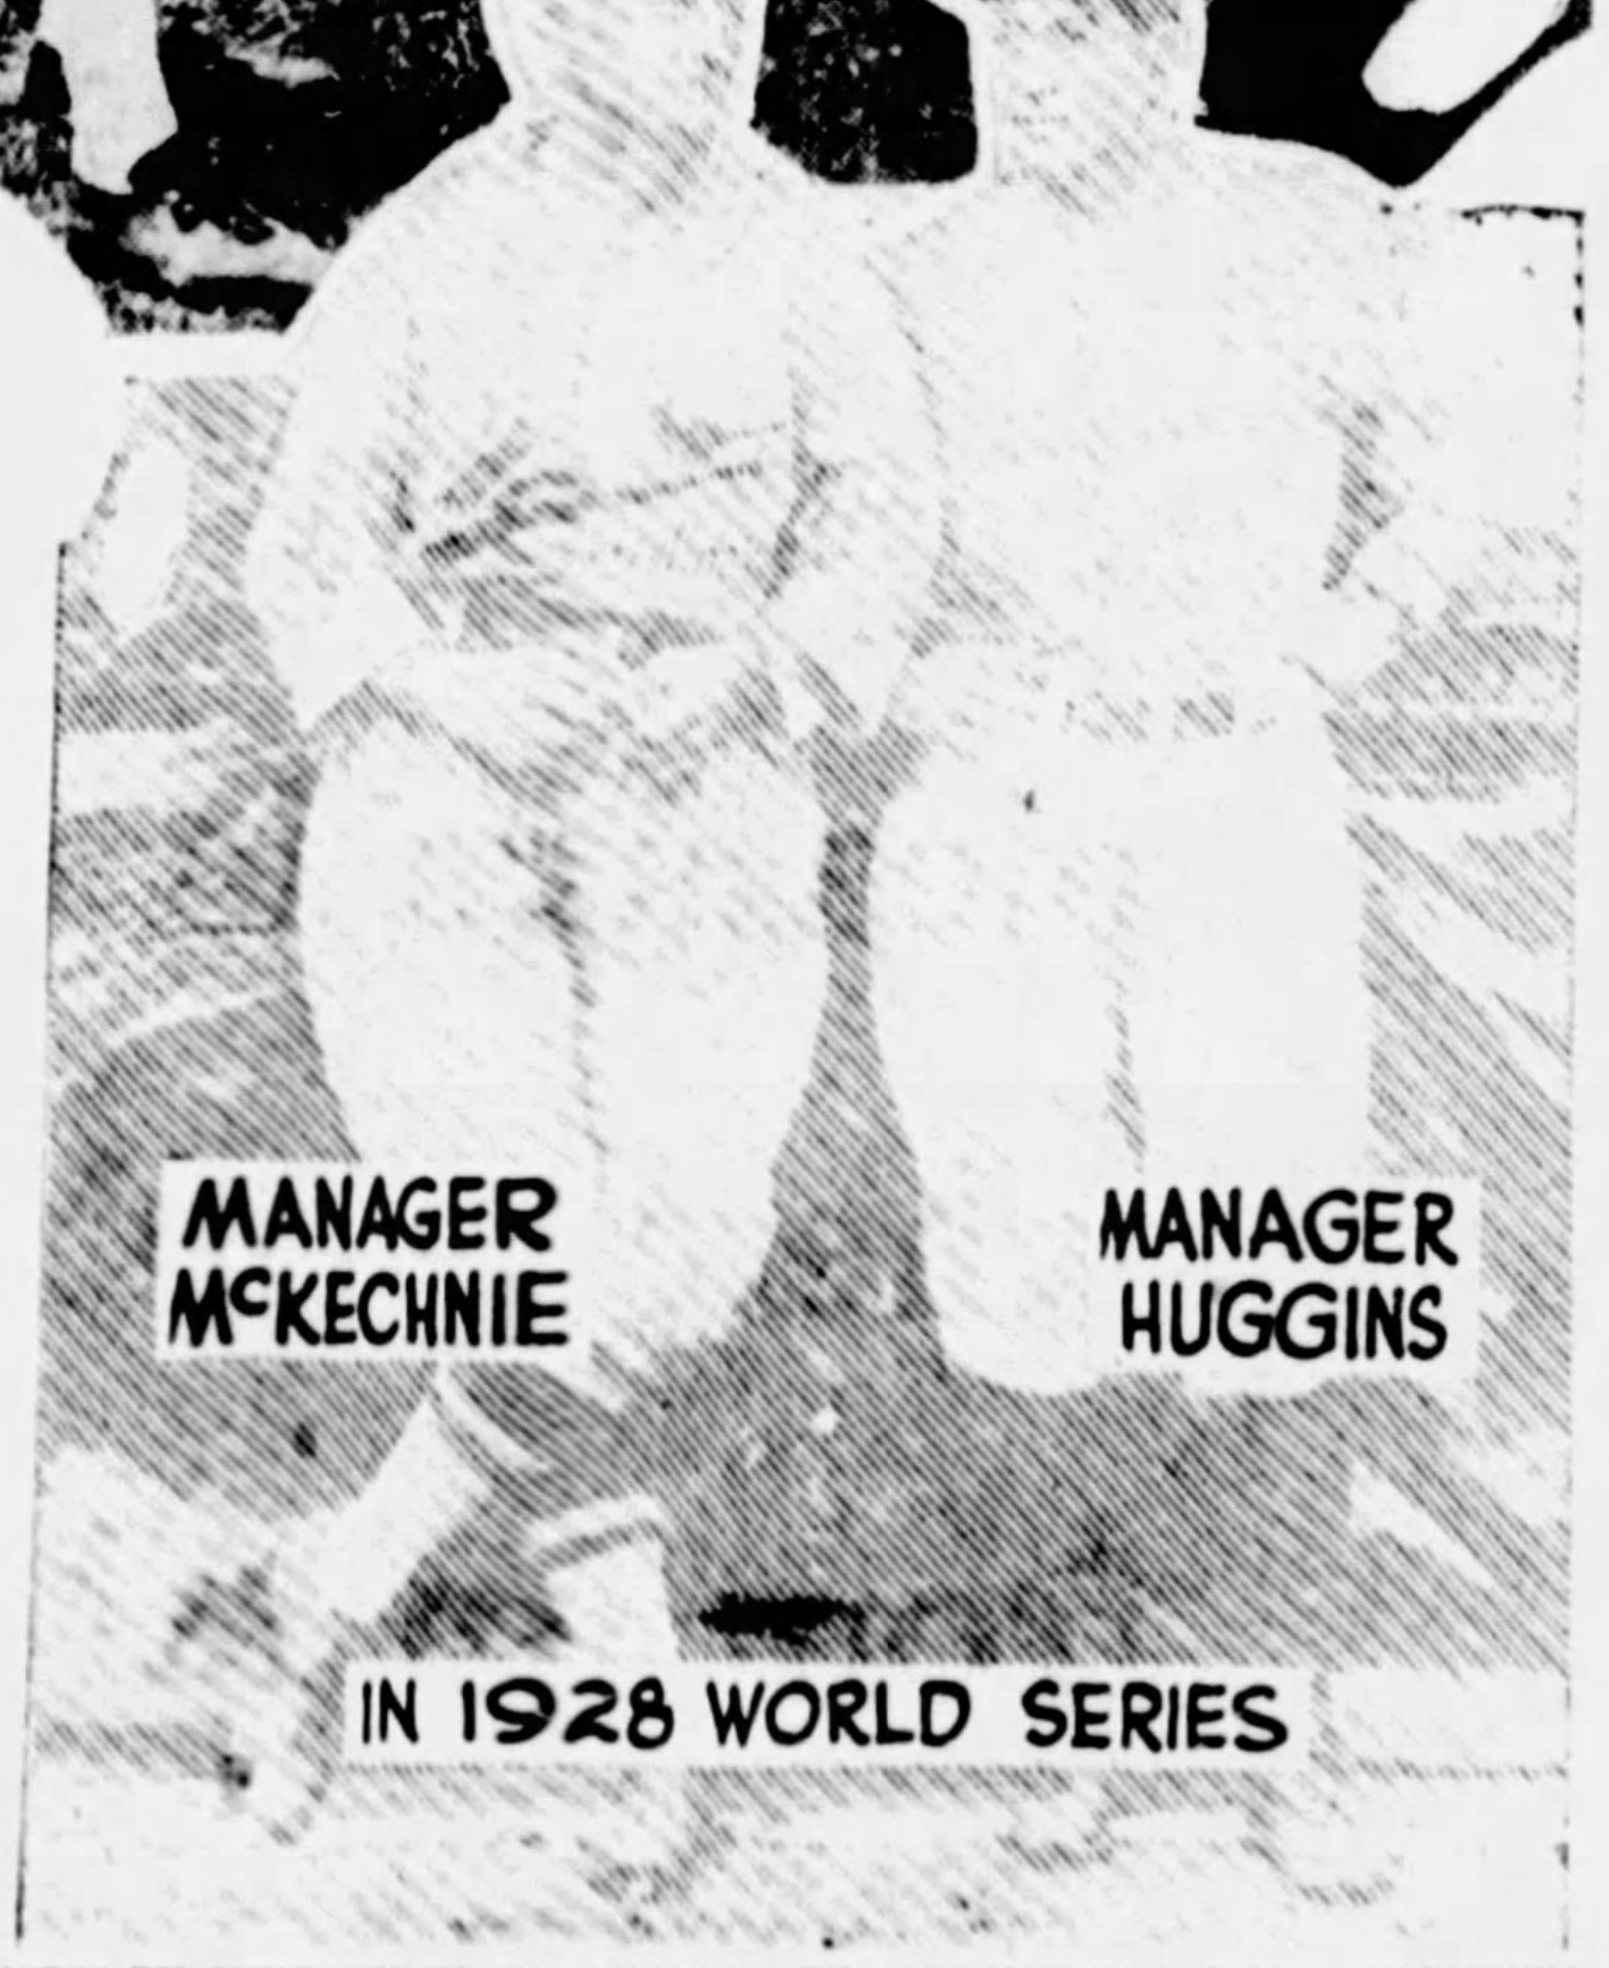
EDDIE COLLINS TO PILOT ORIOLES

LIFE IS SHORT FOR CARDINAL PILOTS :: ONE A YEAR IS CLUB'S POLICY







PHOTOS BY PITTSBURGH SUN TELEGRAPH AND INTERNATIONAL NEWSREEL.

STARTED IT

Since 1925, the St. Louis Cardinals have been changing managers every season. Rickey started the fad when he stepped down as manager on Labor Day, 1925, being succeeded by Rogers Hornsby.

MANY NEW FACES

Hornsby lasted to finish out the 1926 season, in which he won the pennant and world championship, and then was traded to the New York Giants, being succeeded by Bob O'Farrell, who gave way after a year to Bill McKechnie, of Wilkinsburg, who now passes on in favor of Billy Southworth, like McKechnie himself a former Pirate.

UP ONE DAY, DOWN THE NEXT

The life of a baseball player or manager is uncertain at best. They are heroes one day, hobos the next. They're always either up in the chips or down among the also-rans. In the shaded portions of the above layout of pictures, Bill McKechnie is seen in two of his glorious moments, as manager of the Pirates in the 1925 world series against the Senators and as manager of the Cardinals in the series against the New York Yankees this year. Now he has been shunted out of the big leagues to swap jobs with Southworth, taking up where the latter is leaving off as manager of the Rochester Internationals, a farm of the Cardinals.

DIDN'T LAST

Hornsby, like McKechnie, knows how it is to be fired off a managing job after winning a pennant. He was the original goat in St. Louis, being released after beating the Yankees in the world series of 1926. Since then he has been with the Giants as a player, with the Braves as a manager and player and recently has been traded to the Cubs for next season.

ONSLOW GOES TO NEWARK

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

JACK ONSLOW, Cardinal coach, whose home is in Tarentum, today accepted terms to coach the Newark club, of the International League. Jack will be assistant to Tris Speaker, who recently signed to manage the Newark club.

Onslow, it is reported, requested the St. Louis management to give him his release when he learned that Bill McKechnie was to be removed as manager.

The Tarentum catcher, who formerly coached the Pirates, also had an offer to assist Walter Johnson, who will manage the Washington Senators next season. Johnson piloted the Newark entry last season.

The Newark club, it is said, will pay Speaker more money than has ever been given a minor league pilot. Onslow also will be remunerated on a major league scale, it is reported.

Eddie Collins, one of baseball's greatest second-basemen, who is a part of Connie Mack's Athletics, will manager the Baltimore club of the International League, succeeding the late Jack Dunn, according to information from the Class A A sector.

N. Y. U. AT PEAK FOR TECH

By JESS CARVER.

Carnegie Tech is confronted with about the same gridiron problem, presented by Chick Meehan and his New York University eleven, as was served Pitt by Nebraska a week ago. There is vastly more at stake for the Tartans than there was for Pitt, but the job promises to be no easier.

Pitt went out to Lincoln to oppose an eleven that was admittedly heavier, more powerful and, by most folks, two touchdowns the better team. It was an undefeated team, and therefore a bit less dangerous than it would have been had it taken one on the chin earlier in the year.

The New York varsity due here Saturday is as heavy as Nebraska, and therefore huskier than Tech, and has the added advantage (and a great one) of being smart. There isn't so much deception to the Violet plays—but the power is there, and it is not the misdirected power of the Huskers. Chick Meehan is

Red Sox Get Billy Bayne From Indians

CLEVELAND, Nov. 22—(AP.)—Billy Bayne, diminutive hurler for the Cleveland Indians, has been disposed of to the Boston Red Sox at the waiver price of $7,500. Bayne came to the Tribe last year from Greenville, South Atlantic Club. He started in the American League in 1919 with St. Louis, remaining there until 1924, when he was farmed out.

CITY GRIDIRON MECCA ON SATURDAY

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor

PITTSBURGH will be the Mecca of the football world Saturday for the Carnegie Tech-New York University battle. Football writers from New York, Chicago, Boston and intermediate points are going to descend on the city to cover the biggest game of the day, with the mythical National championship at stake. Many of them sat in on the Tech battle with Notre Dame at South Bend last Saturday and are anxious to get another peek at the clever Techites in action, while others who missed the classic with the Irish want to be sure to see what they think will be a carbon copy of that spectacular contest against N. Y. U.

The press box and wire facilities at Forbes Field will be more than taxed to take care of all of the visiting scribes. However, we'll be glad to have them with us to show them a jammed park, a real championship football team and a real all-America quarterback and captain in Howard Harpster.

DATTO COLORFUL BOXER

This fellow, Johnny Datto, who makes his local debut against Andy Martin, of Boston, in the windup at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, is quite a colorful personality. He is a Filipino and reminds one a great deal of the late Pancho Villa, except, of course, that he is considerably larger than the former flyweight champion of the world. He has boxed three times in Western Pennsylvania, each time at New Castle, in the Jolly Bowl, and has scored a knockout on each occasion, against U. S. Carpentier, Jack McFarland and Al DeRose. The DeRose victory was achieved in the third round Monday night of last week.

Datto is under the management of Jimmy Dunn, of Cleveland, who piloted Johnny Kilbane to the featherweight championship. He is rugged, cunning, along the lines of Villa, and a great right-hand puncher. Since he has been with Dunn he has developed the use of his left hand to a degree he never before dreamed about.

The Filipino was born in Manila and came to the United States as a cabin boy on a Pacific liner. He turned to boxing in California, inspired by the success of Villa, and took naturally to the sport. He has fought many topnotchers and should give the local fans a treat against Martin, who also has met many of the leaders in his class.

TARTANS HOLD PEP MEETING

A mammoth pep meeting in preparation for the crucial closing game of the season with New York University at Forbes Field Saturday was held in the Carnegie Gymnasium shortly before noon today.

Keen enthusiasm marked the session. The speakers included Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of the institute; John L. Porter, chairman of the board of trustees; Frank J. Lanihan, trustees' representative on the athletic council; A. W. Tarbell, dean of men; Miss Marie Watson Green, dean of women; Prof. W. H. Rittman, of the commercial department; Dr. W. L. Marks, Capt. Howard Harpster, Coach Bob Waddell, Al Minnetti and Harry Keck, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

R. W. Wood was in charge of the meeting, at which the necessity for student support of the team and a realization of the severity of the task that lies before it Saturday were stressed.

Billy Southworth Is "Good Feller"

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

BILLY SOUTHWORTH, new manager of the Cardinals, has an unusual personality. He is of the "good-feller" type; in his three years as a Pirate he was never known to carry a grouch and he always had a smiling greeting similiar to that found in Pie Traynor.

There is something of the "Frank Merriwell" heroics in the Columbus boy. Clean of speech and hustling all the time, it has been his fortune to step into big spots and he generally "came through."

A rather strange twist to the makeup of Southworth is evidenced by his apparent failure to shine for Manager John McGraw, of the Giants. Billy was a big star for the Braves and McGraw apparently figured he would be a "big shot" in the New York lineup, but the outfielder did not glisten.

BILLY IS SENSITIVE

Many reasons might be advanced for this sidelight on Southworth's career. In the first place, Southworth is a tender, sensitive boy in his feelings. If you pat him on the back he will do everything but move mountains for you, but evidently he does not flourish on driving tactics.

McGraw, it will be recalled, tried to make a centerfielder out of Southworth and it is highly possible that that move took away a lot

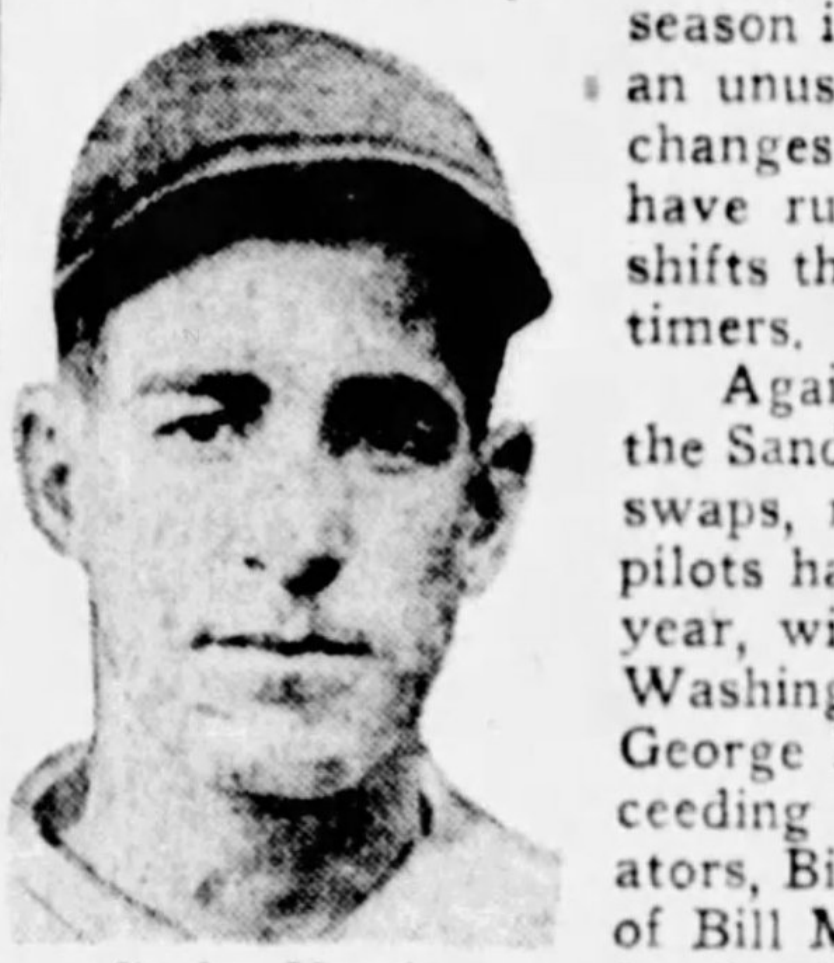
FOUR MAJOR CLUBS CHANGE PILOTS.



Bucky Harris

THOUGH it was predicted around the major league circuits at the close of the 1928 pennant races that the present off-season in baseball would be featured by an unusual number of player deals, the changes made in the big show thus far have run more heavily to managerial shifts than to the trading of active pastimers.

Against the Hornsby transfer and the Sande-Thevenow and Leach-O'Doul swaps, no fewer than four changes in pilots have already been made for next year, with Bucky Harris moving from Washington to Detroit, to supplant George Moriarty, Walter Johnson succeeding Harris at the head of the Senators, Billy Southworth taking the place of Bill McKechnie as skipper of the St. Louis Nationals, and Johnny Evers teaming with Emil Fuchs to fill the pilot job in Boston left open by the departure of Hornsby from the Braves.

WHETHER the shifting will stop there remains to be seen. In Brooklyn, Wilbert Robinson recently offered to retire to an executive capacity if the club owners would accept his recommendation that Max Carey be made manager in his stead, and it has been rumored that Russell Blackburne is not certain of reappointment as leader of the Chicago Americans, but there is no immediate prospect that a change will be made by either club.

Speculation has already started as to what the various new team bosses are likely to accomplish in their respective berths, and while opinions are being advanced as to the chances of the different skippers for getting successful results, Waite Hoyt, star pitcher of the Yankees, rises to express the belief that one man who may be depended upon to deliver is Bucky Harris, of the Tigers.

"DETROIT has the best potential club in our league," Hoyt said. "That doesn't necessarily mean the best club. It's just that the stuff is there. The Tigers hit as well as the Yankees. It's Bucky Harris who is going to make Detroit a pennant contender. He's one sweet manager, that boy.

"Bucky isn't a disciplinarian, but you can go just so far with him. After that he's liable to kick the excelsior out of you if you fail to do as he says. He has a world of courage and the players like him for it. He made a big rep for himself in Washington, and he's going to increase it in Detroit."

Tom Davies

THE exclusive announcement in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph yesterday that Tom Davies, one of Pitt's football immortals, had signed a new five-year contract as head gridiron coach at the University of Rochester, was a gratifying bit of news to Tom's host of friends and admirers in this district as attesting that the former Panther star has made good with a vengeance up in New York State. Contracts for such a long period as five years are not given to many football coaches these days, and that fact alone is sufficient to prove that Davies has been successful in Rochester to such an unusual degree that the university athletic authorities have unlimited confidence in him for the future and did not care to run any risk of his getting away to another college.

AS A matter of fact, the signing of Davies to a long-term contract was urged by numerous Rochester alumni and also by the student publication at the university, "The Campus," which pointed out that he had put football there on its proper plane after finding it on his arrival "a fit subject for the colored comics."

Considering the state of football affairs at Rochester when he left Allegheny College to take charge there in 1926, and the restricted conditions under which he has to work (Rochester high schools do not play football and the material going to the university from those schools is therefore of the greenest kind), Davies has made a record that entitles him to a ranking among the most successful coaches in the country, a record that is a fitting companion-piece to the re-

MASTERS of the sport will play hockey as hockey should be played at Duquesne Garden at 8:30 o'clock tonight when Les Canadiens of Montreal, the most colorful players in the National League and the greatest scoring machine ever assembled, make their 1928-29 season debut here against Odie Cleghorn's Pirates.

Morenz, Joliat and Gagne, forwards whose fame has spread a few miles beyond the farthest corners of the hockey world, and Burke, Mantha and Hainsworth, defense men extraordinary, will be the Canadiens' starting lineup. These names undoubtedly will serve to arouse the interest of local fans and whet their ice appetites, but to the Pirates they mean nothing other than grief and woe. The speed, dash and skill of the Flying Frenchmen make their play easy for the fans to take, but the opposing players have to take it in the neck. Whether or not the Canucks are a desirable foe depends, therefore, upon the point of view.

THREE BUCS INJURED

And the men owned by Benny Leonard and prepared by Cleghorn, despite the fact that they have just struck a victory stride, are in none too good shape for the encounter. Harold Darragh, one of the brightest stars of the Pirate front line, and Johnny McKinnon, rugged defender, are nursing injuries sustained in the battle at Chicago Tuesday, and Roger Smith, defense veteran, is so badly out of commission that he will not even be in uniform. While registering their 2-0 triumph over the Hawks, Darragh received a cut over his eye which required several stitches to close and McKinnon was struck in the mouth with such force that his teeth almost cut through his lips.

Smith's injury is the result of a blistered heel which he received during gym practice two weeks ago. The blister became a running sore which brought about a stiffening of his leg muscles. The sore was lanced by a physician while the Bucs were in Detroit last Sunday, and Roger has been under the care of a physician ever since that time. Reports that he played in Chicago were erroneous, according to Manager Cleghorn, and he will not be available for duty tonight.

LINEUP CHANGED

But not all of the Pirates' luck is bad. Mickey MacKay, star forward who came to the Bucs from Chicago a week ago, has rid himself of the abscess under his arm,

After This, Bucs May Not Know Themselves

Scorers at the Pittsburgh-Chicago National Hockey League game at Chicago Tuesday displayed very little ability at identifying the Pirates, according to Manager Odie Cleghorn today.

The first Pirate goal, Odie says, was tallied by Darragh on a pass from Milks, and the second Buc counter was turned in by Drury on a Milks rebound. The Chicago scorers credited Milks with the first goal and also gave Hib an assist on the second.

Bert McCaffery, too, was mistaken for Roger Smith, for it was McCaffery and not Smith who started at defense. Smith, crippled, was not in uniform.

The Chicagoans were correct in regard to the score, however, for the Pirates did win, 2-0.

Adler, Former Coffey Star, Weds Local Girl

Saul Adler, former star center of the Coffey Club when that team ranked among the greatest professional teams in the country, returned to Pittsburgh last Tuesday from Monroe, La., where he is engaged in business, to marry his childhood sweetheart, Miss Madeline Hirsch, of Carnegie.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh. During her days at Pitt she was prominently identified with the various student activities. Following the ceremony at the Schenley Hotel, which was performed by Rabbi B. A. Lichter, the couple left for Monroe, La., where they will make their home. Several members of the former Coffey Club attended the the wedding.

GOLF STARS SAIL

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Headed by Tommy Armour, 1927 open champion, 15 noted golf professionals sailed yesterday on the Matsonia for Honolulu where they will participate in the Hawaiian open championship November 29, 30 and December 1. A purse of $5,000 has been hung up for the event.

TWO DEMARCOS IN BATTLE TONIGHT

UNLESS it ends in a draw, a boxer named DeMarco is a good bet to win the 10-round windup battle at McKeesport tonight. In fact, none other than DeMarco can win, for both principals in the bout bear that name. They are Cuddy DeMarco, of McKeesport, and Johnny DeMarco, of Philadelphia, lightweight rivals.

The bout will mark the first appearance of Johnny DeMarco in this end of the state, but he comes highly recommended and his record contains the names of some notable performers. He is said to be a rough and ready mixer calculated to make Cuddy step at his best.

Jackie Murray, of the Hill, Negro welterweight, and Bob Collera, of Beechview, will box the six-round semi-final. Ken Hargraves, of New Kensington, meets Frankie Moran, of Homewood, in the second bout and Al Waldeck, of Tarentum, opposes Tommy Heilman, of Donora, in the opener.

HANSEN VS. CHRISTNER

Knute Hansen, the Swede, will make his first appearance under the management of Billy Gibson against K. O. Christner, of Akron, in the feature bout of a Christmas fund benefit show in Cleveland, December 4.

Battling Gizzy, of Donora, and Jack McFarland, of Wilkinsburg, featherweights, will clash in the top half of a double windup card in Johnstown tonight, with Howard Mayberry, of Donora, and Sailor Larsen, of Chicago, boxing the other 10-rounder. Tommy Ward, of the North Side, and Tom Brown, of Lawrenceville, are paired for six rounds.

A benefit amateur boxing show will be held in Motor Square Garden, December 17.

Johnny Datto, the Filipino featherweight, of Cleveland, who boxes Andy Martin, of Boston, in the 10-round windup at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, is training daily in Jimmy Dunn's gymnasium in Cleveland for the battle. His sparring partners are Henry Firpo, the middleweight, of Louisville, who recently boxed Frankie Palmo, of Cincinnati, at Motor Square, and Joey Goodman, the junior-lightweight of Norfolk, Va., who meets Jimmy Reed, of Erie, in the 10-round main bout in the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, next Monday night.

BOUTS AT NEW CASTLE

Dick O'Leary, of Wilkes-Barre, and George O'Brien, of Erie, are matched for the six-round semi-final at New Castle Monday. Romeo Pacelli, of New Castle, boxes Ray Collins, of Erie, in another six-round bout and there will be two four-round preliminaries.

Harry Taylor, of the North Side, boxes Eddie Barr, of Detroit, in the eight-round main bout of a show at East Liverpool, O., tonight. Billy Palm, of Johnstown, and Chick Walker, of Akron, will meet in the six-round semi-final.

HONOR LEONARD AT Y AFFAIR

The members of the Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association celebrated Benny Leonard night last night by staging an amateur boxing show of eight fast bouts.

Leonard put on a most entertaining boxing set with Ralph Schreur and later brought back memories in a spirited three-rounder with Patsy Brannigan, North Side veteran.

Mayor Charles H. Kline in behalf of the Y. M. H. A. presented Leonard with the highest Y. M. H. A. award, a gold medal of unique design. Councilmen James F. Malone, Daniel Winters and P. J. McArdle also were present, along with Honus Wagner. The summary:

118-pound class—Jack Mitchell, Willow Club, won from Paul Bailat, North Side A. C., three rounds. Judges' decision. Young Butch, Willow Club, won from George Lesko, Duke O'Hara Club, knockout, three rounds.

126-pound class—Tad Murphy, Duke O'Hara Club, won from Dan Brickley, North Side, three rounds. Judges' decision.

160-pound class—O. J. Cook, Canonsburg, won from Al Bonner, Homestead A. C., three rounds. Judges' decision.

175-pound class—Max Ziff, Willow Club, knocked out John Collins, of the Superior A. C., oe round.

of Billy's naturalness. In rightfield, the former Pirate was at his best, but when he moved over to the wider range he seemed to lose his efficiency. And if McGraw happened to make any stinging remarks about his loose work, performances of Billy would become even looser. In any event, Bill was traded to the Cards for Heinie Mueller. He went back to his regular position and has continued to star as a rightfielder.

Southworth, as a major league pilot, will have to guard against being too easy. He is generous to a fault, but this unselfish trait sometimes is imposed on by unappreciative men of the diamond.

Bill's honors will rest easy upon him; he would be Billy Southworth if he had Judge Landis' job, and in that naturalness appears to be the key to his charm. But he will have to make the punishment fit the offense if any player kicks over the traces. If he can be stern when the occasion demands severity he should be a big success, as he has most of the other requirements.

As a Pirate, Southworth was more brilliant in his spirit than in his accomplishments. His jaunty step and ruddy health stood out. Billy was a corking player in hitting and fielding, but he had many things to learn when he came to the Buccos and naturally made mistakes. Apparently he caught on in his long term of service and he is confident enough now to think he will be the rightfielder of the Cardinals. He had a big year in hitting as he led the Rochester club to a flag. He always will be able to hit.

TECH DRILLS

VIOLETS ON EDGE

Besides, the Violets have been beaten, stung to the quick by Lou Little's Georgetown team, that scored an unexpected and really undeserved triumph three weeks ago. That licking took the edge off New York's chances for the eastern grid title, and the team must win here to get back into the running. If you think all this does not make it tougher for Tech, you are nuts.

The Tartans greeted the report that Meehan is going to start a 120-pound halfback against them Saturday with something akin to a snort of derision. It might cheer the Skibos a bit if they were to hear that Ken Strong had broken a leg, but a 120-pound halfback in the ball game isn't going to affect the Plaid much, as long as they have Strong to fight back. Strong is the big gun of the New York team, and Tech knows it.

MAY LEAVE TOWN

Coach Bob Waddell wants to take his Tartans out of town today, away from the campus and its accompanying distractions and give the boys their final preparations for the all-important game with New York U. in peace and quiet. Bob, I say, wants to take 'em away, but the chances are very much against him.

Carnegie school authorities only permit four days' absence from classes for football, and these four days have already been used up. As the Skibo folk believe in studies first and football second, it is unlikely that they will permit Bob to take his club away, even though the national championship may hinge on Saturday's tussle with the Violets.

At any rate, the practice sessions for the remainder of the week will likely be secret. Yesterday the team drilled in the snow, and there was a goodly crowd of well wishing alumni, some students and half a dozen or so newspapermen and photographers present. The "keep out" sign should be hung out today.

The coaches will know by noon today whether they are to be permitted to steal the boys from the class rooms for the remainder of the week. If the ban is lifted, the squad will move out of town to their secret hiding place in the mountains early in the afternoon—in time to get to its destination for a hard workout today.

IN FINE FETTLE

Yesterday's drill was a hectic one. Aside from several black eyes, bruised noses and Halfback Flanagan's bum leg, the squad seemed to be in fine shape.

Unable to shift the game with Bethany to Friday, so as not to conflict with the Tech-N. Y. game, Coach Elmer Layden of the Dukes is preparing his varsity for a hard ball game with the invading Bisons.

Bethany hasn't shown much this fall, aside from the close score to which it held Wash-Jeff and the tie game played with Waynesburg. Two small West Virginia colleges, Salem and Marshall, both kicked the Green around considerably, playing particular havoc with the Bethany morale.

The Dukes will be favorites against the Nussmen, and will need to score a victory in case Westminster should upset Geneva at New Wilmington and thus throw the Conference leadership into a tie between the locals and the Covenanters.

NEW KENSINGTON TILT MAY DRAW RECORD CROWD

By TOM BIRKS

THE announcement that Fred Iverson and his Black and White-clad Oylmpics will be the attraction at Community field, New Kensington, Sunday, means that the record crowd on Thanksgiving Day two years ago might be topped, for the trips of the famous McKeesport club away from home are few and far between.

The followers of the Olympics have been clamoring for Iverson to bring the Burns club to Rainbow Gardens, but the fact that Sullivan took the Kensington gridders there to beat Glassport made it advisable to meet Burns at New Kensington. For many years there has been considerable rivalry between the clubs in the championship race, but neither would leave its home grounds. However, Burns has played most of its games on the road this year, and Iverson, feeling the trend of the times, also decided to take the club away.

This game will give the Allegheny River fans a chance to see some of the newer players in the Olympic ranks in action. Schrech, end, late of Cornell, will give the fans who swear by Hudson and Gillas something to think about. Garrison, halfback, together with Newlin, will remind the fans of Billy Doll. Goldberg, the high school sensation, who has run the team from the quarterback position through all the tough games, will be popular up the Allegheny River.

Despite the fact that West View has only three games to play, the loss of Boots Klinzing is going to be a tough blow to the Park outfit. It was Klinzing's ball carrying efforts that won the game for West View at Rainbow Gardens, for while Mose Kelsch kicked the field goal, it was Klinzing who intercepted the forward pass that gave his side the ball. He carried the ball for the gain made to the 37-yard line.

If Klinzing could make up his mind to pay no attention to the wise cracks of the crowd, there is little doubt but that he could be the most popular gridiron player in the district. The West View star pays too much attention to the crowd trying to give him the razzberry, and his attempts to come back do not help him any in the eyes of the unbiased people on the side-lines.

Klinzing is a natural ball carrier, and at times tore that big Olympic line to shreds. He will be missed in the final games. He has his foot in a plaster cast and it is evident a bone is broken.

The taking of the McChesneytown-Port Vue game to Rainbow Gardens was a smart move by Manager Rogan of the Port Vue club. Romaine Field is not as good as the Gardens from a playing standpoint, and the latter has the added attraction of being enclosed. While last Sunday's crowd was easily the largest of the year, there is reason to feel that Port Vue, which has a large following, meeting McChesneytown, undoubtedly one of the most popular clubs of all times, should break all existing records for the grounds.

Matthew McClure of Crookston's handed William Greenwood, of Ellis', his first defeat of the Pittsburgh Three-Cushion Billiard League season, on the former's green, last night. The score was 40 to 49, McClure making his 40 with Greenwood four shy of his required 53. Due to the safety tactics of both players the block lasted 83 innings.

Robert Carter, of Kalmer's, Oakland, last season's winner, defeated Billy Eichenmiller, of Crookston Recreation, 48 to 40, at Kalmer's in 65 innings. Carter had a high run of five, while Eichenmiller's best was three.

Last night's scores throw Carter, Eichenmiller and McClure into a tie for second position.

He had been a football official for a number of seasons.

COUNTY LOOP APPEARS STRONG

By JULIUS LEVIN.

PITTSBURGH basketball fans are assured of witnessing some high-class professional attractions this winter with the announcement that the Allegheny County League, two years ago the best circuit operating hereabouts, has been reorganized.

Although only five teams have been granted franchises, negotiations are under way to add another well-known quintet to make the loop a six-club affair. The five teams assured of berths are the Enoch Rauhs, Duquesne Light, Miele-Franchina, Duquesne Lafayettes and the Goldensons, all boasting strong line-ups.

According to reports, the strong Morry Cadets of Braddock are making an effort to obtain the sixth franchise. The Morry Cadets have been making rapid strides in local independent circles and are said to have a team this year that compares favorably with the best in the district.

Despite the fact that the circuit has been changed considerably by its sponsors, the organization should prove popular with the fans. While some of the stronger teams have been weakened by the retirement of several stars, the weaker ones have been bolstered by the addition of new talent, making the circuit more evenly balanced than heretofore.

The Duquesne Lafayettes will present a lineup in the County League somewhat changed over the floor machine that twice carried off the league championship. Ganzy Benedict, Dober, Morrow and Pfiefer, four stars of the Scarlet Hurricane, are no longer connected with the team, but Coach Ed Minnick is said to have signed some promising players to make replacements.

Only one change will be made in the lineup of the Enoch Rauhs, Moy Rubenstein, former Geneva College star, having been signed to fill the shoes of Lou Alman. The Rauhs will have available Bill Miller, the best guard in local professional circles; Wyoming and Meyer Paris, and Johnny Serbin, former Duquesne Univedsity star, giving them a lineup that is every bit as strong if not stronger than last winter.

One of the newcomers in the County League that should make a good showing is the Duquesne Light aggregation, champion of the Commercial Industrial League. The Light passers compare favorably with the best teams operating hereabouts and they should be in the thick of the running for the championship. This team includes on its roster Eddie Kubiak, Dusty Rhodes, Cliff McCracken, Murray Gibson, Bus Cowan, Eddie Ritzel, Sullivan, Ed Hartman, Ralph Huges and Clarence Staiger. The Miele-Franchina quintet, composed of the cream of talent that represented the Mieles and Sianos on the floor last winter, will be under the guidance of Mike Foglia.

The Goldensons, represented by the former Pittsburgh Morrys, are certain to have a powerful quintet on the floor. Moon and Boots Klinzing, George Ramsay, Seigel and Monk Ketchell will be some of the stars playing for the popular South Siders this winter. The league is certain to create new interest in professional basketball. Duquesne Light and the Goldensons will operate at the Market House, the Rauhs and Miele-Franchinas will play at Columbus Temple, while the Duquesne Lafayettes will contine the home games to the Duquesne High School and Duquesne Library floors.

The Oakland Vagabonds face one of their hardest tests of the season tonight when they meet the Pittsburgh Boys Club Juniors on the latter's floor. The Vagabonds' lineup will be Friedlander and Cooper, forwards; Albert, center and Capt. Daktor and Milton, guards.

The Western Union basketball team is open for games with junior and light-first-class clubs. Call Atlantic 7500 or Milvale 1484-J, and ask for Leo Karpinski.

TOMMY HEENEY UNDECIDED

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Whether Tom Heeney, sturdy New Zealand fighter who was the loser in Gene Tunney's last appearance as heavyweight champion, retires from the ring depends on his opponents more than anything else. In his first interview since he reached New York, Heeney said that he was very uncertain about continuing his ring career, but that he would like to keep on if he could fight only men suited to his style.

PREPARE FOR LAST GAME

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Nov. 22.—The Bellefonte High School football team, which is entirely out of the running for any honors in the Western Conference of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association, is now being especially groomed for the Turkey Day classic with the Lock Haven High, at Lock Haven.

LONG'S SPORT COMMENT

markable one that he made as a player, when he won a place on Walter Camp's all-America team in his freshman year, 1918, and berths on the second mythical elevens of 1920 and 1921.

SOME one who has to do with the sending out of news from Notre Dame evidently was nodding Tuesday night when he gave to the country the schedule of the football team for next year, as he supplemented it with an erroneous bulletin to the effect that the Fighting Irish would not meet Carnegie Tech in 1929 but would play the Skibos in 1930.

Notre Dame is bound to appear in a game against Carnegie at the Stadium here next year under the terms of a two-year contract produced yesterday by Graduate Manager Clarence Overend, of the Plaid. The contract, dated December 24, 1927, and bearing the signatures of Overend and Knute Rockne, provided not only for the game played in South Bend last Saturday but also for a second contest to be played in Pittsburgh on Saturday, November 23, 1929.

Art Gagne

LIKE other sports, hockey has some great players who do not always receive the credit that for the important parts they play in making their teams consistent winners. One of them is Art Gagney, right wing for Les Canadiens, the colorful sextet that will be seen in action against the Pirates at Duquesne Garden tonight in the second game of the home season. Gagne is a star in every respect, but he is denied a lot of individual glory because of the exceptional brilliance of the two other forwards on the team, Howie Morenz, at center, who is the fastest skater in the league, and Auriel Joliat, another luminary at left wing. The Canadien trio scored more goals last season than the front lines of any other two teams combined, and that achievement was due largely to splendid passing and combination plays, in which Gagne was an important cog, he generally feeding the puck to Morenz or Joliat.

GUESS the latest come-back in the fight game. None other than your old friend, Jack Burke, of Lawrenceville, one-time amateur champion of the United States at 175 pounds and later a prominent mixer in the lightheavyweight pro ranks. Burke, who has grown into a heavyweight, has been out of the game for more than five years, but he thinks he can lick a number of the heavies that are now parading before the public.

Jack looked so good in his first workouts that Tom Dolan has taken him in hand and will send him to the country for a course of training which he thinks will enable him to return to the ring as good as he ever was. The heavyweight has applied to the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission for a boxer's license and expects to be ready for real business in the course of a few weeks.

BURKE will be remembered particularly as the opponent of Gene Tunney in the only Pittsburgh appearance that the at present retired heavyweight champion ever made. The bout took place at Motor Square Garden on April 10, 1922, and resulted in a severe nine-round beating for the Lawrenceville man. Tunney had won the American lightheavyweight title from Battling Levinsky three months earlier, and in his next fight after his meeting with Burke here he lost it temporarily to Harry Greb.

Tunney swarmed all over Burke in the bout at Motor Square and gave him a severe beating in every round, but was unable to put over a knockout. Finally Tunney himself, as if out of pity for Burke, turned to Referee Eddie Kennedy and pleaded, "Why don't you stop it?" "Why don't YOU stop it?" asked Kennedy in return, and, as Ring Lardner would say, Tunney "didn't have no comeback."

Otto von Porat

FISTIC fans and critics in Chicago are panning the Illinois Boxing Commission to a fare-the-well for permitting Windy City promoters to put on lopsided matches. Two weeks ago the commission allowed Danny Gordon, of Philadelphia, to be sent against Young Jack Thompson, Gordon proving so helpless and the bout so poor that it was stopped in the second round, and now it has sanctioned a meeting of Otto von Porat with the often-beaten King Solomon at the same promoter's club for next Tuesday night.

IT IS being pointed out to the commission that Solomon's record is of a sort to make him look even worse than Gordon, who had no record at all. The King has been knocked out by Paul Berlenbach and Mike McTigue and has been beaten by Matt Adgie, Larry Gains, Eddie Huffman, Jack Delaney, Jack Sharkey (twice), Tommy Loughran, George Cook and Jim Maloney (twice).

It is charged that Solomon is being sent to slaughter against the hard-hitting Von Porat merely for the purpose of building up the latter again after his defeat at hands of Paulino Uzcudun.

BUCS TO PLAY

and he probably will be able to carry a full share of the burden tonight. MacKay will be used at center in the spare front line in place of Drury and Herb will pair with Tex White at wing. All of which means that Duke McCurry will be forced to do much of his playing on the bench. Mickey won the admiration of the fans with his display of skating in the opener here, and there is no doubt but that he will give the reserve line a greater punch.

With Smith out of the game and McKinnon injured, Bert McCaffery and Toots Holway will have to do most of the defense work, and the Canadiens are a bunch of sharpshooters capable of working any four defenders overtime. Joe Miller is continuing to show his brilliant form in the local nets, according to Cleghorn, and it is well that such is the case, for he probably is in for a fine bombardment.

The appeal of the Canadiens, ever great, is greater than ever from a Pittsburgh viewpoint, for at one of their defense posts will be Marty Burke, a Pirate of last season. Marty is attempting to fill the big shoes which Herb Gardiner stepped out of when he assumed the managerial reins at Chicago. Mantha will help Burke stop the Buc thrusts.

BOAST FINE RECORD

The Canadiens' record to date would indicate that the departure of Gardiner has not weakened their combination. They have suffered only one setback this season, a reversal which they absorbed at Toronto two nights after they had submitted to a terrific bruising while downing the roughneck Maroons at Montreal. They defeated the Bruins, 1-0, at Boston Tuesday.

Because the Canadiens ever have favored fast open play and because they ever have been willing to give away a couple of goals to get three for themselves, plenty of scoring well can be anticipated. The Bucs, too, favor this method, and their record of last season, when they won one, tied one and lost two in four meetings with the Canadiens, indicates that it is a style of play to which they are well adapted.

Local fans have learned to anticipate thrilling action when the Canadiens are the invaders, they have learned that Benny Leonard is an excellent host and that the Pirates of today are nobody's doormat. Everything points to another crowd of capacity proportions. The probable lineup:

PIRATES.		CANADIENS.
Miller	G.	Hainsworth
McCaffery	R. D.	Mantha
Holway	L. D.	Burke
Milks	C.	Morenz
Darragh	R. W.	Joliat
Cotton	L. W.	Gagne

Pirate spares—Drury, White, MacKay, McCurry and McKinnon; Canadian spares—Leduc, Gaudreault, Lepine, Larochelle, Patterson, Pelangio, Bolduc.

GEMAS IN BOUT

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—George Gemas, Philadelphia heavyweight, and Mike Mandell, of St. Paul, have been matched for a 10-round bout as the semi-windup of the Billy Light-Gorilla Jones match at the Coliseum tomorrow night.

CITY SCHOLASTIC TITLE AT STAKE TOMORROW

WESTINGHOUSE HIGH'S reign as City League football champion will be endangered tomorrow afternoon when the Silver Lakers clash with Coach Mazeski's South Hills warriors on the Pitt Stadium gridiron.

This game promises to attract the greatest high school crowd of the season. Rain or shine, you may count upon the students of both schools turning out en masse for the game, and with a half way decent break in the weather, there would be some 7,000 or 8,000 in the Stadium for the battle.

Westinghouse, with an edge in weight and in the experience needed for championship play and with a crackerjack backfield rules a favorite. The South Hills team has come through a hard season and made the best showing of any of the city elevens against the powerful New Castle team, holding the Bridenbaugh machine to 12 points on their own gridiron.

South Hills has its work cut for it if it is to stop the line bucking of Army Ormiston, Westinghouse's plunging fullback star, who has demonstrated his ability on numerous occasions during the past two years. Ormiston is a good all-around player and has the inside track for all-scholastic fullback honors at the present time.

In Johnny Riske, South Hills offers a clever running halfback, whose forward passing has been the ace of the South Hills attack this fall. John (Peaches) Pietsch, the S. H. fullback, is a good enough line buster, who has improved almost weekly during the season and will be no slight threat tomorrow.

In the event that the teams draw a soggy and heavy gridiron, the odds on Westinghouse will lengthen, as the Silver Lakers are said to have an edge on South Hills in poundage.

FIGHT RESULTS

MEN WHO SMOKE AND GUARD THEIR HEALTH, SMOKE CIGARS

100% of the Principal Executives of the American Express Company are Cigar Smokers

La Palina is America's Largest Selling High Grade Cigar [OVER A MILLION A DAY] its outstanding popularity is the best proof of its unusual quality

As a result of a survey it has been ascertained that 100% of the principal executives of the American Express Company are cigar smokers. This confirms the smoking choice of men whose executive duties demand their best—in mental alertness and physical fitness.

Cigar smoking never becomes a mere habit that plays havoc with the nerves and causes what is commonly known as "tobacco throat." For a cigar, if its rich taste is to be enjoyed to the full, must be and is smoked slowly and leisurely. One is not lighted from the end of another to satisfy the insistent demand of harried nerves. Nor does the average cigar smoker inhale. There is no necessity, and inhalation is an outstanding source of nerve irritation.

Then, too, it is the opinion of medical authority that the major amount of throat troubles amongst smokers is due to the burning, drying effect of hot tobacco smoke upon the tender tissues of the throat. Cigars cannot cause these conditions—for, to quote a prominent New York throat specialist: "Cigar smoke is cool, since the tobacco burns slowly and is further cooled and filtered as it is drawn through the body of the cigar, and because no quick-burning substance is used for wrapper."

Make this test for a week—smoke cigars exclusively and you will find yourself feeling better, with no cough or throat irritation, improved nerves, increased vitality and less of that tired feeling.

To really test cigars with justice to yourself and to cigars, we suggest the test be made with La Palinas. Since they are America's largest selling high grade cigars . . . over a million a day—you can smoke them, confident that they will please you.

The sensational success of La Palina results from an exclusive and secret blend which combines for the first time in one cigar an extreme mildness with a rare richness of both taste and fragrance.

Style Authority

There are more derbies worn in England today than all the rest of the world combined. That's why we went direct to London as the world's recognized Style Authority in Men's Hats.

Our representative purchased this derby in the exclusive London Shop of an English Hat Manufacturer to His Majesty the King and Royal Family.

There isn't any higher Style Authority—that's where the High Price hatters of America get their Style Inspiration.

We went direct and got it first and reproduced the exact "Style Twin" for $3.50. It's the Last Style Word in England and we have it First in America.

Stock Market Boils Over; After This Delirium, What?

By B. C. FORBES

AGAIN the Wall Street pot boiled over yesterday. The frenzied speculation, with spectacular advances in selected issues, is exactly in line with pre-election expectations.

Whether the market will again fulfill expectations by undergoing a sharp decline before the year ends, remains to be seen.

ON October 15 this column said: "It is taken for granted that Mr. Hoover will be elected.

"Those holding very extensive lines of stock express confidence that Hoover's election will send the market much higher."

On November 3 this appeared: "Conceivably the immediate response to a Hoover victory would be a wild demonstration on the buying side. But don't imagine for a moment that the pools which are carrying enormous lines are eager to add to their holdings for the purpose of retaining them as investments.

"Pools are not organized to invest. They are organized to speculate. Usually they want quick action, quick profits."

On November 5, on the eve of election, this statement was published here: "The present temper of those active in stocks suggests that the election will be conducive to plenty of action.

"If the public rush in to buy, quotations can conceivably shoot up spectacularly. Even if there should be no public orgy, the market's powerful manipulators may see to it that the election result is adequately 'interpreted.'

"But it can be taken for granted that the main objective of the giants heading enormous pools will be to unload extensively. Speculators do not borrow money at 7 per cent to carry as investments stocks netting a return of half that rate."

WHAT is now going on, therefore, creates no surprise. The Hoover victory has been followed by a slightly easier tone in the money market, by moderate imports of gold, by continued cheerful reports from the business world and by an almost unparalleled wave of buying of stocks by the public.

Also, Wall street's "melon patch" has been unusually productive since the election. General Motors led the way by an extra cash dividend and by a 50 per cent stock dividend. DuPont and other companies have likewise announced generous stock distributions, while increased dividends have been announced with notable frequency.

Then there was loudly-expressed rejoicing in Wall street last week when brokers' loans reached a new peak by only a trifling amount.

THIS writer all along has cautioned against short selling because it was clear that the bull market has been in the hands of manipulators of extraordinary wealth and shrewdness. In the past, bull campaigns were engineered for the most part by professional stock market operators, men of more or less limited means. The leadership this time has been very different. It has embraced men who have been conspicuously successful in industry and who have turned to stocks rather than bonds as a medium for investment of their multiple millions.

FREELY granting all this, it remains incontestibly true that speculation latterly has had all the earmarks of unreasoning gambling. Spectacles such as that witnessed last Friday and again this week have been familiar, though on a smaller scale, towards the breaking point of past speculative booms. We are assured that the country is now so infinitely wealthy, that the prospects ahead of industry are so intoxicating, that the public's appetite for stocks has become so insatiable that the marking up of stock quotations can and will go on and on.

It may—for a time. But nothing could be surer than that it will some day end. That end probably will be precipitated by something entirely unforeseeable, perhaps by something apparently unrelated to the stock market proper.

Those who love gambling never were more happy in their lives. But gambling has not lost its risk even in this market which we are asked to believe is bear-proof.

It is not a market attractive to conservative investors.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 1 to 6 points on a continuation of yesterday's buying movement. The advance met some southern hedging and a considerable volume of realizing, but it was absorbed on reactions of 6 or 7 points and prices soon firmed up again on a broadening commission house demand and continued trade buying. By the end of the first half hour December had sold up to 20.15c and March to 20.08c, with the general list showing net advances of about 8 to 14 points. No fresh news factor was particularly emphasized in explanation of the advance, which was supposed to be a further reflection of the buying movement which started yesterday afternoon and which was accompanied by talk of a firming up in the southern spot markets and of a bullish statistical position.

The market showed continued activity later in the morning with realizing sales readily absorbed by what was described as a broadening demand and which was supposed to include considerable Wall street buying. The advance extended to 20.28c for December and 20.23c for March or 24 to 27 points net higher, and prices were within a few points of these figures at midday.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—The raw sugar market was firm and unchanged early today, with a better inquiry from refiners. Sales reported were about 40,000 bags of Cuban for prompt shipment at 3.89c delivered, with further buyers, but holders asking fractionally higher.

Influenced by the renewed interest by refiners in the spot market, raw sugar futures were firmer on active covering and increased outside buying, with prices at midday 3 to 6 points net higher. There was a little hesitation at the start, due to selling by houses with European connections, but after opening unchanged to 1 point higher, prices gradually hardened with the market at midday at about the best levels of the forenoon.

There were no changes in refined prices, which range from 5.20c to 5.25c for fine granulated with business again mostly in the way of withdrawals on old contracts.

COST TO SELL FOOD HIGH

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Nearly 50 per cent of the price which the consumer pays for food goes to meet the expense of putting the product on the market. This is the astounding statement made in a report just published by the Bureau of Business Research of Harvard University.

According to the report, about 15 cents of the consumer's dollar is required for the expenses of selling, advertising, warehousing and transportation. Another 20 cents is expended by the retailer to meet his expenses and approximately 9 cents is required to meet the expenses of the wholesaler. This makes a total of approximately 44 cents of the consumer's dollar taken for the expenses of putting the product in his hands.

This study was based on reports from 72 manufacturers with an aggregate volume of sales of over $690,000,000.

Turkeys Are Scarce In Westmoreland Co.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 22.—Home-grown Thanksgiving turkeys will be scarce and lean in Westmoreland County, a survey discloses. Warm weather this fall caused the turkeys to have poor appetites, farmers say and they became thin. Birds shipped from Kentucky and West Virginia will retail at 65 to 70 cents a pound.

STOCKS FLASH UP FOLLOWING SETBACK

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Speculation for the advance was resumed in a violent manner in today's stock market after yesterday's sharp setback. Powerful pools brought forward at least a dozen high priced specialties and whirled them upward 6 to nearly 35 points, presumably at the expense of an over-crowded short interest. With the exception of the motors, which were again under pressure, the general list joined the upswing.

Although there was still a widespread divergence of opinion as to whether yesterday's reaction had sufficiently corrected the weakened technical position of the market, there was no question but that the market had developed an enormous reserve of buying power. There was a marked scarcity in the floating supply of high grade issues, tending to confirm the belief that investors were not yet ready to sell and that large blocks of these securities had been taken out of the market by investment trusts.

Fears of an increase in the Bank of England rediscount rate, which might result in a withdrawal of foreign balances from New York, proved to be unfounded. Call money renewed unchanged at 6½ per cent, but time money was firmer as a result of approaching holiday demands. Widespread curiosity developed as to what the weekly brokers' loan figures would show. Ordinarily, an advance such as that of the past week would bring about a huge increase, but the relatively insignificant gain last week made guessing a futile pastime. Many bankers are of the opinion that loans are being arranged through private, corporate and foreign sources which do not appear in the Federal Reserve totals.

Wright Aeronautical furnished the main pyrotechnics of today's session, soaring 34⅜ points to a new high record at 255¾. Midland Steel Products preferred ran up 27½ points, Radio 25, Montgomery Ward 20, Curtiss Aeroplane 15, Victor Talking Machine 12, Inspiration Copper 9, National Biscuit 7½, Union Carbide 7, Allied Chemical 6¾, Cerro de Pasco 6⅝ and Commercial Credit 6½.

The brisk demand for the coppers was inspired by the raising of the annual dividend on Greene Cananea from $4 to $6 and the resumption of payments at the rate of $3 annually on Inspiration, which paid its last dividend of 25 cents, in the spring of 1927.

WOULD VOID BAR TO MAYORALTY

An amendment to the city charter that would remove the present barrier to residents of newly-annexed territory becoming candidates for Mayor and Council, is proposed by County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong. He has asked County Solicitor W. Heber Dithrich to study the subject with a view to drafting legislation for presentation to the next session of the state legislature.

Armstrong acted as a result of an opinion by City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt that residents of Carrick, Knoxville and other communities recently annexed cannot become candidates for Council within three years and for Mayor within five years of the date of merger because of an old act of legislature recently brought to light.

SANITARY HOLDS GAIN IN FIRM MARKET HERE

Securities on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange maintained a steady and even tone at the start today as the big specialties in the New York market bounced upward in reaction from their sharp breaks at the close yesterday.

The listed issues in the local market scored moderate gains in many cases while the greater number came into the trading at unchanged prices. Standard Sanitary held at the best levels the current upswing and several trades of Armstrong Cork were recorded at 60. Demand for the latter was stimulated by yesterday's reports of final settlement of patent litigation in favor of Armstrong. Carnegie Metals was heavy with a comparatively light volume of selling forcing the price back to a level more than two points under its recent high. Accumulation of Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt was in evidence again, but buyers did not evince any desire to reach up for the stock. The company is expected to report 1928 earnings equivalent to double the present dividend rate of $3 a year. This assumption has given rise to reports that favorable action on disbursements to stockholders may be taken shortly. In addition to the large earnings, it is also expected that Screw and Bolt's report will show a substantial reduction in its funded debt.

Western Public Service, the newly listed company sponsored by the Crawford interests and Standard Oil, was in demand again at the opening. This stock has met strong buying since coming into the market Tuesday. It was issued privately at $15 a share and the first open market transactions were at 25 to 26. The company was formed to transport and market gas from the Wyoming-Montana district. It will serve Salt Lake City as contiguous territory and larger areas eventually. Of the 1,600,000 shares issued, it is said less than 200,000 are available in the market, the remainder having been taken by the Crawford interests, Prairie Oil and Gas and Standard Oil of Ohio. The remarkable growth and management of other Crawford companies, among which are Lone Star Gas, has stimulated demand for the new company's shares by traders and investors acquainted with history of the Crawford success.

IS YOUR CITY ONE OF THE 628?

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE of the United States sponsors a most effective and well organized activity in the prevention and control of fire. This is known as the National Fire Waste Council.

Six hundred and twenty-eight cities are engaged in a nation-wide contest in the reduction of fire waste. Through the National Fire Waste Council the combined experience, advice and assistance of architects, credit men, boy scouts, educators, engineers, insurance men and many other groups are made available to any community.

This work involves modern and scientific fire fighting apparatus and methods, salvage work, regular inspections, arson investigations, modernized building codes and ordinances, and actuarial facts.

The Stock Fire Insurance companies, through the National Board of Fire Underwriters and other organizations, contribute freely to this constructive work in the public interest.

A still larger cooperation with this service on the part of municipalities and property owners will result in safeguarding life and property in an ever increasing degree.

This is the seventh of a series of talks to the people of this and other states pertaining to the business of fire underwriting as conducted by the 229 Stock Fire Insurance companies. Further information on this and other insurance subjects will be gladly furnished by

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Big Specialties Bounce Back.

Another 6,000,000-share volume was handled on the stock exchange today, but the confusion of the late ticker was absent and traders throughout the country were kept informed on quotations within a few minutes of the actual sales on the floor. Heretofore, the tickers have been as much as 45 minutes to an hour late going into the afternoon session. At noon today the tape was ony nine minutes behind the market. The list snapped back in sensational style today under the leadership of the big specialties, which were joined by the aeroplane stocks. Advances of from 10 to 30 points were noted in such issues as Radio, Wright and Curtis. Pronounced strength in various other quarters gave the general market a strong appearance, but it was reported that further selling was taking place under cover of the strength. National Biscuit opened with an overnight gain of 7 points. This declared the potentialities of the list in general, as there is a general assumption that there are many such "sleepers" in the market. Biscuit had been stagnant for weeks until Tuesday of this week. Copper stocks were buoyant under the influence of further increases in dividends. Greene Cananea raised its dividend rate to a $6 annual basis, as against $4 previously paid. Kennecott raised from a $6 to an $8 yearly basis and Calumet and Arizona yesterday declared an extra of $1 a share in addition to the regular quarterly of $1.50 payment.

Pittsburgh Coal.

Pittsburgh Coal issues held their gains today with very little profit taking evident in either the common or preferred. The latter hovered around 91 as cautious buying indicated that further accumulation of this issue was taking place. It was said a lot of the buying was coming from Cleveland as well as from this city. Coal preferred is not at present in the dividend column, payments having been suspended about three years ago. Gossip in the Street is to the effect that the company will retire the preferred issue in the near future. There are about $16 of back dividends accumulated. The redemption price is $110 a share. Interest at the rate of 5 per cent will be paid on the accumulated dividends.

No Action on Saturday Closing.

The board of governors of the New York Stock Exchange took no action yesterday on the matter of closing the exchange Saturday to permit brokerage offices to catch up with delayed clerical work.

Handling the Big Volume.

Current huge volume of business being done daily on the New York Stock Exchange is handled more efficiently than last spring, when a succession of 3,000,000 and 4,000,000-share days found the clerical forces of brokerage firms unable to keep up with the rapid pace of business. The number of employes has been augmented considerably since the early months of the year, but brokers generally ascribe the efficiency to greater experience in handling a large volume of transactions. A member of one of the largest wire houses said: "Our men are tuned up to high speed and when they get a 4,000,000-share day, they feel that things are slow." Even the large odd-lot houses, handling a multiplication of small orders, say they are satisfied with the way their work is being done, and maintain they have incurred exceedingly small percentage of errors.

Nation-Wide Participation.

The enthusiasm in the market recently has been nationwide. Buying orders have come to the wire houses from every section of the country. Because of the inability of obtaining prevailing quotations from the floor of the exchange the purchasers have been taking the stocks "at the market." At times they have paid materially above the prices which were being quoted on the tape. Were it not for the extreme optimism which prevails, such buyers would be much more cautious. It has been this "blind" purchasing, as some describe it, which has been responsible for many of the sharp gains established in recent sessions.

Solar Refining Capital Changes.

Stockholders of Solar Refining Company will consider a proposal at the annual meeting, January 9, to reduce the par value of the capital shares from $100 to $25, and increase the number of shares from 40,000 to 160,000, or by making such change in par value and number of shares as stockholders may determine. Solar is on the so-called Standard Oil units.

Oils in Good Position.

That the oils offer the safest mediums for purchases at present is the growing opinion in many quarters. It is the belief that any recessions in this group will encounter scale buying by important interests identified with the industry who are optimistic on the long range output for most companies. Several firms are actively advocating a switch from some of the industrials which have advanced sharply to the oils which thus far have not shared proportionately in the market's strength.

Big Replacement Demand.

Continued prosperity for the motor industry in 1929 is indicated by reports from different sections of the country, as well as from countries throughout the world, according to Alfred Reeves, general manager of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. "With 23,000,000 vehicles running here," he said, "the replacement demand becomes an increased factor, especially as this year will see replacement of cars made in 1922 and 1923, the latter being the first year when the industry exceeded 4,000,000 vehicles.

Domestic Bank Rates.

One of the factors discussed in banking circles as a partial explanation for the strengthening of the stock market, is the possibility in the New York bank rate early next year, to lessen the attraction of the local money market to foreign gold. It is emphasized that Federal Reserve authorities are now shaping their policies to meet domestic contingencies and hence that their program regarding the rediscount rate will center on the recently created tremendous speculative activity, but it is considered possible that some thought may be given to a lower rate at New York with the return of funds to this center after the year end.

Fish Bite for Al, But Not for Raskob

EDGEWATER GULF HOTEL, Miss., Nov. 22.—(AP.)—Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York, went fishing yesterday and brought back seven trout on his string.

The Governor used a plain bamboo pole, while others in the party employed rod and reel. The catch of John J. Raskob, Democratic committee chairman, consisted of a little croaker and a salt water cat fish, and the Governor had lots of fun at his expense.

CHICAGO BOARD

Upturns today in wheat quotations here took place notwithstanding that the Liverpool market was lower than due and despite the fact that some authorities were circulating enlarged estimates of the Australian wheat yield. On the other hand, in addition to reports of adverse weather for the Argentine harvest, advices were current that wheat consumption in Europe is heavy and that wheat stocks there are not accumulating. Besides, some messages today from Argentina said crops in the South were being damaged by hot winds.

Commission houses were quite general sellers of corn today at times. Aside from clearing weather in the corn belt talk was heard that in some cases Europeans had cancelled recent purchases of corn. As against such factors, friends of higher prices pointed out that shipment of feeder cattle into the corn belt this season showed an increase of 21 per cent and that farm feeding of the 1928 corn crop began 30 days or more earlier than usual.

SPANG INCOME IN 3D QUARTER HITS PEAK

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

SPANG, CHALFANT & COMPANY, Inc., is building an addition to its Ambridge plant to cost $750,000. The new building, which will be 660 feet in length, will not directly increase the pipe-making capacity, but will house equipment for the finishing and handling of the additional output from existing mills through greater efficiency.

October operating results showed that the Ambridge seamless pipe mills are capable of vastly exceeding the rate which formerly was thought to be their capacity. Officials are of the opinion that still further progress can be made in this direction.

At present Spang is operating its welded pipe mills at 85 per cent of capacity and its seamless mills at 80 per cent. A large back log of unfilled orders is on the books. These orders are sufficient to keep operations at the present rate well into the new year if specifications for delivery are not delayed.

Among the large orders recently secured was one for 6,500 tons of 12 3-4-inch lap-welded gas line pipe for a 60-mile line to be laid by the Arkansas Natural Gas Corporation. This will run from El Dorado to the compressor station at Emmet, Ark.

THE third quarter of this year was the best on record. Net earnings were $1,163,666 which after deducting preferred dividends, were equivalent to $1.31 a share on the 750,000 shares of no par common stock.

The earnings for the quarter were greater than in the preceding six months since the early portion of the year was marked by a depression in the pipe business. The common stock earned $2.28 in the first nine months of this year.

The common is not on a dividend basis and it is considered unlikely that payments will be started until the $10,000,000 of funded debt is retired and plant improvements now under consideration are completed.

Spang's outlook is being improved from another source in addition to its own earnings. It holds 100,000 shares of Oil Well Supply common stock. Through this it secures distribution of its pipe through 90 stores, but in addition, the Oil Well Supply Company is again on an earning basis. In the course of the next few years, after the supply company has recuperated from the depression in its business in the latter part of 1927 and early this year, a resumption of dividends is possible. Oil Well formerly paid annual dividends of $2 a share. The re-establishment of this rate would be equivalent to 30 cents a share on Spang's common stock.

THROUGH the sale of $200,000 of its 6 per cent preferred stock to interests close to the management Spang has increased the toal of preferred outstanding to $13,750,000. The proceeds will be used either to retire bonds or to provide for future development.

The balance sheet of September 30 shows little change from the statement of December 31, 1927, except in quick assets and surplus.

The nine-months' earnings were reflected in an increase of $1,682,621 in earned surplus which totaled $4,750,863. This did not include capital surplus of $1,477,842. Working capital was increased $1,494,714 to $8,363,042.

Current assets of $10,891,216 were 4.3 times current liabilities of $2,528,174. Cash amounted to $850,808.

STUDENTS DEFY HAZING BAN

By International News Service

Paris, Nov. 19—The Latin Quarter must be all brotherly love and kisses from now on, since the Minister of Public Instruction has laid down his veto against hazing in schools and colleges.

The collegians themselves are not inclined to live up to the new edict, however. The time honored practice of hazing younger students is still being observed in violation of the ministerial order that the "abuse be stopped at once."

Only recently a freshman in the Ecole Polytechnique was seriously injured while being made to walk the edge of a deep ditch blindfolded.

Hoover Will Get Warm Welcome in Nicaragua

Nowhere in his swing around the circle of our Latin-American neighbors will the next President of the United States receive or deserve a more genuine or a more significant welcome than the government and people of Nicaragua will give Mr. Hoover when the U. S. S. MARYLAND drops anchor off Corinto within the week.

For the genuineness of Nicaragua's welcome to our President-elect there are good and sufficient reasons that reflect nothing but credit upon the government and people of the United States.

Two years ago this month Nicaragua was in the throes of the most devastating civil war that ever scourged a Central American republic. Eighteen months ago, trusting the United States to keep her every promise, the Nicaraguan people ended their warfare and placed the peace of their republic in our keeping. Both Nicaraguan armies turned their arms into our custody, disbanded and returned to their homes and to the tasks of peace.

We promised to organize, officer and train a non-partisan national police force to take the place of the disbanded army of the government and to be charged with the enforcement of the law and the maintenance of public order. We are keeping that promise and are doing that job as swiftly as it can be well done.

We promised to supervise an honest registration and a free and fair election. We have kept that promise to the complete satisfaction of both the Conservative and Liberal parties. For the first time in the life of their republic the Nicaraguan people have recently chosen a President and a Congress in a free and fair election that followed an honest registration.

Both the registration and the election were under the impartial supervision of a special representative of President Coolidge—Brig. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, United States Army—assisted by carefully selected officers of the Army and Navy and 5,000 marines.

Nicaragua was quick to show her appreciation of our assistance by holding the most orderly election any Central American republic has ever had and by casting the largest vote ever to be recorded in a national election in Nicaragua.

Although the Liberal party's nominee for President—Gen. Jose Maria Moncada—rolled up a majority of nearly 20,000 over Adolfo Benard—the nominee of the Conservative party—final returns indicate that both houses of the new Congress will be almost evenly divided between the two parties.

Of the impartiality of our supervision and the effect of our assistance, the chief Conservative newspaper—La Prensa—says:

"The American supervision has honorably kept its promise. The elections were honest, tranquil, correct and honorable. The Liberals obtained the victory."

And the leading Liberal newspaper—El Commercio—says:

"The United States is vindicated before the world."

We also promised to assist Nicaragua in policing that republic until the newly elected government is firmly established and the newly organized national police force is ready to take over all of its responsibility. That promise we shall keep under the presidency of Mr. Hoover with the same fidelity that we have kept our other promises to Nicaragua under the leadership of President Coolidge.

For, as Nicaragua is ready to bear witness before the world, we are striving in that republic only to do our duty toward our neighbor.

That is why Nicaragua will give to our President-elect a genuine and significant welcome at Corinto next Monday.

If all this be "Yankee Imperialism," let our enemies at home and abroad, who parrot that fatuous cry, make the most of it.

City May Get "Voice" In Bus Line Operation

Council is soon to act on a proposed agreement which would place the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company within the jurisdiction of the Traction Conference Board. This body, membership of which includes representatives of the city of Pittsburgh and surrounding boroughs, now has a voice in shaping operating policies of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, parent organization of the Motor Coach Company, and itself a unit of the large Byllesby interests, which acquired control of the Philadelphia Company and its allied corporations some time ago.

The agreement provides the city shall have a voice in fixing the financial budget for operation and depreciation and that the company shall be entitled to a fare that will assure a reasonable return on its investment.

This seems like a step toward giving Pittsburgh a "reasonable" bus fare, but it may be found that the "old reliable figgers" will show that a 25-cent fare is just as reasonable under Traction Conference Board jurisdiction as the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company now appears able to prove it to be. How much the parent of the Motor Coach Company is involved in this, however, and how much its grand and great-grandparent, and numerous brothers, uncles and cousins, is something that Old Man Figgers has a faculty of veiling.

It is certain figures would never show the real reason why the Byllesby buses must charge a quarter for service that is duplicated here by the Oriole buses for 15 cents.

It begins to appear that the place where Pittsburgh must seek for relief is not in the Traction Conference Board or the Pittsburgh Railways headquarters, but in Harrisburg. We have the buses saddled upon us, using our streets, not by our own consent, but by that of the state, through the Public Service Commission, which, as The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph once before noted, knows who its masters are.

In such an important matter as local transportation, the city of Pittsburgh, not the Public Service Commission, should have the controlling voice. And not through any dubious agreement whereby it is suffered to make a gesture at control.

Perhaps we are pessimistic. The reason is that if the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company were independent of the Pittsburgh Railways Company and stood a chance of becoming a real competitor of it there is small likelihood there would be reasonable cause for complaint about bus fares.

Tales That Are Told

Used to the Game

A WEALTHY widow, contemplating a vacation abroad, advertised for a caretaker during her absence.

After interviewing several applicants, she found one whom she thought would give complete satisfaction.

"Thanks for givin' me the job, ma'am," said the successful one. "And may I ask a question? You stated in your advertisement that you required a married man. Does that mean there is work for my wife, too?"

"Oh, no," replied his prospective employer; "I wanted to make sure of getting someone used to taking orders from a woman, that's all."

Like Lightning

MRS. MURPHY, whose youngest son was soldiering in India, had just received a cablegram from him saying he would be coming home on leave.

Greatly excited, she ran in next door to her neighbor and imparted the wonderful news.

In the course of conversation Mrs. Casey picked up the cablegram which her neighbor had dropped on the floor.

"Wonderful quick things, these be, ain't they?" she observed.

"Indade they are," agreed the excited mother. "Quick ain't the word for it. Why, to be sure, the gum ain't dry yet what's on the envelope."

Her Way Out

LITTLE Mary had won a scholarship and was telling her mother about the papers.

The subject for the essay had been "How I Spend My Saturday Morning," and after discoursing on minding the baby, helping mother wash up, and so on, Mary ended with the amazing statement: "And then I usually play a game of chess with my brother."

"Chess!" repeated her mother in amazement. "But you can't play chess!"

"I know," agreed the little girl; "I wanted to put dominoes, but I couldn't spell it."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

A GIRL has got to make a pretty tough decision sometimes, but generally she decides she'd better marry him anyhow. Well, when it comes to deciding between a guy that holds onto the nickels and one that spends money like an oil can, what's a girl going to do? Course, what they really do is some of them marry one and others marry the other, but it's a tough decision to make.

A kinda nice fellow named Sandy MacLiesh was courting a girl, and her folks were all for him, because he was building up a good business. But he never bought the poor girl an ice cream soda or anything, and she was pretty sore at him, especially because there was another guy after her that bought her everything in sight and drove a dandy car mighty fast.

But Sandy put up a fine argument to the girl, and it sounded pretty reasonable.

After he'd told her all about his business, he says "An ye ken, lass, it's nae sae bad to marry a mon that cares for the money."

"You're right, Sandy," she says, "but pretty dumb to be engaged to. I'll tell you what we'll do. I'll be engaged to Harry, the spendthrift for a year, and then marry you all of a sudden."

EVERY little while I have my face lifted.

No, I do not go to a plastic surgeon. My original corduroy contours are still intact. I refer to quite another kind of lift.

A mental face lifting. Every little while I have my mental face lifted.

I'll be jogging along comfortably, taking life easy. Then suddenly some day I'll realize that there's something wrong. Things will begin to get my goat. I'll find myself getting cranky and intolerant. I'll begin to talk about the Good Old Times and knock "new-fangled ideas!" I'll catch myself looking back and wallowing in a lot of old grief. I'll get edgy if anyone suggests doing anything new. I'll find that I'm suspicious and resentful of new ideas.

In short, I'll realize that I've been getting set in my ways and it's time to have my face lifted again, for the old map has slumped. Slumped into puckers of intolerance, flabby folds of laziness, mean little lumps of conceit. My mental muscles have grown soft or stringy. They're making me unfit for the brisk business of living. I need to take up the slack.

So I have my mental face lifted. But that's a lot harder job than going to a plastic surgeon. Almost any good beauty tailor can take a seam in your physiognomy, but you're the only specialist who can take a reef in your spirit and tighten up your sagging attitude.

There are a good many ways of going at it—but they're all hard. Generally I start by looking up the people who I know will disagree with me. And letting them disagree. I trot out my pet notions and let my friends and relations tramp on them. As tramping on pet notions is the best thing friends and relations generally like to do, I get a lot of co-operation.

I take up some new work—something that will make me hustle for fresh ideas. I break up my old program. I try to root out all the old, easy, flattering habits that have been making me soft.

Gradually I get back into shape again, just as an athlete gets back into training. I find that my attitude is flexible once more. I can think with a wallop. The lard is melting away from my brain. There's a new glow of sympathy and understanding in my imagination. The puckers and wrinkles of intolerance and conceit have smoothed out a bit.

Of course, they never disappear entirely. I always retain my share of human cussedness. But I am able to make a fresh start now and then—and that's something.

I think that goes for most of us. We start out with a fairly good set of ideas and habits and think they will last our life out. But they won't. They go soft on us—just as sagging muscles go soft on us. We develop a lot of surplus fat and slack. We need to have our mental faces lifted every so often if we want to keep up with the parade.

THE SAPIN

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE characteristic evergreen tree of Eastern France is the sapin (fir), tall, straight, with horizontal branches symmetrically distributed from base to summit of the pillar-like trunks, and with leaf-fringed twigs depending thickly from the branches in graceful green fringes, which when infused with sunshine often shine with a golden hue. The fragrant carpet of ripe leaves that forms under a group or row of sapins is finer and softer than an oriental rug. Every year adds to its thickness. If allowed to do so, the trees up to a considerable age, grow lower branches close to the ground, and even very old trees spread their drooping lowest branches around their base like great tents, under which a large party can find refuge from a shower and a delightful retreat on a hot sunny day.

When growing crowded in a forest, sapins gradually lose their lower branches, and then the tall trunks rise like thousands of beautiful pillars supporting the room of green high overhead. At the age of two or three centuries these trees, with trunks sometimes between three and four feet in diameter, have lost all their branches except those forming a crown or tuft at the top, often lifted 150 feet in the air. The family relationship of the sapin to the sequoia is a sufficient assurance of its aspiring and long-lived quality.

It is in the Jura Mountains that the sapin reaches, perhaps, its greatest glory, although it is also abundant and very grand in the Vosges. In the French Jura canyons fully one-third of the superficies of the land is covered with forest, and although there are beeches, oaks, lindens and maples, yet it is the sapin that rules, and the region contains the finest "sapiniere" of France—one of its richest natural treasures.

The region where the sapin "reigns in uncontested mastery" is barometrically limited, being determined by the elevation above sea level. Its boundaries lie roughly between 600 and 900 meters (say 2,000 and 3,000 feet.) Below that elevation it shares the ground with oaks, beeches and maples, but within its own special precincts it "tolerates little beside the beech." So says a French writer.

Above the elevation of 900 meters the sapin gives place to the epicea (Norway pine), which rules the crests. But the undiscouraged, friendly beech continues and foregathers with the epiceas also. The heart of the sapin region is covered by the great state forest of La Joux, containing about 6,600 acres. Some have called it the most magnificient forest in Europe. In it stands a giant sapin named "The President," whose trunk is 15 feet in circumference at the height of a man's eye, while according to measurements it contains a million and a quarter cubic feet of wood and its age is estimated to be not less than 270 years.

The cutting of the trees is, of course, under official direction. The hard wood trees only are cut for firewood and certain structural uses. The sapins are reserved for special purposes. No nation could afford to burn up its rapidly inflammable resinous trees. The cut wood is divided into lots for selling and the purchasers buy by auction. M. Leopold Reverchon gives an amusing account of the way these auctions are conducted:

"The administration fixes a value on each lot which is not given out to the prospective purchasers. On putting up a lot, the crier begins with a sale figure two or three times that fixed by the administration. The shrewd bidders are alert, not a voice is heard. The crier then lowers the price by a fixed scale. When he reaches a figure that is deemed suitable some dealer cries 'Prend' (take) and the lot is adjudged to the first who speaks."

Bible Passages

Vows Unto God

(Ecclesiastes 5: 1-7.)

KEEP thy foot when thou goest to the house of God, and be more ready to hear, than to give the sacrifice of fools: for they consider not that they do evil.

Be not rash with thy mouth, and let not thine heart be hasty to utter anything before God: for God is in heaven, and thou upon earth: therefore let thy words be few.

For a dream cometh through the multitude of business; and a fool's voice is known by multitude of words.

When thou vowest a vow unto God, defer not to pay it; for he hath no pleasure in fools: pay that which thou hast vowed.

Better is it that thou shouldest not vow, than that thou shouldest vow and not pay.

Suffer not thy mouth to cause thy flesh to sin; neither say thou before the angel, that it was an error: wherefore should God be angry at thy voice, and destroy the work of thine hands?

For in the multitude of dreams and many words there are also divers vanities: but fear thou God.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

When Men Go Hence

WHEN man goes hence his good or ill
Lives on, a potent factor still.
By every deed which he has done
Some thread of good or evil spun
In life's vast fabric keeps its place,
Sets there its dark or shining trace;
A mood as fleeting as the wind
Can leave a changeless mark behind.
So with the years we learn at last
To build for an undying past,
And find that he who least possessed
May sometimes leave a rare bequest.

Isn't It So?

The man who has no faith in human nature is not to be trusted.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—New York somehow provides a perfect background for a sucker. The immensity of the city gives them a chance to strut. Men known for their perfect family fireside manners in their home towns often come here, and before they know it have slipped a cog.

Sometimes they have scarcely registered at their hotel before they begin wondering how in the world they can keep their names out of the tabloids. One crisp and sunny morning this fall three anxious gentlemen scurried to private detective agencies, covered with mortification and cold sweat.

Each had lost wallets containing valuable papers after driving through the park with a lady. They had been in town less than 24 hours and in unguarded moments fell for one of the ancient tricks—a coyly dropped handkerchief and a demure smile.

Most of these victims are far removed from the Broadway classification of "sap." They are the tired cavaliers of commerce who have merely been touched by the city's spirit of gaiety and indulged a foolish lark. And find themselves suddenly jockeyed into a dangerous and expensive cul de sac.

There are police records of more than 20,000 women who manage to live quite comfortably by lying in wait for the stranger and adroitly turning a pick-up acquaintance into a profitable adventurer. They are the fine feathered sort with a veneer of refinement that is disarming.

Their vanity cases conceal no "knockout drops" or other such crudities. They have well appointed apartments in select neighborhoods and even intimates often do not know of their subtle methods of capitalizing their charms. They are the female gleaners along the way that is white.

In the intimacy of a cab they will "lift a leather," for they know the visiting firemen will rarely squawk. The next most popular gesture is to inspire a lovey-dovey note. Cleverly handled, this becomes a polite form of blackmail that may pay the rent for quite a spell.

Experts in blackmail say in almost every instance a blackmailing bluff can be called. Once the affair is turned over to the police, blackmailing ladies lose all interest. They take no chances on those who fight back. They know there are enough boobs to go around who will not.

The low numbered automobile license plate is big league stuff—the grand gesture—in this town. It is associated with a political pull or an intimate friendship with the police commissioner and wins the breaks for an after-theater getaway, right-of-way in traffic jams and especial parking privileges. Doubtless a few city officials are entitled to them, but many others do not rate the distinction. They are frequently displayed by actors, theatrical producers, so-called merchant princes and others who bear the evanescent tag of celebrity. It it a form of cheap favoritism displayed toward those who have no more right to them than the ordinary tax-paying worm who meekly awaits his turn. Gr-rr-r-r!

The low numbered auto license is just another example of Manhattan's inordinate vanity—its unceasing desire to be what it is not. I wish I had one.

Cherry Hill, one of the city's reputed toughest spots, was once a scene of idyllic peace—a Pomander walk, where came strolling lovers hand in hand, where fat burghers sat in elbow chairs for comfortable naps, etc. Even its name came from the fragrance of its cherry orchards. Today a decrepit civilization lives on the ruins of a departed aristocracy of something swell sounding like that.

Four of New York's most recent debutantes are accomplished saxophone players. It used to be the only person who played a saxophone was the black-face comedian. He came on with one around his neck, hung his overcoat on an imaginary nail, took off six vests and then started to render "Asleep in the Deep." He never entirely finished it, for in the midst of his deepest note the straight man came along to bestow a resounding kick in the crupper. And they snapped into a dance.

CRADLE EQUIPMENT

By Herbert Kaufman

RED flags are just as stylish hereabouts as red flannels. Prosperity doesn't feel the itch of discontent.

The latest spelling of bolshevism omits the l.

Successful democracy refuses to march under the auction banners of political bankruptcy.

Esau minorities shan't drive pottage pot deals for this country—not while Lincoln's passkey and Carnegie's chances and Edison's opportunities are standard equipment with every cradle.

If you expect wider charters of liberty in birth certificates and naturalization papers, take the next train to Utopia (which, incidentally, isn't located in Europe).

The Constitution ringingly answers its critics with the world's best balance sheet and highest average income; a school desk for every child and the freest press on earth; automobiles for day laborers and telephones and sanitary plumbing in mechanics' homes.

And nobody has yet shown a better line of goods for the same money.

We haven't attained perfection in government but we are giving the individual a squarer deal and a fairer show than any contemporary system.

There are no millennial brains among our statesmen, jurists or legislators, but they did manage to erase breadlines from recent history.

We're building no soup kitchens, the most hospitals and the fewest almshouses.

Fast-disappearing slums don't total five per cent of the occupied areas—and that's the champion record of civilization.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

A LADY who loves to give big parties, with just endless strings of people coming in and going out, gave one a few nights ago. A couple arriving late met their hostess, who, taken up with so many details of such a big party, couldn't know that they were just arriving, so she gave them a fond goodnight and said she hoped they had enjoyed the party and would come again.

A Chicago man's family lives in Pee Wee Valley, Ky. His mother didn't exactly like voting because the polling place was in the jail. But when she got there, considering it her civic duty to vote, she came out of the polling place, handed her ballot to a judge standing nearby and asked sweetly, "What do I have to do to vote the Democratic ticket?"

Peggy is as bright as she is pretty, and, talking with a young man the other night, she informed him: "Well, I may not be a one-man-woman, but I certainly am a one-woman-man woman."

And aren't we all?

An Arkansas girl told me that she and her mother lived in the community so long they loved everybody in the town. So when two men they knew ran for the same office this year, they just decided to go to the polls and one vote for one of them, and the other vote for the second man. "Then," argued Daisy, "there won't be any partiality shown, and we will feel better about it."

"Oh, don't you remember me?" said a lady, calling up an old friend in New York. "I am Susie Gray who later became Mrs. Harris and then married Sam Reichman and am now Mrs. Louis Hartung."

THEN he remembered

Three women set out from Washington, D. C., and motored to California to find husbands. They ask for men who are kindly, truthful, good natured, honorable, non-smoking, non-drinking, and don't philander.

California has a great reputation for delivering the goods, but here's a poser. To get what they are after, they will have to climb the golden stairs. Even the old statement, that marriages are made in Heaven is pretty well perforated.

"What can you call a girl besides 'phrail' or 'doll'," asked a young man.

"Well, there's nestling, sapling, kitten, nymph, hoyden and papoose."

You're welcome.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

DON'T be misled by the oversympathetic person.

Usually such persons are deceitful.

As an individual he wants to impress you with his or her interest, to a greater degree than exists.

Perhaps it is to gain facts from you that you might give more easily to one who extended evidence of great sympathy.

Words of sympathy are the cheapest thing one can give.

They cost nothing and if backed by action are comforting.

But when it is just words and more words, with no effort to do anything practical to alleviate the suffering, look for a motive.

There is more in a friendly handclasp than in a volume of sympathetic words, and nothing else.

Too many are willing to call over the telephone and with perfunctory expressions give a lukewarm expression of sympathy.

Too few come with an offer of whatever it is in their power to do.

The latter are the real friends, kind and to be relied upon.

However, kind words are not to be despised when more is neither possible nor to be permitted, but to give away your whole family affairs and private business in exchange for sympathy is an indication of weakness.
